HAVE A GUESS.

Ok, wheelmen, all take my advice,
And don't forget, be sure
To take a look at the famous "Bike"
In PROWSE'S well-known Store.

The handsome Brantford Bicycle
That in their window's shown
Is as good as any in Charlottetown,
And it may be your own.

A jar in which are cents galore
Is placed where all can see;
Guess how many cents the jar contains
And the "Bike" your own will be.

Be wise, make all your purchases
At PROWSE'S Clothing Store;
Each purchase, on that Bicycle,
Will give you one chance more.

Their Carpets, Hats and Furnishings,
And all, in fact, they keep,
Compared with others in the town
Are more than quite as cheap.

A World's Temperance Crusade.

"And now a word about your proposed trip around the world and I have done."

"To explain the objects of the proposed trip," Mr. Pipe resumed, "I may say that during the last seven years the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union has been preparing a monster polyglot petition against the traffic in alcohol, opium, and legalized vice, to be presented to all the Governments of the world. Lady Henry Somerset and Miss Willard have been appointed as the deputation to convey this petition to the different Governments. The petition itself has now reached the unprecedented length of over two million signatures, and with the attestation of certain great societies, not less than three millions. According to the forthcoming number of the Review of the Churches, Dr. Lunn has been requested by these ladies to organize a demonstration round the world. With this purpose in view a first-class steamer is to be immediately chartered and a party of one hundred will be organized to accompany Lady Henry Somerset and Miss Willard in this remarkable crusade. Dr. Lunn has arranged with me to act as managing secretary to this expedition, and to accompany the party round the world."

"The crusade will commence at the annual convention of the World's Women's Christian Temperance Union to be held in the United States next October. The American delegation will then proceed to Washington, where the polyglot petition will be presented to the Government. Leaving New York on October 24, the American contingent will join the British contingent in the great demonstration at Exeter hall, on the 1st or 2nd of November. The crusaders' steamer will leave London on Saturday, November 3rd, arriving at Naples on Monday, November 12th. A visit will then be paid to Rome, where it is hoped that His Holiness the Pope and the King of Italy will each receive the delegation. The next capital to be visited will be Athens, where the King of Greece will be presented with the petition. Jerusalem will be the next point on the programme, and the petition is to be presented to the Patriarch of Jerusalem, after which the Khedive will be visited at Cairo. It is intended to reach India in time for the National Congress, and a six weeks' tour will be made through India in a special train, visiting all the principal towns of India and holding great meetings in each of them. From Calcutta the steamer will proceed to Ceylon and thence to Siam, with the object of presenting the petition to the King of Siam. Each Australian colony will then welcome the delegation, after which the course of the pilgrimage will be directed northward to China, where it is hoped that the Viceroy will receive the delegation. Japan will also be visited, and the petition will be presented to the Mikado. After this the eastward circuit of the world will be completed by a journey across the Pacific. It is intended at a later date to present the petition to the northern and central Governments of Europe."

Advantages of Electricity.

Electric lights, with their clear, clean and odorless illumination, electric bells and annunciators are by no means all the uses to which ingenuity had adapted electricity for the household. There are houses in which every bedroom, closet, storeroom, etc., is lighted by a lamp which lights itself automatically whenever the door is opened and which shuts itself off whenever the door is closed from the outside. Lights in a barn can be controlled from a house. There are electric lamps which at will can be operated either at full candle power or at much reduced power. Electric power is being used for operating elevators in residences. Other appliances of the power in residences are the operation of dumb-waiters, ventilating fans, ice-cream freezers, etc. The adaptation of electricity to heating is making rapid progress, but at present it can be used more economically than coal only when it is generated from water power. Thus far the heating of large spaces by electricity is an expensive luxury. Electric cooking is economical, and, of course, much preferred to any other method. All sorts of electric cooking utensils are now in the market. These devices and arrangements are generally known, but thus far scarcely any residences have them all. In a few years, except as to electric heating apparatus, they will be generally introduced when buildings are constructed. They will make domestic labor lighter and more pleasant, and will do away with, even in isolated and rural quarters, much drudgery that now falls upon the housewife.

Locomotive Attacked by a Cow.

A striking example of the instinct of maternal devotion in the animal kingdom, and at the same time a curious incident, was witnessed by scores of people at Wissahickon station recently, says the Philadelphia Record. A sleek-looking cow, with a happy-go-lucky calf at her side, wandered upon the railroad tracks just as a train pulled up at the depot. The cow got across the track ahead of the engine, but her off-spring, with the recklessness of youth and curiosity of inexperience, lingered to dispute the path. The engineer crowded air on his brakes, but the calf disappeared beneath the cowcatcher. Everybody looked for veal cutlets; but as locomotive slowed up and stopped the calf calmly stood up under the boiler between the driving wheels. The cow heard the bleat of alarm and caught sight of her calf. She unhesitatingly attacked the big iron horse and vainly endeavored to horn it off the track, bawling angrily the while. A newsboy, after a deal of manoeuvering, managed to push the calf between the driving-wheels, and cow and calf moved leisurely off as though nothing had happened.

Japan's Telephone System.

The use of the telephone is becoming more and more general in that go-ahead country, Japan. At the end of 1893 there were 1576 subscribers to the exchange at Tokio; 351 in Yokohoma; 300 in Osaka, and 162 in Kobe. This gives a total of 2389 subscribers, as against only 1167 at the end of 1892. The number, therefore, more than doubled itself during the year. —Electrical Review.

WHEN MOLLIE BATHES THE BABY.

When Mollie bathes the baby
I lay my book aside
And watch the operation
With deep paternal pride;
I scan the dimpled body
Of the struggling little elf,
For undeveloped points of
Resemblance to myself.

When Mollie bathes the baby
She always says to me:
"Isn't he just as cunning
And sweet as he can be?
Just see those pretty dimples!
Aren't his eyes a lovely blue?"
And then, "You precious darling,
I could bite those arms in two."

When Mollie bathes the baby
I always say to her:
"Look out now, don't you drop him,"
And she answers back, "No, sir!"
Then I talk about his rosy cheeks,
The muscles in his arms,
His shapely head, his sturdy legs,
And other manly charms.

When Mollie baths the baby
The household bends its knee,
And shows him greater deference
That it ever shows to me.
But I feel no jealous goading,
As they laud him to the skies,
For every one assures me
That he has his father's eyes.

BETWEEN FATHER AND SON.

We have a great deal to say in our literature about the confidence that should exist between a mother and her daughter, but we ignore altogether too much the frankness that should exist between a father and his son, writes Edward W. Bok in "At Home with the Editor" in the June Ladies' Home Journal. It is not right to expect that our girls shall bear the whole burden of moral responsibility. Our boys must be taught that the world expects uprightness in a man just as much as it looks for it in a woman. If the men of to-day are protected by an unfair moral discrimination, that is no reason why the men of to-morrow should be so sheltered. If it is for women to elevate their conception of the moral standard for men, it is for the young men of to-day to adjust themselves to that higher measurement. A healthy frankness between the boys of to-day and their fathers is the first step. This is man's part in the aim for social purity. Women must cease their blinking at actions in men which they will not tolerate in women; men, to whom experience has come, must unfold to the younger men. It is a favor to a boy that his feelings shall be analyzed for him by his father; that he be taught that his self-control, or his loss of of it, means an ascent or a descent in the social scale. There is no harm in a father pointing out these things to his son; the harm comes when the father neglects to do so. A young man should never be expected in any point of morality to experience what his father can explain and warn him against.

Political scandals in America pale before one brought to light in Italy through the failure of the Banco Romano. This bank was the most important money institution in the kingdom, and its money and credit were used by the government to serve their own ends, the result being financial disaster, ruin to many persons, prosecution of the bank managers and exposures of some of the most prominent public men of the country. The trial of the ex-governor of the bank is now proceeding, the charge made against him being that he issued sixty million lire (about $12,000,000) in notes above the original limit, and that he stole twenty-eight million of the amount over-issued. The official on trial, when testifying in his own defence, declared that the bank has been insolvent since 1888, but the Finance Minister prevented him from declaring it so in order not to upset the finances of the country. The ministers had also compelled him to assist in booming Italian government bonds to 101, and this transaction cost the bank $3,500,000. A good deal more was spent in operating the boom, in announcements and other things necessary for it, and for elections to support government candidates. It was shown, too, that the Premier had been questioned in Parliament about the condition of the bank, and although he knew the irregularities existed he denied all knowledge of them. The revelations in court have given the people some idea of how the politicians of united Italy keep themselves in power, and why they are fond of office.
