

READY FOR IRELAND

A selection of handiworks, representative of the very fine work being turned out in this province, has been collected by Mrs. Frank Ross of Parkdale to be part of the round-the-world display from 43 countries at this year's conference of the Associated Country Women of the World in Dublin, Ireland. Mrs. Ross believes the quality of Island hooking is unsurpassed and she describes as "exquisite" the wall hanging, a hooked rug (made with hoops) and the four chair seats, three of which are original designs.

The display, admired above by Mrs. Arthur Trewin of Parkdale, includes a wood turned biscuit plate with copper inlay, and a braided rug of dyed binder twine, a sturdy product that was common in pioneer days.

ELLEN'S DIARY

It's Away To The Fair For Folks At Alderlea

"It always pleases me when I know that my day's work has accomplished something worthwhile, something useful to show for my having lived!" James today had contributed to the family's welfare as we well knew given the word of praise to one needing it, kindly advice to another, a welcoming smile to the little great-grand, and his interest, and to Peter, rigging up a make-believe cutting-bar on his tricycle to mow the lawn, his encouragement and aid. Yet these things were not noted nor even in his mind, when at day's end he added up its values. His satisfaction was the result of the spot of fencing, which aside from the chopping had taken up a goodly part of the farmers' day. They fenced about an area which includes a shady grove, a stumpland where they wish the shoots and small saplings to be "kept down", so to clear it presently, and a piece of grassland as well. These were the fieldwork undertaken today.
