a farmer in Kenya. Uganda is a British protectorate in east central Africa, north of Lake Victoria. Hemingway had been in Africa since last August, having spent a week at Tanganyika's Amboseli national park, which is dominated by Mt. Kilimanjaro, site of one of his most famous short stories, "The Snows of Kilimanjaro."

Mrs. Hemingway was his fourth wife, the first three having ended in divorce. He had three sons by his first two marriages.

Was Reporter Born in Oak Park Ill. Hemingway was one of six children of a physician. He spent much of his boyhood in Michigan indulging in sports and accompanying his father on hunting trips.

After graduating, he became a cub reporter on the Kansas City Star, but soon joined an American ambulance unit bound for the front in the First World War.

His literary career began in post-war Paris where he served as correspondent for the Toronto Star and did sideline writing for periodicals. They were collected in 1923 for his first book "Three Stories and 10 Poems."

In the years that followed a flood of increasingly popular novels and short stories flowed from his typewriter. They included "In Our Time," "The Torrents of Spring," "The Sun Also Rises," "Men Without Women," "Winner Take Nothing" and "To Have and Have Not."

Back To Europe Between books, he found time to cover minor wars in the Near East and he reported the Spanish civil war for the North American Newspaper Alliance. The Spanish conflict had his personal interest because he had lived for about 12 years in Spain.

The Second World War found him back in Europe as a correspondent for Collier's magazine. In 1944, still convalescing from an automobile accident, he sailed in an attack transport at the start of the Allied invasion of France. Shortly after the invasion he joined a French partisan unit and became a captain. In one exploit, he helped in the capture of six Germans.

Hemingway's sons are Patrick, who lives in Nairobi; Capt. John, an army officer stationed at Ft. Bragg, N. C.; and Gregory, until recently a resident of Venice, Calif.

The author has a sister, Madeleine, and a brother, Leicester. His mother, Mrs. Grace Hall Hemingway, died about 18 months ago.

ated "neo-modern" rival authors it has clearly won high favor with the public. He once wrote mockingly: "In my 20's the critics said I was brutal, in my 30's they said I was fippant, in my 40's they said I was cynical, in my 50's they said I was competent and in my 60's they said I was superficial."

In recent years critics have been changing their tune about Maugham—and, the reading public has bought 25,000,000 of his books, earning more than $2,000,000 for the author. Maugham's success in the theatre has also been great. He once had four plays running simultaneously and at a profit in London.

Several of his books have been made into movies, and three groups of his short stories have been filmed.

Bison Bombers Defeat M. H. N.

The Montague Bison Bombers turned back the Murray Harbour North squad 7-5 in an exhibition game played at Montague Saturday night. A large crowd was on hand to witness a battle between two close rivals of last year, and it would seem that once again they are almost equally matched as evidenced by the play Saturday night.

Both teams were constantly on the attack, taking advantage of each break to work close to the net for a possible score. The fine performance of both goalies significantly helped in holding down the score in the wide open game.

With the opening of the Intermediate C League, these two teams will be seen in plenty of action, which should be of considerable interest to the fans.

covery but a second attack caused him to re-enter hospital Saturday. He became ambassador to the United States in 1946, succeeding Mr. Pearson who returned to Canada as undersecretary for external affairs and became minister of that department in 1948.

Born in Toronto Sept. 10, 1894, Humphrey Hume Wrong was a son of the late Professor G. M. Wrong of the University of Toronto, one of Canada's greatest historians. His mother was a descendant of Sir Edward Blake.

Mr. Wrong was also a great scholar and at one time was assistant professor of history at the University of Toronto.

He received his B. A. degree from that university in 1915 after which he joined the British Army as a second lieutenant. He transferred to the Royal Flying Corps in 1917 and served until the end of the war, retiring as captain.

Returning to the University of Toronto he received degrees of B. Litt. and M.A. in 1921 and remained as assistant professor of history until 1927 when he entered the external affairs department.

In Washington 10 Years

He was first secretary of the Canadian legation in Washington when it was established in 1927 and remained there until 1937 in varying capacities.

From 1937 to 1941 Mr. Wrong was counsellor in the office of the Canadian high commissioner in London and at the same time served his country in various capacities at the League of Nations in Geneva.

He came back to Ottawa in 1942 as assistant undersecretary for external affairs and in 1944 was appointed ambassador to Washington.

Mr. Wrong was an adviser at the imperial economic conference in Ottawa in 1932. He was a leading member of the Canadian delegation at the San Francisco conference in 1945 when the United Nations was organized.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Joyce Sutton of Toronto, a daughter, June, and a son, Dennis.

effectiveness of the multi-country wheat agreement had been lessened by Britain's withdrawal. But the government here and western farmers favored the pact as a stabilizing influence on farm economy.

Rather than have the pact scrapped when it expires in 1956, Canada will press for a favorable renewal if at all possible, the official said.

Report of the commission set up by President Eisenhower to survey U. S. foreign economic policy and make recommendations for changes was released in Washington late Saturday.

Trade Minister Howe said the report will be "very helpful" to Canada and the western world. Other officials observed that twice last year Prime Minister St. Laurent had called on the U. S. to exert world economic leadership to prevent depression and Communist aggression.

The feeling here is that the U. S. must move quickly to provide the "climate" for removal of restrictions which hamper the free flow of trade in the western world.

Island Odds And Ends

"If everyone cared enough and everyone shared enough, wouldn't everyone have enough? There is enough in the world for everyone's need but not for everyone's greed." The quotation is from Dr. Frank Buchman's book: Remaking the World.

Charlottetown and vicinity now has approximately nine hundred men and women drawing unemployment insurance benefits. All of them, of course, have contributed to the unemployment insurance fund while employed, and are receiving weekly payments as a right, and not as a favor. The nine hundred people are being paid a total of sixteen thousand to eighteen thousand dollars weekly, which is pumped back into the business life of the city by way of the grocers, the shoeman, the dry-goods stores, and otherwise expended for the necessities of life. Last year the number of people drawing benefits did not reach its peak until mid-February, but last winter total has already been exceeded by upwards of two hundred.

Canada is commencing a campaign to rehabilitate its physically handicapped men and women. The plan will be administered by the various Provincial Governments, assisted by grants from the Federal treasury. Remarkable work has been done in Britain in this respect. In 1940 Britain had a total of 185,000 men and women deemed as unemployable because of physical disabilities. Through the use of hospital, medical and other treatment services, this number had been reduced in 1952 to 80,000. Canada hopes to have similar success, as it develops the needed services and methods.

Charlottetown hopes of having a television station in the measurable future have received an abrupt setback with the death of Colonel K. S. Roges. At this moment there is no one in sight possessed of the technical knowledge, the drive and enthusiasm, the business stature or the love of the Island—which he had to carry the venture through. The Island has lost a great figure, a creative personality, a builder who dreamed dreams and made them come true, through sheer ability and the courage of his convictions.

Civic elections in Charlottetown present little excitement now-a-days, but earlier in the century the rival candidates faced each other at public meetings and made quite a shindig of it. It was all good fun and for the candidates very useful training if they had aspirations for Provincial or Federal political honors. The electors get a kick out of it, and men for man were more interested what the town's legislators were doing than present day voters.

Brigadier Bill Reid has a regular hockey factory in full production out at Victoria Park. Dozens of youngsters from "pee-wees" to "bantams" are learning the game under supervision in the great outdoors, where most all great players throughout the years have received their early education in the game, and learned to love it.

The fruits of this hockey school will be seen in years to come, when today's youngsters are carrying on Canada's great tradition, the world's greatest exponent of the game.

DAMAGE TO CARRIER

LONDON (Reuters)—The admiralty announced Thursday that engine room gauges in the 36,000-ton aircraft carrier Eagle, Britain's newest and most powerful carrier, have been damaged at Devonport on the south coast. It was the second such incident in the flagship of the heavy squadron of the Home Fleet.

Five Men Charged In Alleged Public Swindle

Divisional engineer at the Fort William branch of the Ontario highways department, A. M. Mill right, shown with his lawyer, J. P. Callon, was arrested after investigation into the branch accounts.

Biggest spending department in the Ontario government, the highways department built this huge garage and storage depot at Fort William.

Charges against five men were made by Highways Minister Doucett.

Reports of a million-dollar swindle of public funds in Fort William are being verified by the findings of provincial auditors who have been investigating the department of highways branch there for three months. The exact amount of the diversion of funds is not known but five men have been charged with breach of trust and false pretences involving $18,625. The auditors have reportedly found evidence that $150,000 was paid out for a gravel pit that never existed. Even haulage charges for the non-existent gravel are believed to have been included in the charges.
