GAELIC WHISKY.

CITY ANALYST'S LABORATORY,
138 Bath Street
GLASGOW, 2nd July, 1900.

Half-Yearly Report on the Stirling Bonding Company's Gaelic Whisky:—

I hereby certify that I have made a minute and exhaustive analysis of a fair sample of the Stirling Bonding Company's "Gaelic Whisky" taken by myself from a very large stock in cases lying ready for shipment, and I find that it is a pure, high-class Whisky of a mild and very fine flavor, and I am of opinion that it is well matured, of considerable age, and of the same excellent quality as the samples of the Gaelic Blend which I have tested half-yearly for the last 14 years.

Public Analyst for the City of Glasgow and the Counties of Lanark and Renfrew, &c.

CHAMBERLAIN SPEAKS.

Says That the Boers Were Misled by "Little Englanders."

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Joseph Chamberlain made the first speech of his campaign at Birmingham.

Six thousand persons, all with him, applauded his long speech, which was devoted entirely to the Boer war and sarcastic ridicule of the Lib rals, whom he called "Little Englanders."

"Now that the end of the war has practically come," he said, "for only guerilla warfare is left, encouraged by—I was going to call them traitors, but I will say instead—misguided individuals at home, we have to make a settlement worthy of the sacrifices incurred. We must quench the embers of war and bring together the two races in order to punish the guilty and reward the loyal."

"The Boers were misled all through—misled because they were told that in the event of hostilities the foreign powers would support them. They were told by Englishmen that this country was divided in opinion, that they could rely on the Opposition, and only to manage their business properly in order to give another fall to 'Master Joe.'"

"I believe the war could have been avoided if we could only have persuaded Kruger in time that we were in earnest. That was my object; that is why I told him what I did, and never regretted it."

Mr. Chamberlain challenged the Liberals to point out a single provocative word in the despatches exchanged during the ante-war negotiations. He charged the Boers with having broken every pledge and every promise made to the British, and declared that they had long been planning to kick the English out of South Africa.

BLANCHE.

'Tis likely we shall never meet again—
Never again 'tis likely I shall view
Another woman with so sweet a nature
As that with which thou hast been charming me,
And I may see not her, except in dream:
Would thou wert but an angel of the fairy,
Delighting me one moment, and the next
Evanescing without a sigh from me!

Believe that oft in all the summer hours
That are to come, my memory shall be Back in these summer moments passing now—
Shall watch the joy that, like the setting sun,
Is dying, dying on this summer eve.
As peaceful as the stars of summer nights
In dreams I'll see thine innocent bright eyes—
Clear eyes, dear eyes, true eyes, so like a child's—
Through which is peeping a sweet woman's soul.
(Some say that Heaven shines behind the stars!),
And though I'll sigh with tender thoughts
I, too,
Shall sigh to think my dreams are only dreams.
I only hope I shall not sigh too deeply!
Ah, I am always, always looking back
At the departing lights of life as they Recede far, far away, and farther, while My barque is floating forth into the future.
So, through long years, long years, I will gaze back Towards these present hours that beam with Blanche.

NOTES AT SYDNEY.

American Miners Engaged at Big Wages—Big Steamers Preferred—Schooners Have to Wait.

Everything is booming in the Sydneys, and things look bright for the island of Cape Breton.

The mining companies have sent agents to the States to engage from four to six thousand coal cutters at any pay possible. The miners are very much in it here. They make from $100 to $150 per month, and still we see great shafts being sunk in order to treble the output next year.

Steamers are loading every day with from 5,000 to 10,000 tons each. But schooners can't get any without weeks of waiting. This is the most unfair matter that can at all be, as most of our schooner men are poor men and live right amongst us in the Maritime Provinces with families dependant upon them for the summer's work; and they are lying here idle waiting weeks and weeks for a few tons of coal. This state of affairs will drive our schooners out of trade altogether, and as they get old their owners will have to go to something else for a living. We will then suffer for coal, &c. The newspapers should take this up and ask for legislation for our rights in this matter. Three and four large steamers leave here daily with coal.

I had to take a coal train from Glace Bay to Sydney last week and came through the various mining sections—Lingan, Caledonia, Bridgeport, Reserre, Dominion No. 1 and 2. We had on our train 2,000 tons of coal in 60 cars drawn by an 80 ton locomotive owned by the Dominion Coal Company.

French Village Notes.

The people of this section have finished their harvest which was as good as the average yield.

Miss Maimie McCormack is spending her vacation with friends in this section.

The concert held at French Village school on the 24th inst., proved to be a very enjoyable affair. The vocal music, which was excellent, was furnished by Mr. Hugh McKay, Miss Mary E. Feehan and Miss Sarah McKinnon; the recitations by Miss Maggie Piggott and little Sarah McAulay were fine and were highly appreciated by the audience. The cakes were auctioned by Mr. Joseph Doyle, and these ready responses which he met with were strong evidence of beauty and decorations of the pie. The total amount realized was $34.06 and will go towards furnishing the school.
