NAVAL CHRISTMAS PARTY

Santa arrived in the traditional manner at H. M. C. S. Queen Charlotte yesterday afternoon. The jolly gentleman landed on the ship's parade deck via the chimney, much to the delight of the approximately 90 children present, all of whom were either son or daughter or younger brother or sister of some member of the ship's complement. Each child received a gift and all the candy, fruit, pop and ice cream he or she could hold. In addition the naval personnell provided each of the mothers with a box of chocolates. Arrangements for the annual Christmas party were made by Petty Officer Winston Judson and Leading Seaman R. Travis.

MacPhail, in which he stressed the value of the courses available and urged a close applictaion to the work and studies throughout the term.

"From personal observation and the reports submitted from time to time by your Instructors it gives me pleasure to note that the present classes consist of young men who are in earnest and know the value of vocational training. "On behalf of the staff I wish you a pleasant holiday and a return to your studies refreshed and determined to reach a high standard of efficiency in your final examinations," Mr. MacPhail said.

Work On Naval Barracks Site

The staking of the foundation and a complete survey of the site of Charlottetown's new Naval Reserve Establishment is expected to be completed by the end of the current week according to officials of the contracting company, the Atlas Construction Company of Montreal.

Friday afternoon the operation of levelling the site and excavating for the rifle range was started by two bulldozers. The sub-contract for the next phase of construction, that of driving the piles on which the building will stand has been let to Morrison and MacRae Limited of Summerside. This work is expected to get underway on or about December 29.

Mr. E. Bernier of Grand Falls, N. B., company superintendent, said Friday that the piling will have to be driven to a depth of from twenty-five to thirty feet in the ground. The steel for the framework of the building, he said, will be starting to arrive at the site during the latter part of February, and regardless of weather conditions he plans to go ahead with the erection without any delay.

The finished building will have a frontage of 165 feet and a depth of 90 feet. It will be two stories high, with classrooms, offices and messes located around a central drill deck. Under the rooms on the south side of the structure a regulation size indoor rifle range will be located.

Pacific Ocean Warming Up

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Pacific Ocean is getting warmer and scientists don't know why.

In a report to the California marine research committee, scientists of five agencies said Thursday that ocean temperatures this year were higher than at any time in recent history.

In some areas, surface temperatures were up as much as 5.5 degrees Fahrenheit above the 1949-1956 average.

The change seems to be Pacific-wide, the report said, pointing out that Hawaii had its first recorded hurricane and that the ice went out at Point Barrow in Alaska at the earliest time in history.

The differences occur not only in the ocean but in the atmosphere over it. The Hawaii hurricane was the most dramatic example. But in addition wind patterns in 1957 had less of a northerly component. The tropical rainy season lasted almost six weeks beyond its usual term. Southern California had one of its rainiest autumns in years.

Elaborating on the report, one scientist said weather and water changes appear definitely related—but no one knows how.

At the resort town of La Jolla, Calif., sea temperatures reached the highest averages during the summer in the last 26 years, and similar changes were recorded all up the coast.

The warming extended to a depth of a quarter of a mile, at least off California. One scientist said that over the 200,000 square miles of the California current region this represented the equivalent in energy of 560,000,000,000 barrels of fuel, about half the world's resources.

"It would have required four times as much sun's heat as was received to attribute the change to that source alone," the report said.

FISH MOVE NORTH

The warmer water allowed southern fish to move much farther north. Dolphin fish were caught as far north as the California-Oregon border, the report said, and white sea bass were taken off the Columbia River.

California sport fishermen had their biggest catches in a decade. Almost 30 times as many 1957 year-class sardines appeared in live bait catches as in the previous high year and the spawning reached at least as far north as Monterey Bay in Northern California.

Yellowtail and bonita tuna, usually found largely in waters farther south, have been taken in great numbers off all Southern California sport fishing ports.

What does it all mean? The scientists say they don't know but they're fairly certain the high temperatures were not the result of a wave of southern water swept northward.

"Rather," says the report, "it appears that warm water came from the west or northwest."

Steal $25,000 In Jewellery

NEW YORK (AP)—Three tall gunmen held up three jewelers in a Queens parking lot Friday and made off with a shipment of gems worth an estimated $250,000.

The big robbery occurred about sundown as six leather bags of jewels were being removed from the trunk of a car for distribution to neighboring stores.

Police said the bandits—one of them brandishing a pistol in each hand — knocked one jeweller to the ground, trained gun barrels on two others in the car and then grabbed the jewel satchels from the trunk.

They leaped into a black German - made automobile parked nearby, police said, and sped away.

Bill Will Be Only Stop Gap

OTTAWA (CP) — Senate Opposition Leader W. Ross Macdonald said Friday a government bill to broaden federal aid to provinces for unemployment relief will be of little value in coping with unemployment.

"I have no doubt it will come back to us in a different form in the near future," he said.

Senator Macdonald criticized the legislation shortly before the Senate put it through second and final reading stages. It later received royal assent along with nine other government bills, four private bills and 87 divorce bills.

Royal assent was given by Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin, acting as deputy to Governor-General Massey. The Senate then adjourned until Tuesday, Jan. 7.

Senator Macdonald described the unemployment relief bill as "of little or no use" and as "no more than a stop-gap" in providing unemployment relief.

Textile Plants Cut Production

MONTREAL (CP)—Eight Quebec plants of the Dominion Textile Co., Ltd., will shut down shortly for periods of about two weeks, the company announced Thursday.

It said heavy imports of cotton fabric, primarily from the United States, have cut down the market for Canadian textiles.

A Cotton Institute report shows 120,000,000 yards of cotton fabric were imported in the first half of 1957, compared with 107,000,000 yards in the corresponding period of 1956.

Two Montreal branches of the company will close Dec. 20 to Jan. 6. A third will close Dec. 20-25 and Dec. 29-Jan. 6.

The mill section of a Valleyfield plant will shut down Dec. 21-Jan. 6 and other sections will close for shorter periods.

Plants at Sherbrooke and Drummondville will close Dec. 21-26 and Dec. 28-Jan. 7. The Montmorency plant will close Dec. 29-Jan. 7.

Shutdown plans for a plant at Magog are not yet complete.

WAUREGAN, Conn. (AP)—The Wauregan Mills, Inc., will discontinue its 104-year-old cotton textile operation and sell its machinery and real estate, J. A. Atwood III, company president and treasurer, announced Thursday night.

Atwood said poor business conditions in the textile industry plus competition from Japanese textile imports and the shortage of working capital as a result of the August, 1955, flood prompted the decision to discontinue textile operations. The flood caused an over-all loss of $1,500,000, he said.

Waregan, which in recent years produced shirtings and dress goods, employed 500 persons in normal operations.

The mill was built in 1853 by Atwood's great grandfather.

Billion More For Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Plans to pump nearly $1,000,000,000 more into the United States missile program were disclosed Friday by Defence Secretary Neil McElroy.

He said Congress will be asked for the extra money soon after it convenes Jan. 7.

The Eisenhower administration already has indicated it will raise the defence budget by about $2,000,000,000 for fiscal 1959, largely for missile development. But this is the first figure to be given out on the additional effort to be made in the current year.

A $1,000,000 supplemental appropriation would push the current defence budget to approximately $29,500,000,000 and take a big bite out of the surplus the administration hoped to have at the end of the fiscal year.
