

In search of the green

By Inge Dorsey

Well, well it is hard to believe that yet another academic year has escaped us. This being my last column I feel almost compelled to detail the highlights of the year for financial aid. But seeing as I only have very few lines I'll leave that for another time.

Seriously though folks, I do have a few pearls of wisdom concerning financial aid. First, I would AGAIN advise people to begin their search for the green early (that is before you are flat broke). Also, I am available to either let you know or find out for

The Human Agony in Ethiopia

By Sam Okello

In the past three decades many Ethiopians looked confidently to an independent future of economic growth and social development. But today millions of people in Ethiopia are suffering a succession of crippling blows due to starvation which has been caused by a prolonged drought.

As a result many Ethiopians are hungry and broke: They are sick and tired, humiliated and divided. As many as 100,000 Ethiopians are fleeing to a neighbouring country, Somalia. One critic mentioned that Ethiopia may be nearing the point of collapse under a cruel combination of famine, drought, debt, chronic mismanagement and runaway population growth. Many Ethiopians face a potential human environmental and economic catastrophe of unimaginable dimensions.

Ethiopians themselves seem almost impotent in the face of impending disaster. Faced by imminent starvation, Ethiopians are uncertainly bound to cope with a crisis that has been intensifying since the mid 1970's.

In order to save millions of drought victims, Ethiopia desperately needs help in areas such as food, money, technology and time to recover.

you any information regarding financial matters. With these things in mind I look forward to seeing you in the fall. Next year you can keep your eyes peeled for information regarding financial aid seminars on personal finances, student loans etc.
