

DOES DEATH END, ALL?

What Conscience and Physiology Say. Splendid Lecture by Joseph Cook.

This interesting question, and not "The Seven Modern Wonders of the World," was the subject of the Rev. Joseph Cook's lecture in Market Hall Wednesday evening.

Mr. Cook combatted the Materialistic Philosophy which answers the question in the affirmative. He drew his arguments from Conscience and Physiology, and referred briefly to the Bible for confirmation of the teachings of nature.

The argument from Conscience, he based on the well known lines of Shakespeare:— "The dread of something after death, The undiscovered country from whose bourn No traveller returns, puzzles the will, And makes us rather bear those ills we have Than fly to others we know not of."

He maintained that the dread of "something after death" was an instinct in the human family, that as nature never makes half hinges,—as there is a sunny south to match the instinct of the migrating bird—so there is an "undiscovered country" to match this instinct of all mankind.

The argument from Physiology is based on the latest discoveries of science, and is deeply interesting. All organisms, Mr. Cook explained, have in them living matter, nutrient matter, and formed matter; and growth is the result of a combination of living or germinal matter with nutrient matter, which produces formed matter.

The invited guests and students were soon assembled again to partake of what would and could comfort the inner man. Several toasts were proposed by the toast-master, Mr. Henry Cunningham of the St. Dunstan's College staff of teachers, and responded to in the following order:—

The Day we Celebrate—Mr. Alex. McLellan, Professor of the Commercial Course, Education—Rev. E. V. P. O'Neill Boyd, of St. Dunstan's College.

Our Rev. and Dear Friend and Guest—Rev. A. J. McIntyre, of Bishop's Palace. The Natural Sciences—Rev. C. A. McDonald, of St. Dunstan's College.

Our Sister Provinces—Edward Savage and Cornelius Campbell. Death of Peter Trainor. INQUEST ON THE BODY.

An inquest was held by Dr. Conroy, Coroner for Queen's County, in the Stipendiary Magistrate's Court room, on the body of Peter Trainor, who was drowned at Ferry Wharf on the evening of the 7th of October. The jury was composed as follows:— P. R. Ewers, Foreman; Capt. H. W. Mutch, Wm. Dillon, John McDonald, Robt. Crabb, John McQuillan and Philip Curley.

The following evidence was taken:— PATRICK TRAINOR (sworn)—I am nephew of the deceased. I saw him between half-past four and five on Wednesday, October 7th. I saw the body on the wharf, and identify it as the body of my uncle, Peter Trainor.

CHAS. CAMERON, Policeman, (sworn)—I searched the body of the deceased to-day, and found in one pocket $1.70, a jack knife, a small key, and a pipe. I saw Smith on the evening of the 7th of October, shortly after the deceased fell over the wharf. He was in the ferry boat drying his clothes. He said he went over the wharf to rescue Trainor. He had a little liquor in, but appeared sober. He told me he heard the deceased fall over, and that he went over the wharf to save him. I saw no evidence of foul play of any kind. It was so dark on the wharf that night that a sober man might fall over quite simply. There was no fence on the side of the wharf for quite a distance, at least over fifty feet, and no gate on the passage-way.

The Fitzpatrick Murder.

Prisoners at the Bar of Justice Further Evidence.

The prisoners, Otto Sydney Robinson and John Fisher, charged with the murder of the boy, Joseph Fitzpatrick, were arraigned this morning before the Stipendiary Magistrate, Hon. W. W. Sullivan, Attorney-General, appeared for the Crown; L. H. Davies, Esq., Q. C., for Fisher, and Frederick Peters, Esq., for Robinson. The Court was crowded during the examination and great interest was manifested in it.

The Magistrate stated that Mr. Fitzpatrick had been examined in a former suit and that the evidence in that case might be taken for the present examination.

Messrs. Davies and Peters said there was no difficulty in the way of so doing, but they objected to him taking as evidence the statements of the boy Fitzpatrick before he died.

The Magistrate then proceeded to read the testimony of Mr. Fitzpatrick, as taken at the previous examination. No alteration nor affidavits were made.

The Court formally noted the objection taken by Messrs. Davies and Peters to the boy's statement being received.

Mrs. Maria Fitzpatrick, mother of the deceased boy, was the next witness. Her evidence, as taken at the previous examination, was read to her and received without material alteration.

The evidence of David Enman, Argyle Shore, who saw the murder, was read and received by the Court. Witness further said: I did not recognize either of the parties, nor do I know them. (He was not asked if he could identify prisoners in the dock.)

The evidence of Catherine Enman, wife of David Enman, who also saw the murder, was read and received.

The prisoners stood up in the dock, and the Attorney-General asked witness if she was able to identify them. She said, I don't know I ever saw them before. I do not know how they were dressed, or whether one was taller than the other. We passed them at the Queen's Arms. I gave them a look, but I could not tell how they were dressed. It was a dark horse they had and a sort of an old cart. I do not know Fisher or either of the prisoners. By the glance I gave I thought the men in the cart had no whiskers.

Dr. S. R. Jenkins' testimony was next read and received unaltered.

DUNCAN McLEAN, (sworn)—I live at West River. I know the prisoners. I know Fisher for sure, and I think I know the other, Robinson. Fisher lives in Clyde River. I think a mile and a quarter from our place. (Identified John Fisher the prisoner.) I would not like to say on oath that the other prisoner is Robinson, and I would not say on my oath it wasn't him. Myself and my brother have farms adjoining each other. Our houses are considerable distance apart. Part of the time I live at the homestead and part of the time I live with my brother. I had a fellow hired named Robinson. His christian name was "Sed." I hired him at my own place about the 8th of last September. I think he went to work that day. He was over a month with me. I went away to work on a Saturday morning. The last I saw of him was Sunday. I think it was the Sunday next after the shooting of Fitzpatrick. Duncun McLean was there that Sunday evening. I gave him fifty cents of his wages. It was because he was such a good fellow and worked so well, that I gave him the money. He (Robinson) did not exactly say he was going away. (Identified prisoner Robinson.) I think he was hired with me. I am not laboring in doubt about the matter. I think it is. (Prisoner stands up.) witness said the man Robinson who worked with me had burned marks on both sides of his mouth, like the man standing up. (Witness here was pointed out his brother James in court.)

The Attorney General asked that your brother James?

Witness—I think it is. On the Friday, he continued, I left home between 7 and 10 o'clock, and came home between 11 and daylight. I don't know whether Robinson was at my place when I left. When I got home I think Robinson was in bed. He did not tell me that I am aware of that he was in town that day. I did not give him any work to do that morning. I saw him some time after breakfast between seven and ten o'clock. I left a gun at Brown's, in Charlottetown, the Tuesday before last, about the 6th or 7th of October. I delivered the gun to Robert Brown. The lock wanted repairing. Examination adjourned at one o'clock.

At three o'clock the Examination was resumed. Witness continued—I delivered the gun to Mr. Brown who is in Court—Robert Brown I think. He is the man I took the gun to Brown's store and I think Mr. Robert Brown was the man to whom I gave it. The gun was brought home and left in my brother's kitchen. The gun belonged to myself. It was the Tuesday or Wednesday of the week following the day of the shooting. This is the gun (taking one of three guns produced in Court) I left in Brown's. I do not know who left it in my brother's kitchen. I said to my brother and Robinson if any of you were going to town, bring home that gun left at Brown's. My brother James and Fred were there when I gave the order. I did not know which of them was going into town. I went with them. I saw the gun in my brother's kitchen. I did not give any money to pay for the repairs of the gun that I remember of.

Funerals. OUR militiamen and others consigned to the grave to-day, the bodies of two popular members of the militia force and citizens of Charlottetown.

Mr. Archibald McKinnon's funeral took place at 10 o'clock. Mr. McKinnon was a member of No. 1 Battery Garrison Artillery, and of the Hook and Ladder Company. The procession at his funeral was in the following order:— Band of 82nd Battalion, Firing Party of No. 1 Battery of Garrison Artillery, No. 1 and 2 Companies Garrison Artillery, Engineer Company, No. 3 Company Infantry, Fire Brigade, L. O. Association, Artillery, HERALD'S Engineers, Chief Mourners, Sergeants, Staff Officers, General Mourners.

The funeral of Benjamin Hooper, Esq., was held this afternoon at one o'clock. It was very largely attended, the procession being formed as follows:— Firing Party from Charlottetown Engineers, Engineer Company, No. 1 and 2 Batteries of Artillery, No. 3 Co. Infantry, Orange Association, HERALD'S Engineers, Chief Mourners, Free Masons with crape on arms, Sergeants, Staff Officers, General Mourners.

Oscar Wilde is engaged in working up a reform in ladies' night dresses. He advocates the use of soft silk in shades suitable to the complexion of the wearer, and advises also considerable alteration in the cut and modes of trimming.

The French Chamber of Deputies has been summoned to meet Nov. 10.
