A Tragic Event.

The bell at the parsonage went ringing, and, as the dominie was in his study and his wife getting the baby to sleep, Master Harold, aged 7, went to the door. On opening it he found a couple, evidently from the country, both young and bashful; but, after looking at the boy a moment, the young man queried, "Is the parson at home?"

"Yes," said Harold. "Do you want to get married?"

"That's just what we're here for," said the prospective bridegroom as he looked fondly at the blushing girl by his side.

"Well, come right in, then," said the boy, ushering them into the parlor, and when they had seated themselves on the edge of two chairs side by side he started off, saying: "I'll call pa, and ma too. She'll be awful glad, for she has all the marryin' money, and I heard her tell pa this mornin' that she wished some folks would come to get married, 'cause she hadn't nough money to buy her new hat."—Chicago News.

When they next met, the prosecuting attorney wanted to know why he had not been on hand to receive congratulations on the acquittal of his client.

"They set him free without a stain on his character and without their seat and it was all due to your Spanish. Why didn't you wait? You're the hero of the whole population."

"That's just the trouble," rejoined Colonel Taylor. "I knew they'd acquit at rascal and then they'd fall all over me with their Spanish. I just naturally had to hide. Those three words that Judge Hallett chucked me off on, that 'the Spanish' I never knew in my life. I could have sworn I was a native New Yorker."

J McEACHERN

Life Said to Remain Long After Head is Severed.

"The executions in Paris during recent years have revived the old question whether death instantaneously follows upon the severance of the head from the body," says the Massachusetts Medical Journal. "Dr. Cinel asserts that decapitation does not immediately affect the brain. He says that the blood which flows after decapitation comes from the large vessels of the neck, and there is hardly any call upon the circulation of the cranium. The brain remains intact, nourishing itself with the blood retained by the pressure of the air."

"When the blood remaining in the head at the moment of separation is exhausted, there commences a state, not of death, but of inertia, which lasts up to the moment when the organ, no longer fed, ceases to exist. Dr. Cinel estimates that the brain finds nourishment in the residuary blood for about an hour after decapitation. The period of inertia would last for about two hours, he thinks, and absolute death would not ensue till after the space of three hours altogether."

"If, he adds, a bodiless head indicates by no movement the horrors of its situation, it is because it is physically impossible that it should do so, all the nerves—which serve for the transmission of orders from the brain to the trunk being severed; but there remains the nerves of hearing, of smell and sight, and he concludes that the guillotine does not cause instant death. If this be true, could any other form of death be more merciless?"

Benefit of Peerage.

Every one may not know what the term "benefit of peerage" implies. A peer can demand a private audience of the sovereign to represent his views on matters of public welfare. For treason or felony he can demand to be tried by his peers. He cannot be outlawed in any civil action, nor can he be arrested unless for an indictable offense, and he is exempt from serving on juries. He may sit with his hat on in courts of justice, and should he be liable to the last penalty of the law he can demand a silken cord instead of a hempen rope.

Practical Remedy.

Caller (with manuscript)—Then you can't use the poem? May I ask what ails it?

Editor—Well, it lacks what might be called the true poetic fire.

Caller—Couldn't that be—ah—imparted to it some way?

Editor—Well, you might try sticking it in the stove.

Country girls in Spain seldom wear hats or bonnets of any kind.

It was in Spain, by the way, that the custom of a bride wearing orange blossoms in her hair originated.

What Is Untold.

This would not be the store it is, nor the stock it is, if we could do either justice in our sore news.

Salient points here and there may be picked out from time to time, and mentioned in this paper, but far more must remain untold than told.

You must come in, and see for yourself.

The Heintzman Piano

must be seen and heard to be appreciated. We would like to show you its special points over and above all other makes.

Our prices are right too—when you consider and are convinced of the quality. In fact, they are lower than most dealers ask for ordinary commercial pianos.

We have a number of second hand pianos on hand, that we are offering at auction prices to clear.
