

Spring Collections Showing In New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—Madame will look her best in the strictly feminine suits and coats designed by George Carmel, noted for such frivolous touches as pearls on tweed and gold embroidery on fleece.

This season he shows the straight and narrow line, but en-crusts it with jewels, passementerie braid and embroidery to soften the severity.

His suits have two distinct silhouettes. One is the closely-fitted suit with rounded neckline sometimes accented by clover-leaf or diamond-shaped pockets, above a slim skirt.

Another highlight of the New York spring collections is that of Gabriols, who makes deft use of smooth, handsome fabrics in slim but rounded dresses, suits and costumes which are in the medium price bracket but are full of couture touches.

He likes white linen collars on suits and dresses, presents a series of dark Swiss town cottons in jacquard weaves which are both distinguished and wearable.

Also included in yesterday's showings for the fashion press were H. S. Stange, known for sports separates; Hattie Carnegie, high priestess of high fashion; and Elizabeth Arden, now dividing her interests between beauty and fashion.

Coats follow the tubular tapered line so important for spring, with natural shoulders, dropped armholes and loose, drapery sleeves, sometimes pushed up to bracelet length.

PRIDEFUL STATISTICS

When we think of the thousands of research workers in our hospitals and clinics who are trying to find the cause and cure of cancer, we may be somewhat discouraged.

It will be encouraging to all of us and really raise our morale to review the results obtained by our research workers during the past half century. This review of "prideful statistics" as outlined by that noted medical editor, Dr. Morris Fishbein, in Postgraduate Medicine, is the recently published report of the United States Public Health Service. It is a record of marvelous accomplishment toward improving the nation's health.

The death rate for tuberculosis has fallen from 22 per 100,000 population while in some other countries it still exceeds 100.

Despite our epidemics of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis), it has dropped from the all-time high of 1949 by 21 per cent.

Least the above statistics so raise our pride that we might think our research workers have about completed their task of improving the nation's health.

The above information from such a high authority as Dr. Fishbein should be of interest to all of us and encourage us to lend our support to the establishment of these health services in districts now without them.

DOROTHY DIX'S COLUMN—

Limit Of Forbearance

Certain Philandering Husbands Need A Last Lesson From Wife

DEAR MISS DIX: Will you tell me just how much a wife is supposed to take from her husband? I've tried in every way to keep my home for the sake of our children, aged 10 and 16. Until the past three years I was very happy with a man I felt was the best husband that ever was; a church-going man of high ideals and a wonderful father to our children.

Marjorie Nissen

When I found out about it, he gave her up and asked for another chance. Two months passed, during which I never once referred to the incident, then I discovered he hadn't given her up at all. Again he promised to give her up, and was so convincing about it that I believed him.

ANSWER: The real question, Jane, is not how much a wife is supposed to take from her husband, but how much she is willing to take. One woman will fly to a divorce court because her husband criticizes her clothes, another seeks legal advice because hubby doesn't whisper sweet nothings in her ear all day long.

MAN IS GIVEN TO WANDERLUST

Men are more inclined to strain at the responsibilities and restrictions of matrimony than women. This is understandable enough, since woman's basic nature seeks security.

ELLEN'S DIARY

By An Island Farmer's Wife

Late now, the moon born of December lifts her enchanting self above the dim January hills. Rising, it points out the dark grace of the sturdy old trees in the orchard as she rides into the night-blue above.

We chose from among ours, a first issue of the new to enjoy, "The Erudite Jester of McGill" by Trent Frayne. . . and wished much, though our inclination did not lie among the avenue of Economics, we might have attended classes taught by Stephen Leacock.

We like especially his "Sunshine Sketches of a Little Town." And although this book is an old treasure of ours we re-read it repeatedly with continuing interest and pleasure.

This evening the lads, wide-eyed, were close to James' chair, begging tales of the old days always of much charm to them. . . Jamie sadly minded the chicken pox that suddenly and with little warning descended in one of them today, instead of attending classes in school as he had hoped.

Until tomorrow . . . -Diary - - Good-night . . .

The Story of the Green Sails

by KINGSLEY SUTTON

THE ORB IS AN ANCIENT CHRISTIAN EMBLEM—WHEN THE SOVEREIGN IS SEATED IN THE CORONATION CHAIR, THE ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY PRESENTS THE ORB, SAYING—"AND WHEN YOU SEE THIS ORB THUS SET UNDER THE CROSS, REMEMBER THAT THE WHOLE WORLD IS SUBJECT TO THE POWER AND EMPIRE OF CHRIST."

THE ORB WAS REMADE FOR CHARLES II. IT IS A GLOBE OF GOLD, RICHLY JEWELLED AND SURMOUNTED BY A CROSS. A SMALLER ORB WAS MADE FOR MARY, WIFE OF WILLIAM III. ALTHOUGH MARY WAS QUEEN OF ENGLAND, AND WILLIAM HER CONSORT, MARY INSISTED ON A JOINT OCCUPATION OF THE THRONE. THIS IS THE ONLY TIME IN BRITISH HISTORY WHEN THERE WAS A REIGNING KING AND A REIGNING QUEEN.
