One Of Top Real Estate Firms Now in Bankruptcy

TORONTO (CP) - A business venture that grew in 10 years into one of the largest real estate firms in North America collapsed Thursday. Ridout Real Estate Limited, a firm which was doing a business of $80,000,000 a year, was placed in bankruptcy. Many of its 500 former employees sat stunned in an Osgoode Hall courtroom as Mr. Justice P. E. F. Smyly of the Ontario Supreme Court issued a receiving order putting the firm into bankruptcy. The end of the towering dream built by its 35-year-old head, George Ridout, from a converted dining room office came with sickening suddenness. Last October, poised and confident, he predicted a record sales year for the firm with 25 branches

Appeal Case in Supreme Court

Evidence in the appeal case of Wendell MacPherson versus the City of Charlottetown was presented before the Supreme Court in banc sitting in Charlottetown yesterday. The bench was composed of Chief Justice Thane A. Campbell, Justice Mark R. MacGuigan, and Justice George J. Tweedy. Q. C. J.O.C. Campbell appeared as counsel for the appellant and J.P. Nicholson for the defendant. The case arose from a conviction in City Magistrate's Court against the appellant on a charge of operating a taxi without a license. Evidence revealed that MacPherson had been operating without such license because the Council in City Magistrate's Court had not granted him one. Mr. Campbell argued yesterday that the Council was not justified in its action of disallowing the license when the reasons for the action were considered. Mr. Nicholson on the other hand defended the Council in its action, basing his defense on portions of the City by Laws, judgements already given by other courts in cases of a similar nature and also on the reasons for which the Council refused the granting of a license to the appellant.

Canadian Adjutant-General Manages The British Army

By KEN METHERAL Canadian Press Staff Writer LONDON (CP) - The day Charles Loewen took over as adjutant-general of the British army, a senior staff officer at the war office quipped: "Haul down the Union Jack and run up a Maple Leaf." It was the army's way of saying that despite spending 38 of his 56 years as an officer in the service of the British army, Sir Charles Falkland Loewen still remains very much a Canadian - and is not averse to letting anyone know it. He is the first Canadian to occupy the office of adjutant-general of the British army, and the first person from the Commonwealth's senior dominion to sit as a member of the United Kingdom's army council. TOUGH BUT FAIR Six feet tall and broad shouldered, he looks every inch the professional soldier from the tips of his mirror-polished shoes to his close-cropped sandy hair. A first-class administrator, he has a reputation for cutting through red tape to get things done in a hurry. Men who have served under him describe the general as a "tough but fair disciplinarian." But in a service where most members speak with a broad "a", one of the general's most striking characteristics is his Canadian accent. It was not always so. Born in Vancouver in 1900, Loewen received his early education in British Columbia. His father, Charles J. Loewen, who still lives in Vancouver, wanted his son educated at his old school in England.

Learns Of Sudden Death Of Brother

Dr. James I. Higgins, D.V.M. of Charlottetown left Halifax immediately for Sturgeon, Ontario, on receiving news of the sudden death by anoxia of one of his brothers, William Higgins. Flying Officer William Higgins served on the famous Coastal Command in Britain during World War Two. He joined the New Zealand Air Force while there and was later transferred to Canada and then overseas. In a plane crash in Scotland he had a miracle escape from death, escaping with severe facial burns. His many friends in Prince Edward Island will regret to learn of his sudden and unfortunate death.

Pipe Band Heard At Falconwood

On Wednesday evening, January 2nd, the Lads and Lassies Pipe Band under the direction of Pipe Major Wilfred B. Burge presented an enjoyable programme of Scottish music for the patients and staff at Falconwood Hospital. The programme consisting of vocal solos in both English and Gaelic by Heather and Tommy Band was also performed an Irish jig, Highland Fling, Sword Dance and pipe selections by the band as a group. Seann Triubhais and Flora MacDonald fancy by Heather Burke, together with the Sword Dance and a folk dance "The Gay Gordons" rounded out the evening's entertainment. The patients and staff were loud in their appreciation and both Mr. and Mrs. Burke are to be congratulated on the skill shown by all members of this band.

Imports Fine Hereford Sire

One of the finest young herd sires of the Hereford breed has been imported to the Island by Miller and Franklyn Sanderson of North River. This young sire has been selected especially for the Sanderson Bros. from a long list of bulls offered for sale at the Royal Winter Fair, held in Toronto last November. The animal was bred by Mr. and Mrs. C.F. Patterson of Norval, Ont. The Patterson Hereford herd is one of the finest in Ontario or perhaps Eastern Canada. Island breeders are offering congratulations to Sanderson Bros. in their efforts in building up and improving the quality of their herd. In future many of them will benefit greatly from their program by having the opportunity to purchase foundation stock to improve their own herds.

Painting To Be Blessed At Holy Redeemer Church

A beautiful translucent painting of Our Mother of Perpetual Help will be solemnly blessed in the sanctuary of the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer by Most Reverend Malcolm MacEachern, Bishop of Charlottetown on Sunday evening at 7.30. This Mother of Perpetual Help painting, which depicts the Virgin holding the infant Jesus in her left arm, is being donated to Holy Redeemer Church by Mr. Martin Kenny of Charlottetown and the late Mrs. Kenny. The painting is a work by the Montreal artist, Miss Fernande Latreille and it is only the second of its kind in any Mother of Perpetual Help shrines in the world. It is painted on microfilm and illuminated through a system of fluorescent lights which are located behind the picture and permeate it. The painting is surrounded with a varnish finish mahogany frame. The sermon for the unveiling will be delivered by Right Rev. Patrick McMahon. The painting will be solemnly blessed and Solemn Benediction given. The painting will remain in the Sanctuary and will be illuminated during "Our Mother of Perpetual Help Devotions" on Tuesdays. The Mother of Perpetual Help picture located above the Blessed Virgin's altar will remain in its usual position. There are Mother of Perpetual Help pictures in all Redemptorist Churches and in many other Catholic churches throughout the world. Our Mother of Perpetual Help devotions are held at the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer four times on every Tuesday of the year, after the 7 o'clock morning mass and at 4.30, 5.30 and 7.30 every Tuesday evening. These devotions are always attended by large numbers and everyone is welcome to participate in the prayers.

Couple Are Honored On 40th Anniversary

On Wednesday evening, November 14th, a very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil J. Stewart, Hampshire, when a large number of their friends, neighbours, sons and daughters-in-law and children invaded their home in the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart. The room was decorated with pink and white streamers of flowers. Everyone was ready to extend a royal welcome when Cecil and Ella arrived home later in the evening, after having dinner at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Clifton and Hilda of Central Realty. John Clark was master of Ceremonies for the occasion. After the bride and groom of 48 years married were seated in the beautiful china cabinet by Mrs. Elmer Larter (Freda), Mrs. Errol Stewart pinned on her mother-in-law a corsage of pink carnations on her father-in-law a white boutonniere. A well worded address was read by John Clark, followed by the presentation of a beautiful china cabinet by Mrs. Elmer Larter on behalf of the people of Hampshire United Church. This was followed by an address read by Clifton to Father and Mother, followed by a presentation of an electric floor polisher from their sons and daughters-in-law. Being taken completely by surprise it was utterly impossible to make a suitable reply for such splendid gifts and the spirit which prompted them while being made, but both of them managed to say "Thank-you" to all for an occasion that will long be remembered by them. The groom received a hearty bouncing and all joining in singing "For they are Jolly Good Fellows."

Crowsnest Tells Of Problems Of Small Boats In The North

OTTAWA (CP) - Small boat navigation is more than merely tricky in Canada's northern waters, where proximity to the magnetic pole sends compasses awry and quick-setting fogs often cut visibility. This has been the experience of officers aboard the navy's northern patrol ship Labrador, which uses small boats extensively to put supplies ashore on her annual Arctic patrols. Naval officials here say that as a result of the Labrador's experience, small directional gyro indicators, similar to those found on aircraft and unaffected by the magnetic pole, may be fitted to small craft for use in northern waters. Some of the northern navigational problems a small gyro outlined in an article in the navy's monthly publication The Crowsnest. SMALL BOATS WANDER The Labrador herself, equipped with latest radar and other navigational aids, has little trouble. But, the article says, frequently one of her small boats "has been seen on the ship's radar as tracking in a southerly direction when the coxswain has set a northerly course. "Moreover, sometimes the compass is fairly true on the run into the beach from the ship, but over 98 degrees out on the reciprocal course for the journey back." Allowing for the variation is not enough, says the article, since the compass errors appear to be random depending on the degree of loss of horizontal directivity. Some methods for overcoming the difficulty are for the coxswain to use the wind as a direction in-

Former Lt.-Gov. Of Alberta Dies

EDMONTON (CP) - Hon. J. C. Bowen, 84, Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta from 1957 to 1950, died Wednesday. Mr. Bowen had been ill for some time. The cause of his death was not learned immediately. Mr. Bowen held office during the colorful, early days of the Alberta Social Credit government when the late William Aberhart was premier. He once drew national attention when he reserved royal assent to three bills passed by the legislature. Mr. Bowen, prominent in the public life of Edmonton for many years, held the royal office for nearly 13 years. He was succeeded in 1950 by Hon. J.J. Bowen, the present lieutenant-governor. Sworn in March 23, 1937, Mr. Bowen had been in office only seven months when the Aberhart government passed measures seeking to impose regulations on newspapers, increase the tax on banks and regulate credit institutions. Mr. Bowen reserved assent and referred the bills to the governor-general in council. Subsequently, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled them ultra vires of the Alberta legislature. Alberta's appeals to the Privy Council failed.

Toronto May Have New Subway Route

TORONTO (CP) - Tenders may be called next month for Toronto's second subway route, a $150,000,000 project under planning for the last year. Toronto Transit Commission chairman Allan Lamport said Thursday the plans, are almost east-west route can be started in February almost as soon as approval is given by the metropolitan council. It will run along Bloor St. and Danforth Ave. The new route will intersect the existing Yonge Street subway, forming a giant subterranean cross beneath the heart of the city.

U. S. Paper Plant Claims Record

MILLINOCKET, Me. (AP) - The Great Northern Paper Company, largest manufacturer of newsprint in the United States, announced Thursday it believes it has set a world speed record in production. Officials said a new machine, installed 18 months ago in the company's $68,000,000 post-war expansion, made rolls of newsprint 292 inches wide at a speed of 2,250 feet a minute. Officials said the previous record, set by a Canadian company, was 2,000 feet a minute.

To Spend $2,000,000 On Port Aux Basques Harbor

OTTAWA (CP) - The federal government likely will soon begin an additional $2,000,000 to $4,000,000 worth of harbor improvements at Port Aux Basques, Nfld., in an attempt to get its long-delayed ferry service between there and the mainland running this year, it was learned today. The further harbor work being considered would include construction of an additional breakwater and extension of a breakwater completed in the western Newfoundland port last summer. It is expected to be started as soon as contracts for the work can be let. The work likely won't be completed until sometime in 1958 but it is hoped that enough progress can be made to enable the CNR ferry William Carson to use the harbor this year. FERRY WAS REASON It is understood that planning for the additional Port Aux Basques harbor improvements was begun after the CNR declined to take the Carson into the harbor last summer on trial runs. The ferry was built at a cost of $11,000,000 specifically to run between the Newfoundland port and North Sydney, N.S. Present terminal and harbor facilities at Port Aux Basques have cost about $7,000,000. The Carson, built to carry automobiles and passengers, was originally due to start plying between North Sydney and Port Aux Basques in the summer of 1955. B.D. McNair, operating her for the federal government, shifted her Newfoundland port of call to Argentina, a route 190 miles longer than original plans called for, because it felt the port Aux Basques harbor was unsafe without improvements. NEW BREAKWATER Works Minister Winters said last July his department had completed a new breakwater at the Newfoundland port and had suggested that on calm days the ferry be sailed into the harbor. Transport Minister Marler said at the same time that he did not know whether the trial runs suggested by the works department would be carried out. If they were, it would be announced. There was never any announcement. It is understood the CNR declined to make the trial runs because of the suddenness with which storms arise at Port Aux Basques.
