OVER BRAZILIAN TOWN

Airliner With 49 Aboard Explodes During Flight

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—A Brazilian twin-engine airliner with 49 persons aboard crashed in flames into a thickly populated area of Sao Paulo shortly after takeoff Friday night. A witness said the plane caught fire and exploded in flight.

There apparently were some survivors. Sixteen persons were reported taken to hospital, six in grave condition, and it was believed some if not all of them were among the 44 passengers and five crew members aboard the Convair airliner.

Adding to the toll, a Sao Paulo fire department vehicle rushing to the scene rammed into a crowd at a crossing, killing four pedestrians, police reported.

Sao Paulo is the site of the current Pan-American Games, in which large Canadian and American teams are participating.

All the passengers were believed to be Brazilians.

TROUBLED FROM START

The Convair of the Brazilian airline Cruzeiro do Sul was in trouble immediately after its takeoff from Congonhas Airport en route to Rio de Janeiro, 300 miles northeast of Sao Paulo.

"The right engine was burning," said a witness, Emilton Batista, an airline employee who lives near the crash scene. "I said 'God, it's going to explode!' Then it did."

Batista said the airliner plunged straight down. One section of the plane sheared away a large residential building, reducing it virtually to rubble. The building was being repaired and was unoccupied at the time.

WRECKAGE SCATTERED

Another large section hit 600 yards away. Other burning and twisted parts were scattered over a large area of the crash scene, eight miles from the centre of this industrial city. Some parts hit at least one other residential building.

It was the sixth major Brazilian plane crash since Nov. 26. In the previous crashes, 184 persons were killed.

The plane crashed at 7:30 p.m., sending flames into the night sky. Within minutes, a throng of some 20,000 persons ran and pushed their way to the scene through police and fire department lines. It was into throng that the fire department vehicle plunged.

Listed among the passengers were Brazilian Congressman Miguel A. Baiury and Brazilian television comedian Rentao Consorte.

$73 Million Contract Let For Peace R. Dam

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority announced Friday the letting of a $73,558,648 contract for construction of a dam on the northern Peace River—believed to be one of the largest, if not the largest, single contract ever let in Canada.

Work on the 600-foot-high, 1¼-mile long earth-filled dam at Portage Mountain, about 160 miles north of Prince George, will start next year. Preliminary work on preparing the river bed for construction is slated for this summer.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, co-chairman of B.C. Hydro, announced that the contract has been let to the low bidder, Peter Kiewitsons company of Canada Limited of Vancouver with Al Johnson Company of Windsor, Ont., and Dawson Company of Vancouver.

CREATES VAST LAKE

The dam will create a 250-mile-long, 680-square-mile lake—five times the size of Okanagan Lake, now B.C. largest.

The underground powerhouse —largest in the western world —will have a capacity of 2,300 kilowatts, more than twice the present total capacity of all 22 facilities of the power authority.

The diversion tunnels will be wide enough for a four – lane road, as tall as a five – storey building and 2,500 feet long.

Former Clergyman Injured In Chase After 4 Killed

CASTLETON, Ont. (CP)—A 56-year-old former clergyman remained in critical condition and under police guard late Friday following the shooting deaths of his wife, two daughters and an unmarried sister in this village 65 miles east of Toronto.

Police said no charges had yet been laid as a result of the shootings which killed Mrs. Florence Killins, 50; a daughter, Mrs. Pearl Campbell, 19, another daughter, Patricia, 8, and Gladys Killens, 40, of Parry Sound, Ont.

Robert Killins, husband of Florence and brother of Gladys, was in Cobourg hospital with a bullet wound to his head.

THREE OTHERS WOUNDED

Three other persons were wounded in the shooting spree which broke out in this village of 800 early Friday: Fred Campbell, 20, husband of Pearl, a Toronto school teacher, Peter Miller, 20, and Thomas Major, 58, a miner from Sudbury, Ont.

Two other Killins children—Margaret, 12, and Brian, 10—were reported in hospital suffering from shock.

Provincial police investigating the shootings would offer no explanation for the volley of shotgun and pistol fire which racketed through the Lake Ontario village early Friday.

Robert Killins, described by hospital officials as a diabetic whose illness was "out of control," was found in his car four miles from the scene of the shootings and slipped into a coma minutes after police stopped him.

Police said Mrs. Killins was the first victim.

Provincial police said they believed the killer was struck and disarmed of two semi-automatic pistols during the shooting fray which involved three adjacent homes.

CONTINUES SHOOTING

Investigators said the killer was believed to have recovered from one attack and continued shooting with a shotgun loaded with deer slugs.

They said the killer of Mrs. Killins apparently moved to two adjacent buildings to kill the woman's two daughters and sister-in-law Gladys.

Campbell was treated in hospital in nearby Trenton for shotgun wounds to his shoulder.

Miller and Major, who police say tried at one point to wrestle weapons from the killer, were reported in satisfactory condition in Cobourg hospital.

HAIR CLIPPED

A neighbor, who talked to Brian, one of the two children in hospital with shock, said the 10-year-old boy's hair had been clipped by a shotgun blast.

Miller, who boards across the street from the Killins home, was reported shot in both arms and chest.

The United Church of Canada said in Toronto Friday that Robert Killins was an ordained minister of the church from 1932 to 1946, when he resigned from a position at Clanwilliam, Man.

Police said Killins lived alone in one house just south of Castleton. His wife and three youngest children lived in another house nearby, his sister in a third, and his daughter, Pearl, and her husband in a fourth.

Pearson Discusses Defence

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Friday he does not think the NATO meeting in Ottawa starting May 22 will materially affect Canada's strike- reconnaissance role within the alliance.

"I don't think there will be any decision that will affect the role Canada has undertaken for the air division in Europe," Pearson told reporters.

In general terms, it was understood that the Canadian government intends to carry on for the time being with the defence role as inherited from the previous administration.

At the earliest opportunity the government is expected to make an exhaustive re-examination of the Canadian defence position. No early or drastic changes are expected. A defence committee of the House of Commons, to be set up at the start of the new session, will go into the whole matter.

MIDEAST "EXPLOSIVE"

Speaking at a press conference after his two-day talks on world issues with Prime Minister Macmillan, Pearson described the Middle East situation as explosive.

"There is particular danger arising from the situation existing in Jordan," he said.

If the situation deteriorated, he hoped the United Nations could be brought in to control the boundaries and help calm the situation.

Pearson also said he believes increases in trade between Britain and Canada could help the problem of unemployment in both countries.

Replying to a question, he said he did not ask Macmillan whether Britain would be renewing her effort to join the European Common Market, but siould such an occasion arise, he would be sympathetic and understanding.

Que. Opposition Member Expelled For One Week

Floods Cause Anxiety In Some N.B. Areas

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Residents of the St. George area in eastern Charlotte County were still anxious Friday night as flood waters that isolated two communities Thursday continued to rise.

The rise, however, was slow and the situation was expected to change little pending a heavy rainfall which seemed unlikely in view of warm, sunny weather forecast for most of the province today.

Some families in low-lying marsh areas have left their homes to stay with relatives or friends on higher ground. They feared they might become cut off from main highway links as waters of the Magaguadavic River were rising over fields and making farms look like small islands.

Most serious flooding in the St. George area appeared to be where two bridges cross roads from the communities of Bonney River and Second Falls. The water had reached a point where traffic could not cross over the bridges.

Meanwhile, Mayor James G. Wright of Sackville, N.B., said Friday night all danger of flooding to the university town near the Nova Scotia border appeared to have passed.

Mayor Wright said there actually was less water within Sackville itself now than he has seen at this time of year during his 10 years in the town.

Thursday's high water at Frosty Hollow and Silver Lake, communities near Sackville, was receding Friday, he said. Three feet of water had spread over a 150 - yard section of highway at Frosty Hollow Thursday night. It was caused apparently by water backing up from plugged sluices in a dam.

Last reports from St. John River sections was that the water level was levelling off Friday after rising steadily for the last couple of days, but, already two 100-foot stretches of highway near Fredericton had been inundated and highway department crews erected signs saying the road was closed.

Dairy Output Lags Behind Maritime Need

In order for the Maritime Provinces to meet their requirements for all dairy products, it would be necessary to produce an additional 259,003,320 pounds of milk each year.

In releasing the 1962 figures of production and consumption of dairy products in the Maritimes, Agriculture Minister Andrew MacRae said that last year Prince Edward Island produced much more butter and cheese than consumed but in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick consumption was far ahead of production.

Butter production in this province was 5,927,000 pounds and consumption was 2,092,580 pounds; in Nova Scotia, butter production was 3,773,000 pounds and consumption was 12,897,500 pounds. New Brunswick had a production of 6,981,000 pounds and consumption of 10,465,000 pounds.

This province produced 891,000 pounds of cheese and consumed 290,868 pounds. No figures were given for Nova Scotia's cheese production but 2,048,860 pounds were consumed. New Brunswick had production of 503,000 pounds and consumption of 1,662,440 pounds.

The Maritime area is short of meeting its'butter requirements by 8,774,080 pounds and short of producing its cheese requirements by 2,608,168 pounds.

The area is short of producing its requirements of evaporated milk by 25,000,000 pounds. In ice cream and fluid milk production it is self-supporting.

Mr. MacRae pointed out that 21 per cent of the total cash income of Prince Edward Island is received from the sale of dairy products.

PINKY CALLED NFLD. CURSE

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) "Pinky", a wine that sells for $1.10 a bottle and is a big seller with the thirsty of Newfoundland, was a topic in the Newfoundland legislature Friday.

Finance Minister E. S. Spencer told the house 279,456 bottles of Pinky were sold in 1962.

The information was sought by Anthony Murphy (PC — St. John's Centre), who said Pinky was almost as big a "curse" in his riding as cancer.

The community has been evacuated because of rising flood waters. This was one of the first wirephotos transmitted from the Northwest Territories. Photos were taken by CP Photographer Stan Mulcahy, flown Thursday from Ottawa to Yellowknife. He brought with him a wirephoto transmisser used for the 600-mile transmission to Edmonton, where pictures went into The Canadian Press wirephoto network. (CP Wirephoto)

SGT. HILLIER

Local Man Promoted At Ottawa

CAPITAL BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

OTTAWA — (Special) — A Charlottetown native, Preston Hillier, 50, has been promoted to the rank of sergeant on the House of Commons' protective staff.

Mr. Hillier who was born in Charlottetown and attended school there, was a constable on the Charlottetown police force for six and a half years. In 1958 he came to Ottawa and joined the Commons' protective staff as a constable and served in that capacity until his promotion to sergeant on May 1. There is no corporal rank on the protective staff.

Policing the main Centre Block and the West Block of Parliament Hill is the job of the staff. The East Block is looked after by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The staff also acts as guides for parties of tourists who visit the buildings until the summer months when university students are hired to guide the thousands of visitors through the Centre Block.

Dictatorship Charge Touches Off Uproar

QUEBEC (CP)—An opposition member of the assembly was expelled for a week after being named by Speaker Richard Hyde during a tumultuous sitting Friday.

Maurice Bellemare (UN—Champlain) was called to order by name, a procedure which means a member may not speak in the house for the rest of the day, for hurling the word "dictatorship" at the government. When he continued repeating the charge, government members moved that he be expelled for Friday's sitting and all next week.

After 90 minutes' debate, the motion expelling Mr. Bellemare, 51 - year - old former minister without portfolio, was passed 47 to 21.

When the motions were made, Mr. Bellemare refused to leave the house until the Speaker asked the sergeant-at-arms to take the necessary steps to have him removed.

The affair—the second stormy sitting in a row—erupted as Attorney-General Georges Lapalme replied to charges made Thursday night that he had intervened with appeal court judges on behalf of Jean-Paul Boisjoly, involved in court cases arising from the seizure of false voting certificates during the provincial election last November.

DENIES CHARGES

Mr. Lapalme denied the charges and added: "We are not back in the time of Duplessis."

"It's twice as bad," shouted Mr. Bellemare. "It's a dictatorship."

He was asked by the Speaker to withdraw the remark.

"No, Mr. Speaker," declared Mr. Bellemare, a member since 1944.

"For the second time," said the Speaker. "I ask the member for Champlain to withdraw the expression dictatorship."

"Never."

"I call Mr. Maurice Bellemare to order."

In the din that followed, Premier Lesage moved that Mr. Bellemare be expelled for the rest of the sitting.

"The biggest dictator ever known," Mr. Bellemare shouted at the premier.

MOVES AMENDMENT

Labor Minister Rene Hamel then moved an amendment to expel Mr. Bellemare for next week's four sittings.

Mr. Bellemare, whose voice could barely be heard over the din, asked whether the premier had allowed himself to be directed by a "sense of vengence."

Mr. Hyde broke in and said: "I ask the sergeant-at-arms to take the necessary means to have the member for Champlain leave."

Mr. Bellemare then stomped out, with parting shot: "It won't be for long."

Mr. Lesage said that the Speaker's being forced to call the sergeant-at-arms was "the worst example of indiscipline that I have known in this house."

Nfld. Legislature Is Adjourned

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The Newfoundland legislature adjourned for two weeks Friday, but Premier Smallwood says it isn't a plan to wait and see what the federal government has in the way of extra financial aid for Newfoundland.

Mr. Smallwood said the house is adjourning until May 20 to give his government time to prepare the expenditure estimates leading to the budget.

Legion Building Shattered By Bomb At St. Johns, Que.

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP)—A dynamite time-bomb exploded early Friday under the concrete steps of the two-storey Royal Canadian Legion hall, causing an estimated $1,000 damage. No one was injured.

The blast, heard two miles away, roused virtually the entire town of 25,000 and shattered windows, damaged the steps and porch and opened cracks in the building's brick facade.

The persons who planted the bomb left no signature but shortly after the blast at 1:05 a.m. EDT, an anonymous person telephoned The Canadian Press in Montreal and said in French: "The Front de Liberation Quebecois has struck at St. Johns."

The terrorist FLQ, a separatist group advocating violence to bring about Quebec's secession from Confederation, has claimed in similar anonymous ways responsibility for previous bomb blasts. It has been blamed by police in Montreal for the death of a night watchman April 20 in an explosion at an army recruiting centre.

BLAMES 'SICK PEOPLE'

Police Chief Alexandre Caron said the explosion had been set by "sick people, and certainly not residents of St. Johns," a town that is 85-per-cent French-speaking. Membership in the legion is 95 per cent French-speaking.

Legion Branch President Willie Auclair said that last summer flags outside the hall were torn down and paint was smeared on the cenotaph.

Branch Vice-President John Roberts estimated the damage at $1,000, adding: "It's a shame. That money normally would have gone to charity."

Legion members had left the building about 30 minutes before the explosion after an executive meeting.

Bartender Joe Carbry locked up at 1 a.m., just five minutes before the blast.

Police said Constable Andre Farmer, on patrol duty, was checking doors of buildings in the neighborhood when the blast occurred.

He was due at the hall around 1:05 a.m.—the blast time—but had been delayed on his way, police said.

St. Johns is 25 miles southeast of Montreal.

MONTREAL (CP) — Police Friday dismantled a time bomb, planted in a building in the heart of Montreal's financial district, only two minutes before it was due to explode.

The letters FLQ were found painted on a locker near the bomb, on the 14th floor in a washroom of the building on the downtown Place d'Armes.

Police declined to give details.

The bomb was reported to have been found near the offices of several mining companies, including Sullivan Consolidated Mines Limited.

The letters FLQ stand for Le Front de Liberation Quebecois, a terrorist organization that has claimed credit for several recent bombings. It also has been blamed by police for a bomb blast that killed a night watchman April 20.

U.S. Military Planes Collide

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Federal aviation officers reported two military planes, one a bomber and the other a tanker, collided during a mid-air refuelling exercise Friday near West Yellowstone, Montana. No further details were available immediately.

Hovercraft Use Suggested For Canadian Arctic Area

By GEORGE FRAJKOR

MONTREAL (CP)—The Westland hovercraft, a flying machine that barely gets off the ground, gave an impressive showing of its ability Friday in its first public demonstration outside Europe.

The hovercraft, so-called because it hovers on a cushion of air pushed beneath it while propellors drive it forward, skimmed over the surface of Lake St. Louis near Montreal at 75 miles an hour to demonstrate its uses as a high-speed ferry.

The machine, a development of Westland Aircraft Limited of Yeoville, England, is intended also to be a practical transport for large flat areas like deserts and Canada's north.

Sir Eric Mensforth, Westland chairman here to spearhead a concentrated 11-day sales drive, said production of the whole machine or some components might be arranged for Canada if the volume of sales on this continent are sufficient.

The price of the SRN-2 is $1,113,000 in Canadian currency, presuming no duty and an 11-per-cent sales tax.

Other models offered include the smaller SRN-3, a seven-ton machine at $286,000, and the SRN-2 mark II which can carry 150 passengers and sells for $1,534,000.

Sir Eric said Canada's department of northern affairs has shown interest in the hovercraft and so have the military of Canada and the United States.
