THE MAGDALEN SERVICE.

LATEST advices from the Magdalens report the steamer Lusenburg, which has been on that route under the new contracts made by Maitre Tante this summer, to have made her last scheduled trip and the last absolutely for the season,—if the Government does not come to the aid of those isolated islands. Despite Mr. Tarte's declaration—when he landed there last year, flying the tricolor of France from his mast head—that the old service of the St. Olaf was behind the time and that he would engineer a new contract which would put those poor Islanders in touch oftener and longer in the season at better rates for travel and freight this new contract has been a curse to the Islands. A much inferior boat—"an old tub," writes a correspondent—was put on the route all the year, and now without doubt she will lay up if she can and leave those four thousand Magdalener from December 20th till May 20th with out communication. This is too bad. In accordance with the wish of the people down there, we protest most energetically against such treatment. We know what it is ourselves to be shut out from the world for even a few days. We should lend our influence to shorten the months of the exclusion of the Magdalens from all privileges of communication. If there is nothing else for The Stanley to do surely she could make several trips to the isolated islands before the ice becomes heavy enough to be a hindrance to any ordinary ocean boat. Let Mr. Lemieux, M P. for Gaspe and the Magdalens, whisper a word into his friend Tarte's ear, and, tricolor or not on high, the Stanley will be ordered to go to the relief of the neglected islands in a jiffy.

—Dr Leyds declares that the Boers are abundantly supplied with food, with rifles and with ammunition of all kinds.

—The Mail and Empire remarks that among the offers of military service which are pouring in from all parts of the Empire there is none which will give Her Majesty more pride than that of the loyal Six Nations Indians, Fine soldiers the noble red men make. Everybody who saw the two companies of them at Niagara last summer was impressed with their splendid physique and warlike appearance. As scouts or as skirmishers the active and daring braves would be splendid auxiliaries.

—In Paris on the 23rd inst., a pro-Boer meeting ended in a riot. The Socialists entered in force and broke up the meeting, amid indescribable uproar and shouts of "Vive la Social Revolution!" and "A bas Deroulede!" with counter cries of "Vive Deroulede!" and "Vive l'Armee!" Several Nationalist Deputies who were present endeavoured to speak, but they were quite inaudible. A free fight ensued, and the proprietor of the hall turned off the gas. The combatants lighted newspapers and continued the fight, smashing the fittings of the hall and using them as weapons. Finally the police cleared the room, but they were compelled to charge several times before order was re established.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

—Recruiting offices have been opened at Toronto, Kingston and Hamilton. It is said that over 500 men, partly artillery and partly cavalry, have already been enrolled at Toronto. Eighty artillerymen at Kingston have been examined and declared fit.

—In the five months ending 30th of November, the imports of Canada amounted in value to nearly $10,000,000 more than of the corresponding period of last year. Additions to the prices of food, is, without doubt, largely the cause of this increase. In any case the expansion is greater than it ought to be. If the pace should be kept up there will be a collapse, ere long.

—Col. Long, whose guns were lost, finds a friendly defender in the New York Commercial Advertiser. He should not be blamed, says that paper, for the loss His guns were not powerful enough to reach the enemy from the safe shelter of infantry support, since the Boer guns were of greater range. His advantage from this shelter was a desperate attempt to overcome the shortcomings of equipment by self sacrificing heroism.

—The St. John Telegraph remarks that the Russians were almost five months in reducing Plevna, they were repulsed with heavy loss in many assaults, but we are not aware that the prestige of the Russian soldier was in any way diminished by these failures. So it will be with the British army; the repulse at the Tugela river will merely become one of the incidents of the campaign which will be half forgotten when the war is brought to a triumphant close.

—The London correspondent of the New York Sun says: "The War Office authorities seem to be at last convinced that war will last far longer than was at first expected. They have placed with one firm in London a contract for 10,000 tons of fodder, the delivery to begin in South Africa during the first week in March. Similar contracts have probably been made elsewhere, showing that the War Office is preparing for a continuance of the war until well along in the summer.

—A correspondent enquires whether or not Hon. Fred Peters can assume the Attorney-Generalship of this moribund Farquharson Government without going to the people, as he went to the people before, as Attorney-General, and was returned. If he had remained a member of the government and had gone all around the compass of portfolios, our correspondent says he could come back and be Attorney-General now. This is no doubt correct. But Mr. Peters resigned the Cabinet seat, and that ought to preclude his assuming office again without answering to his electors. At all events, the government which has to make such arrangements is in sorry straits. Mr. Farquharson had better harken to the will of the people. He will fall all the harder at the last.

—In connection with the sending out of the colonial contingents, the Tasmanian Minister of Education has directed the head masters of the public schools to direct the pupils' attention to the following points:

1. The federal character of the event, Tasmania and Australia being united as one people, and all together associated with the Mother Country, thus displaying the grand unity of the British Empire.
2. The fact that Tasmanian troops are now for the first time taking part with the sister colonies in war.
3. The reason why England is now at war with the Boers.
4. The hope that the war will result in securing for all European peoples within the Transvaal such political and civic privileges as the Boers themselves are allowed in the British colonies in South Africa.
5. The evidence this movement has given of the unswerving and enthusiastic loyalty of the people of Tasmania and her sister colonies to the great Empire to which we belong, and to the throne and person of our Most Gracious Sovereign the Queen.

NEWS NOTES

The British steamer Arioso lies wrecked six miles south of Hatteras, North Carolina.

The British warship Cressy, which was launched recently, is a new type of cruiser for the navy, for in addition to a steel protective deck like all the commerce protectors built since the Hamilton programme of 1889, she has a six inch belt of Harveyized steel. It is about the size of the Diadem, and will be as fast, but on a draught of 26 feet 3 inches it will displace 12,000 tons—that is 1,000 tons more. The belt is 230 feet long, extending from five feet below the load water line to six feet and a half above it, and ending 120 feet from the bow and 90 feet from the stern in the thwartship bulkheads five inches in thickness. In the matter of armament the resemblance is more to the bigger cruisers now at the Cape—the Powerful and the Terrible.
