Province To Have Services Of Cooperative Organizer

Reid D. Sangster, of the St. Francis Xavier Extension Department, Antigonish, will spend the greater part of his time on the Island during the next year. This was announced yesterday by Donald A. MacDonald, Managing Director of the Co-operative Union of P.E.I. and the Producer's Co-operative.

Mr. Sangster's services were made available by an agreement arranged with the main-land university, the Extension Department of St. Dunstan's University, and the P.E.I. Co-operative Union.

Under terms of the agreement the Nova Scotian co-operative worker will spend the greater part of his time in this Province during the coming year, leaving only to carry out special duties in his home area, Mr. MacDonald noted.

"Mr. Sangster," the Co-Op-Union release states, "is widely-known throughout the Maritimes as an organizer, and is by no means a newcomer to this field. "Born 37 years ago in New Harbor a small fishing village on the East Coast of Nova Scotia, he began to study the co-operative way of life while in high school, in order to help solve some of the serious economic and social problems that existed there at that time.

STARTED AS FISHERMAN
"While still in high school he began to attend study clubs, and take an active interest in the St. F.X. Program. On finishing school Mr. Sangster started life as a fisherman, and started to put into practice in his local co-op the things he had learned. During the winter he did some part-time field work and took the winter courses offered by St. F.X.

"At about 18 years of age he was made a Director of the United Maritime Fishermen, a position he held until his appointment as a full time organizer under Dr. Coady, and the late Dr. A.B. McDonald, of the St. F.X. Extension Department.

"Because of his years of study and practical application of co-operative ideas, Mr. Sangster should be of great assistance in strengthening the whole co-op movement in this province whether it be stores, credit unions, fishing or farm organizations, the co-op insurance program, or whatever field to which the great Rochdale principles of self help can be applied.

"Beside his interests in the co-operative movement, Mr. Sangster is a member of the Nova Scotia Housing Commission, an active member of the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council, a Moderator of the Baptist Church in the Eastern Counties of Nova Scotia, and active in many other endeavors that are designed to make the Maritimes a better place in which to live."

Women's Work At Maritime Fair

AMHERST — One of the feature attractions at the coming Maritime Winter Fair will undoubtedly be the new division for Women's Work and Domestic Handicrafts.

For some time, Maritime Winter Fair officials have realized the lack of interest in the Fair for women. This was expressed a year ago by President F. George McLeod during a newspaper interview, when he stated that much thought was being given to the possibility of establishing a Women's Work division.

The thought has evidently crystallized into action, since classes for fancy - work of all kinds appear in the 1957 Prize List. These classes will include all types of fancy work and bedspreads to leather work, weaving and jewelry.

The Women's Work Division will be under the charge of a committee, formed of the Home Economics Directors of the three Provinces, — Miss Jean Munro, Nova Scotia; Miss Rita Underhill, New Brunswick; and Miss Theresa MacLeod, Prince Edward Island.

Competition between the provinces will undoubtedly be keen, since the above-named Directors have been busy all summer, selecting the most outstanding articles of their class from the various Exhibitions in each province. These selected articles will represent the best from each province, so that the items displayed at the Maritime Winter Fair will be "the cream of the crop."

Special display facilities for the Women's Work are nearing completion, and the department will be open to the public every day of the 1957 Fair, from November 2 to November 9 inclusive.

Dr. MacMillan paid tribute to the workers who made these annual events possible noting that many of the same faces appeared on the job year after year.

"I don't know what we would have done in the thirties, if it were not for the wonderful work accomplished for the hospital by the annual bazaar," he said.

Following Dr. MacMillan's speech, the first night audience were entertained by Burke's Pipe Band, who presented a number of musical and dancing selections.

Door prizes were won last night by the following: First prize, ten dollars cash, Mrs. Ed Acorn, city; second prize, wolen blanket, Mrs. Andrew Martin City; third prize, picnic ham, Mrs. R.T. White, city. The chicken dinner lotteried last night was won by Mrs. Thomas Horgan, and the picnic ham by Mrs. E. Morrissey, both of Charlottetown.

Special entertainment will be provided each night under the direction of Loman MacAulay. Tonight's featured group will be the popular "Ranch Boys".

Work Of Hospital Bazaar Is Praised By Dr. MacMillan

"This is God's work you are doing," said Dr. W.J.P. MacMillan, who officially opened the 23rd annual Charlottetown Hospital Charity Bazaar at the Community Centre last night.

Dr. MacMillan was introduced by John T. Doyle general chairman of the committees responsible for the organization and administration of the event. Seated with him on the platform was the assistant general chairman, B.W. Callaghan. His Excellency, Most Rev. Malcolm A. MacEachern, D.D. attended the opening ceremonies.

Dr. MacMillan, speaking from more than forty years association with the Charlottetown Hospital, and other charitable and health organizations in the city pointed out that "God's deserving Poor" was the most difficult problem facing our local hospitals.

"They seldom call for help or medical aid until their ailments are well advanced," the doctor said, adding that many children whose parents are indigent or out of work fall ill and require hospitalization in the winter months, mostly because they are unable to obtain sufficient food.

"But when they come to either of our hospitals, they get the best treatment available," he said.
