THIS MORNING at one o'clock the police raided a house of ill-fame situate on the corner of Great George and Euston streets. They forced the door open and arrested the proprietress: Mrs. Sarah Lowther; Jessie Susanna Murphy—a girl of 17 year's of age—and three young men. The women appeared at the Stipendiary Magistrate's Court this forenoon. Mrs. Lowther was lame from the effects of rheumatic fever. In the court she had a baby, apparently about nine months old, in her arms. They—Murphy and Lowther—were each sentenced to six months' hard labor for keeping a brothel. One of the young men was fined $10.00 and the others $15.00 each.

ANTONIE SRAV, cook of the schooner "Winfield Scott," was, yesterday, arrested on a warrant for having stabbed, under the right eye, with a sharp point of a broom handle, a fellow-seaman of his, named Angus B. McDonald. It appears that, on Friday at noon, McDonald went to the fore-castle of the vessel and instructed the cook to fry some beefsteak for dinner. Sray refused, saying "it is Friday, you (McDonald) are a Catholic, and if I fry beef you will not eat it." McDonald said: "it was the mate's orders, and if he would not fry the meat, the mate would log him." An altercation followed. Sray lifted an axe and threw it at McDonald, threatening, at the same time, to cut him in two. The axe struck the upper part of the fore-castle; and Sray attempted to gain the deck with the apparent object of carrying out his threat. But McDonald stood at the door and kept him back by wicked attempts to kick. Sray seized a broom and fought his way to the top of the stairs, when he stabbed his opponent under the left eye with the sharp end of the broom handle, and then retreated. He was helped in his retreat by McDonald who dealt him a violent kick in the face. Sray remained in the fore-castle, and when others of the crew arrived McDonald made complaint and had him arrested. The Magistrate to-day heard the statements of both, and seeing that they equally to blame, he dismissed the case with costs.
