Rural Exhibition Proves Great Success At Crapaud

All attendance records for a rural agricultural show were shattered at Crapaud Provincial Exhibition held yesterday. The show which was inaugurated last year, far outclassed the previous year's show both in the number and quality of exhibits as well as the large crowd that came from almost all parts of the Province. The exhibition was officially opened by Hon. Eugene Cullen, Minister of Agriculture, who said that his department was proud to be associated with an effort which has shown such remarkable achievement. The livestock exhibit, he said was on a par with any Maritime show and many of the animals were well qualified to show at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto. He said it was a credit to both the officials of the Exhibition and to the exhibitors. Mr. Cullen noted the trend among island farmers to switch to beef breeds of cattle. While he made it clear that it was not the policy of the Agriculture Department to advise breeders what type of cattle they should raise, it would be unwise, in his opinion, for farmers to discard their dairy herds which he believed to be the backbone of agriculture in the Province. Mr. Max Thompson, president of the Crapaud Exhibition Association, acted as chairman for the opening ceremonies and introduced the speakers, including Mr. S. C. Wright, Deputy Minister of Agriculture; Mr. Angus MacLean, M. P. for Queens County; Mr. L. W. Roper, senior livestock fieldman with the Federal Department of Agriculture. All classes of livestock including horses, cattle, swine and poultry were well filled and the quality in each case was of a very high calibre. Most noteworthy in the number of entries was seen in the horses where 87 animals were shown. Mr. Stanley Mayhew of Kinkora exhibited 17. The best horse in the show was owned by Mr. Clifford Sherren of Hampton. CATTLE Lank Bros. of West Royalty made a clean sweep of championships in the Red Poll Class, taking the junior and senior male and female championships as well as the male and female grand championships. George Nicholson of Crapaud took a first prize with his yearling calf and was in the money in several other sections of the show. JERSEYS George MacMillan of Cornwall had the grand champion Jersey Bull at the show and Jim Vickerson of North River had the grand champion female. Reserve grand male was shown by Fred Kitson while George MacMillan had the reserve grand female. Junior male and female championships went to Fred Kitson. Reserve junior championship to Bruce MacDonald, North Wilshire and reserve junior female championship to Jim Vickerson. Albert Stetson of Freetown took first place in the two year old heifer class. HEREFORD AND ANGUS The two beef breeds of Hereford and Angus were shown together and made it a difficult selection for the judge, Fulton Sanderson, North River. Mr. Sanderson expressed the opinion that in future Continued on page 2, Col. 4

Rival To Crusoe

Mental Patient Lives In Bush

EDMONTON (CP)—A story of an escaped mental patient—a fugitive believed dead who lived alone for 18 months in dense bush, afraid to light a fire in winter lest he be found—was disclosed Wednesday. The Journal says the man was captured and returned to Ponoka mental hospital last week. His ingenuity was such that he had fashioned a rifle and revolver, and lathe and a grinding mill from old auto and tractor parts he found while in hiding. His capture left police with a new mystery: Who was the man in the haystack? Shortly after the mental patient escaped, a man's body was found in a burned haystack. It was believed to be that of the patient and the case was closed.

RIVALS CRUSOE STORY

The Journal story says in part: "A story to rival the classical tale of Robinson Crusoe is the one about a 51-year-old patient of the Ponoka mental hospital who escaped nearly 18 months ago and has been living alone in the wilderness, feeding on what the forest could provide and what he could find by prowling farmyards at night. ... Following the discovery of the man's summer sleeping place—a mound of straw covered with tree limbs and burlap sacks—farmers of the district began exploring the area. ... They found well-travelled paths leading from his longed place to his unique and ingeniously-constructed grinding mill, lathe and kitchen. ... Other paths were found leading off the main tracks in dozens of directions. ... Another trail led to an ingenious lathe with which he had fashioned two guns, a rifle and a revolver from old pieces of farm machinery—including a plow share, parts of engine blocks, motor valves and crank shafts. ... The man came to Canada from Europe many years ago, and was a trained machinist."

5-Year Term For Robbery

SAINT JOHN, N. B. (CP)—The armed robber who was the subject of a week long manhunt following last Tuesday's $5,600 robbery of the Toronto-Dominion bank at nearby Lancaster, was sentenced to five years in penitentiary Wednesday. Ernest C. Hollands, 24, of Ottawa, pleaded "guilty" when he appeared before Magistrate W. R. Tippet. He will serve his sentence at Dorchester, N.B. Hollands was picked up in a three province dragnet in Quebec when his new car stalled on the highway. He was returned here Wednesday morning and after a long-distance telephone call to his parents entered a guilty plea.

FREE ONE WEEK

Just a week from the day he walked into the Lancaster robbery and pulled off the daylight bank, Hollands was apprehended. "I had no intention of hurting anyone. I said I would shoot, I was more or less bluffing." He told bank manager Carl H. Seip: "If I'd known what kind of a man you were I'd have tried to rob the bank across the street. You didn't do anything I told you." A branch of the bank of Nova Scotia is across the street. When arrested Hollands was carrying $500 and he mailed $2,500 to a relative in Ottawa. He had purchased the new car in Nova Scotia. He has a previous police record and four aliases.

Sultan Intends To Defy France

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—Sultan Mohammed V. of Morocco's top adviser said Wednesday night the sultan intends to stay on the throne in defiance of indicated French efforts to depose him. The sultan balked against French plans at the Aix-les-Bains conference last week to ease him out of the French strait in the Moroccan Sahara. Abdur Rahman el Hajouli, the sultan's vizier of protocol, told a reporter: "His Majesty considers that he has a divine mission to perform and he intends to perform it to the very end."

Egyptians Make Reprisal Raid

TEL AVIV, Israeli (Reuters)—An Israeli army spokesman early today announced a "reprisal raid" against Egyptian forces in the Gaza strip area. The spokesman said an Israeli force attacked an Egyptian camp at Khan Yunis, a town south of Gaza, situated three miles from the border of Israel's Negev. He claimed Egyptian raiders who had penetrated into Israel this week and killed 15 persons were from the Khan Yunis camp.

Noted Educationist At Teachers' Meetings

At the local conventions of teachers held throughout the Province this week and next in construction in the teaching of English language will be given by Mr. T. Roy Hall, a former Principal of the Vancouver Normal School. Mr. Hall, now living in retirement at White Rock, B.C., is a co-author of the "Language Journeys" for Grades 3-8. The books for Grades 7 and 8 in this series is authorized for use in this Province. Mr. Hall's services have been made available through the courtesy of the Macmillan Company of Canada, publishers of this series of language textbooks. Born in Sheet Harbour, Nova Scotia, Mr. Hall attended the local school and went on to Dalhousie University for a degree in Arts. Like many other young people from the Maritime Provinces he went to British Columbia where he soon gained recognition as a teacher and administrator. Following a period of teaching in both elementary and secondary schools (including principalship in both fields), he was appointed an Inspector of Schools. Later he joined the staff of the Vancouver Normal School and eventually became its principal. He has done post-graduate work in education at the University of British Columbia and Columbia University, New York and has written several text-books in the field of English Language. Mr. Hall expresses great admiration of the men and women from this Province who have contributed to educational development in British Columbia as teachers and administrators. He is a speaker on Thursday morning at Mount Stewart and in the afternoon at Souris. On Friday he will speak at Hunter River and Summerside. He will spend the Labor Day week-end with his son who is a medical doctor in Halifax.

Critical Of Immigration Procedures

OTTAWA (CP)—A report criticizing some Canadian immigration procedures and urging changes was accepted Wednesday with quiet unanimity by the civil liberties section of the Canadian Bar Association. At its conclusion, Ottawa lawyer Redmond Quain, who presented it, said that in making the report the sub-committee of which he is chairman was not attacking any government. It was interested only in protection of civil liberties. Mr. Quain said the report is important because it deals with the rights of individuals. All Canadians were subject to the same procedures when they went abroad and then wanted to return home. The sub-committee is the same, except for personnel changes, as the one which last year stirred up a storm by criticizing immigration procedures. A member of the original group, John Dickey, Halifax lawyer and parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, resigned from the sub-committee group when its report became a parliamentary issue. SEEK CODIFIC ACTION The sub-committee Wednesday urged that immigration department regulations be codified. "A statement of policy by the minister," it said, "has been relied upon as a basis for admission or rejection of an application for admission, whereas this basis should be found in the (immigration) act and the regulations." In cases of hearings abroad, such as those at Hong Kong where Continued on page 2, Col. 9

Sask. Police Press Hunt For Slayer Of Family

By DON HANRIGHT Canadian Press Staff Writer MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—The hunt for the slayer of a family of five on a rural Saskatchewan farm was intensified Wednesday night as police advanced their search for a possible motive for the mass slaying. Wanted for questioning is John Petlock, 36-year-old itinerant farmer, believed to have been the last person to see the victims alive. The first solid clue in the search was uncovered Wednesday when a late-model automobile owned by Michael Petlock, brother of John Petlock and one of the five slain, was found abandoned on a Regina street 90 miles southwest of Fennwood, 22 miles west of here. The car was seen in the yard of the Petlock farm home on the outskirts of Fennwood Monday. Killed, apparently by bullets from a .22-calibre rifle, were Michael Petlock, 34; Mrs. Harry Petlock, 72, mother of John and Michael; Michael's wife, Angeline, 21; and their two children, Diane, 3, and Michaela, 1. John Petlock, missing from his home here since Monday, is sought because he is believed to have visited the Petlock farm that day, police said. The quiet, bespectacled farmer told his wife he was going stooking but he did not return home. RCMP said he probably is armed and possibly dangerous. The Petlock house had been ransacked. A sum of money was missing and police, noting stories current in the town that the Petlocks hoarded their savings at home, said it was possible theft prompted the mass slaying. Police said the two women had been shot from close range while picking potatoes. They said Michael apparently was not at home but the killer stood on a chair in the kitchen awaiting his entry. Michael was shot through the head as he came through the kitchen door. Police said that only examination by RCMP experts could determine how the other four persons were shot. A .22-calibre rifle known to have been in the house was missing.

Bombs Explode As Status Of Cyprus Is Pondered

LONDON (Reuters)—Bombs exploded in Cyprus Wednesday as top British, Greek and Turkish diplomats again sat down here to thrash out the future of the troubled British Mediterranean colony, an island bastion in the NATO defence chain. The three-power London conference, which opened Monday, heard Foreign Minister Stephen Stephanopoulos back the demand for "self-determination" for the 500,000 people of Cyprus, about 80 per cent of whom are of Greek ancestry. As the statesmen met, a bomb, believed planted by the Eoka underground terrorist organization in Cyprus, burst in the backyard of the Nicosia divisional police headquarters. The building is the nerve centre of the anti-terrorist campaign. The blast ripped a hole in the wall of the criminal exhibits building. RADIO STATION BLAST A second bomb exploded in the radio station library of the radio station, two miles outside Nicosia, causing considerable damage. But, broadcasting was not interrupted. A news bulletin went on the air a few minutes later, reporting the blast and discovery of another unexploded bomb in a broadcasting studio. Responsible Greek Cypriot leaders who back wholeheartedly the campaign for "enosis" (union with Greece) have nevertheless condemned terrorist tactics. There were no casualties in either explosion. Security precautions were tightened Wednesday night at police headquarters and at the government-run broadcast-

Not Certain Nuclear Blast Won't Blow Up World

BRISTOL, England (AP)—A leading British scientist warned Wednesday night that no one knows just how big a nuclear explosion is needed to blow up the world. Sir Robert Robinson, president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, called for an international conference of scientists to find out if there is a ceiling limit beyond which man should not meddle with the elements. "Do we really know enough about nuclear reactions to be sure there is no loophole?" Robinson asked the association's annual meeting. Robinson, winner of the Nobel Prize in chemistry in 1947, said ordinary atomic explosions are used to touch off hydrogen explosions. Now "the H-bomb in its turn can initiate a vastly greater uranium explosion," but physicists insist they can keep it all under control. CAUSE CHAIN FIRE? "An ordinary scientist cannot help wondering whether every possibility of setting fire to the lighter elements has quite certainly been excluded if nuclear relay is taken to further stages." What must be checked, Sir Robinson insisted, is whether every pos-

Ottawa Says Several Plans Are Considered

OTTAWA, (CP)—There is a possibility that the Dominion-Provincial tax rental agreements may come to an end in 1957, it was learned Wednesday. However, this is only one possible solution to the sharing of taxation among the federal and provincial governments now being discussed by federal authorities. The officials said several schemes are being "kicked around" in preparation for the Dominion-provincial fiscal conference here starting Oct. 3. All provinces except Quebec now rent their income and corporation tax fields to the central government in return for certain grants, and all but Quebec and Ontario rent their inheritance tax. The agreements, which this year are costing the federal treasury more than $320,000,000 in rents, are scheduled to expire in 1957. DOUBLE TAX AGAIN If the agreements are not renewed the provinces would re-enter the income, corporation and inheritance tax fields. This would mean double taxation for Canadian taxpayers, most of whom now are used to filing only one income tax return. The federal government already has established the policy that a taxpayer can deduct 10 per cent from federal income tax if he pays provincial income tax. In practice, this applies only in Quebec, where a provincial income tax has been levied since last year. The poorer provinces would take in less, proportionately, than the wealthy provinces through provincial income taxes. Thus the poorer provinces might object to ending the tax rental agreements. The federal grants are larger than the net amounts which the provinces could raise by provincial taxation less their collection costs. MAY MAKE GRANTS One report here is to the effect that the federal government might propose if the tax rental agreements lapse, that the poorer provinces be awarded certain grants to make up this deficiency.

C.P.S. To Sell Old S.S. Empress Of Australia

LONDON (CP)—Canadian Pacific Steamships Ltd. announced Wednesday it will sell the 19,000-ton liner Empress of Australia, now sailing between Liverpool and Montreal. Officials said the 31-year-old ship was at Glasgow from service soon and offered on the world market. The Empress will first make several trips in the October rotation of Canadian troops serving in Germany. The liner, which accommodates 650 passengers, was built in Britain in 1924 for the French Line and named De Grasse. She was bought by Canadian Pacific in March, 1953, to replace the Empress of Canada, which had burned and capsized at a Liverpool berth a month earlier. Canadian Pacific now has two new liners under construction for the North Atlantic run. The 25,500-ton Empress of Britain was launched last June by the Queen at Glasgow and will make her maiden voyage next spring; and a sister ship, the Empress of England, is scheduled for launching in September or October, 1956. Officials declined to state what price will be asked for the Empress of Australia.

Want Ottawa To Pay For Education And Welfare

By PHIL ADLER Canadian Press Staff Writer EDMONTON (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities wants the federal and provincial governments to pay the shot for education and public welfare. Delegates to the federation convention, adopted the policy Wednesday. It will be presented at the federal-provincial conference in Ottawa in October by municipal representatives on provincial delegations. At least seven provinces will have municipal representatives on their delegations. The plan adopted by the convention dealt with principle. How the two senior governments should pay for education and public welfare was not mentioned. But Mayor Robert Simpson of Arnprior, Ont., said the plan, if accepted by the senior governments, would reduce municipal school boards to an advisory position. LEAVE IDEA OPEN Whether a federal-provincial-municipal conference should follow the Ottawa meeting was left open. The three-level parley, supported by Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto, had boiled into a controversy Tuesday. Municipalities, strapped by lack of money, want a share of the federal-provincial tax revenues or anything else which will fatten their pocket books. In adopting the suggestions of the Ontario Association of Mayors and Reeves, the federation labelled the ideas "an approach to the solution of the municipal finance problem." The convention also wants the senior governments to take care of subsidizing housing, civil defence, administration of justice and provincial highways running through municipalities.
