Bleak Winter Is Prospect For Unemployed In S'side

By NICK FILLMORE
S'side Bureau, The Guardian

Current opinions expressed by both government and town officials indicate that it is expected Summerside is in for a very unfavorable winter from an employment point of view.

As far as can be determined very little construction will be done in greater Summerside for the coming winter with the result that new post-war employment records could be established by the region's 10,000 plus population.

Mayor J. Earnest Morrison and Earl Cannon, manager of the Summerside branch, National Employment Service, have said that eastern Prince is most likely to have a very bleak winter in regard to both employment and construction.

"Unless something is done in a hurry", Mr. Cannon said recently, "the winter of 1963-64 will be one of the worst in history for eastern Prince.

"Last winter there was very little employment", he said, "but the way things look now this year will be the worst since the 1930s. Construction has always helped us in the past but as we see it now there will be no major projects this winter."

Mayor Morrison says he sees the situation as "very serious" compared to other years and has indicated he is very concerned about the restrictions recently placed on the winter works program.

Mr. MacNaught (Solicitor-General J. Watson MacNaught) says our unemployment situation is not chronic", said the mayor. "Maybe it isn't chronic but still it's as bad as in other areas of the country which have been made 'designated areas'."

The winter works program, whereby the federal government assumes 50 per cent of payroll costs will this year be in effect from Nov. 1 to April 30 as compared to programs in past winters running from Oct. 15 to May 31.

"The lost time amounts to 45 days", said Mayor Morrison. "The best period of construction under the plan for our region because of our weather."

Hurt worst by the shortening of the program will be the plans for the construction of a $41,000 sports complex, proposed by the Summerside and Rural Planning Commission, of which Mayor Morrison is chairman.

The complex is to include a quarter-mile track, a football field, soccer field, playground, and necessary maintenance, sanitary and administration facilities. The set-up would be located behind Athena Regional High School on the boundary of Summerside, and additional playground areas would be built in nearby Wilmot and St. Eleanors.

"Work on the sports fields can only be done when weather conditions permit", said Mayor Morrison, "and about all we have in P.E.I. from November to April is snow and ice. The best days for us were taken from the program."

SENIOR HOUSING

Minister of welfare and labour, Hon. Henry Wedge, recently stated that 12 senior citizen's housing units would be built in Summerside under the winter works program, but less than 25 men will be employed in their construction. Tenders are open for the building of the units until Oct. 1.

The Summerside Centennial committee will undoubtedly be able to go ahead with the construction of its proposed $11,200 commemorative fountain under the winter works program, but it is likely that less than 10 men will be employed on the job.

Tenders are not being called for the construction of the fountain. M. F. Schurman Co. Ltd will complete arrangements for the fountain with the centennial committee.

During his short stay in Summerside last week, Solicitor General MacNaught said that tenders for the construction of 100 RCAF Slemon Park homes would be called at once with work on some of the foundations to be carried out this fall. He did not say if the buildings would or would not be started until spring.

Tenders for the remainder of the 175 units would be called in the spring he said.

In regard to RCAF Station Summerside runway repairs, Mr MacNaught said all that will be carried out this fall is stock piling with the actual work beginning in the spring.

LOW TENDERS

Curran and Briggs Ltd., Summerside, are apparent low bidders for the parking apron repairs with a tender of approximately $1,047,000. The second lowest bid was by Diamond Construction at approximately $1,116,000.

The Town of Summerside has indicated that there may be two big projects in coming months, but nothing definite has been announced.

Officials are considering purchasing or constructing a large incinerator, expected to cost in the vicinity of $250,000. When the findings of the recent harbor survey are determined a large scale, harbor clean-up may be required.

Apparently the incinerator proposition is definitely off until spring but something may be done this winter about the harbor potution if the survey warrants it.

Two large buildings are at present being constructed in Summerside by M. F. Schurman Co. Ltd. and firm officials have said that if work moves as scheduled both jobs will be completed this fall.

The completion date for the $300,000 fish processing plant being constructed at Queen's Wharf is Oct. 31. Woodwork construction at the site is at its peak with 30 men currently employed.

The Lee building, with construction in full swing on Water Street at an estimated cost of $95,000, could be completed by Nov. 31, officials said yesterday.

The two-storey office and rental building is being built for MacArthur Properties Ltd. and will employ approximately 25 men until completed.

LOBSTER HAS ODD COLORING

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

Local fisherman Frank Arsenault caught an unusual half-blue lobster yesterday that fishing authorities say occurs in only one specimen in several hundred thousand.

One half of the lobster was of the natural dark green and brown shade while the other half, divided perfectly down the creatures back and front, was of a beautiful light blue color.

Summerside fishing authorities were unable to give an explanation for the oddity but said that department of fisheries files contained pictures of an unusual all yellow lobster as well as specimens with other coloring variations.

Greaves Gets Title Shot

LONDON (CP) — Britain's Mick Leahy and Wilf Greaves of Edmonton are expected to meet this fall for the British Empire middleweight boxing title relinquished Monday by world champion Dick Tiger, it was reported Tuesday.

Leahy's manager, George Middleton, is negotiating for the fight to take place in Canada before the end of the year. The venue may be Greaves' hometown.

Canadian champion Blair Richardson of South Bar, N.S., was the first nomination to fight Leahy but the Cape Bretoner plans no more fighting until he completes his university studies. Greaves took the Empire title from Tiger briefly in 1960.

Dublin-born Leahy, 28, took out naturalization papers last year and won the British title from midlander George Aldridge this summer.

Two other fighters — Yama Bahama and Gomeo Brennan, both of the Bahamas, are among the contenders for the vacant title.

The case was adjourned to Monday, Sept. 30, following testimony by Corporal S. Berry, and Constables Gord Grady and George Arsenault.

Charged with drunkenness and creating a disturbance, a Summerside resident's case was adjourned until a later date.

Royal Life Saving Society Recognizes P.E.I. Program

BY NANCY WHITE

The Prince Edward Island branch of the Royal Life Saving Society has been asked by the national organization to prepare a chapter of surf lifeguarding for its new manual, Mrs. Harry Cudmore, who was largely responsible for formation of the branch said recently.

Although this province has been carrying out a Royal Life Saving program since the mid 1940s, the provincial branch was formed just last January, she said. P.E.I. is the seventh province to have its own organization.

Mrs. Cudmore was most enthusiastic about the formation of the Island branch, which she said "gives the Island a provincial voice" in this Commonwealth-wide society, which has the patronage of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II.

Having this "provincial voice" is important to the Island, which is definitely special when it comes to swimming and water safety.

TEST RECOGNIZED

"The unique feature here is training the surf lifeguards. The test devised here is recognized by the Royal Life Saving Society, and is about to be incorporated into the national certification for lifeguards," Mrs. Cudmore said.

Although the Island's surf lifeguards receive what is perhaps the best training of any lifeguard group in Canada, the Island branch of the RLSS hopes to improve on this by extending it to a three-year program.

Money for this will, it is hoped, come from Prince Edward Island's share of a $10,000 grant the Canadian branch of the RLSS recently received from the Department of National Health and Welfare, through the National Fitness Council.

What the Island branch aims for, Mrs. Cudmore said, is that lifeguards in Canada will be qualified on three levels: pool lifeguards; inland waters lifeguards; and surf lifeguards.

OFFICERS

Dr. Paul Cudmore is president of the Island branch of the RLSS. Other officers are Rev. Owen Sharkey, vice-president; Mrs. Jack Brown, badge secretary; Edward Chinery, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Cudmore, chairman of technical committee; John Evans and George MacGuigan, directors.

Dr. Cudmore and Mr. MacGuigan will attend a conference of the RLSS in Edmonton next week.

Early in November, Rear Admiral H.F. Pullen, OBE, CD, governor of the RLSS for the Atlantic Region, will visit the new Island branch.

"A FELLOW MAN"

The main purpose of the Royal Life Saving Society is to reduce the number of drownings, Mrs. Cudmore said. Motto of the organization, whose Canadian branch was begun in 1908, is: "Whomsoever you see in distress, recognize in him a fellow man."

Lord Mountbatten of Burma, grand president of the organization, who presented Mrs. Cudmore with the RLSS Commonwealth Honor Award at the Canadian branch's annual meeting in Toronto last month, maintains that "every citizen should have a working knowledge of artificial respiration".

The Royal Life Saving Society presents a graduated series of life saving tests and corresponding awards, ranging from the elementary life saving certificate to the gold medal, Mrs. Cudmore said.

No Islanders have earned the gold medal yet, but two were awarded the RLSS Diploma, which is the award closest to the medal. This diploma was earned by Ralph Emery in 1950 and by Miss Robert Hutchison in 1956.

2,133 AWARDS

"Since the Red Cross water safety program was inaugurated in the 1940s, Red Cross instructors have qualified 2,133 people in Royal Life Saving techniques," Mrs. Cudmore said. The bulk of these awards were bronze medallions, she said.

Mrs. Cudmore made special mention of the award of thanks made in 1962 to Mrs. Earl Taylor, Charlottetown, who has worked as an examiner and an advisor since 1945.

Durelle-Schmidt Bout Is Non-Title

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Boxing Federation announced Tuesday that it will not recognize the Oct. 3 bout here between Joey Durelle of Trois-Rivieres, Que., and Toronto's Peter Schmidt as a title fight.

Schmidt is the Canadian welterweight champion. The bout next month with Durelle, whom Schmidt has fought twice before, was billed as a title affair by promoter Regis Levesque.

CBF policy is to refuse sanction of title fights in Montreal until a dispute over a return match between heavyweights Bob Cleroux and George Chuvalo is cleared up.

Promoter Levesque announced after the ruling that the 12-round fight would go on as scheduled as a non-title bout.

Durelle and Schmidt fought to a draw in their first meeting last year. Schmidt won on a disputed split decision in their second match for the Canadian title.

Frisco Gets Guglielmi

Guglielmi joined the Giants just before the 1962 season. San Francisco will be his fourth National Football League team. He also performed with the Washington Redskins and St. Louis Cardinals.

Formerly a Notre Dame star, Guglielmi is in his seventh year in the NFL.

Dove is a five-year man from Colorado.

Guglielmi played the first three quarters of the Giants' game against Pittsburgh Steelers last Sunday in place of the injured Y. A. Tittle. The Giants lost 31-0 and had difficulty moving the ball.

U.S.-British Tennis Clash Is Rained Out

(AP) — Heavy rain washed out practice for the United States and British tennis teams Tuesday and raised British hopes of an upset in the Davis Cup Interzone semi-final match.

The downpour further slowed up the red shale courts, which normally are slower than clay courts in the United States.

Bob Kelleher, non - playing U.S. captain, acknowledged that the slower courts probably would help the British, but he was not discouraged.

"I don't care much for theories in tennis," he said. "It's the best player of the day who wins the match."

The Americans hope that Wimbledon champion Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston will be the better men Thursday when the opening singles matches are scheduled.

HAVE RESERVE

McKinley, from San Antonio, Tex., and Ralston, from Bakersfield, Calif., were expected to carry the full singles and doubles load although the Americans have good reserve strength if needed.

The British lineup is uncertain but most observers believe captain Mcaulay will use Mike Sangster and left-handed Billy Knight in singles with Sangster and Bobby Wilson playing doubles. The doubles are scheduled Friday with the final singles Saturday.

The winner of matches here must meet India in Bombay in November for the right to challenge Australia for the trophy in late December.
