The Steamer Elfin has been laid up for repairs to her boiler, by order of the Steamboat Inspector, Mr. Smith. She will, we learn, be ready for service in a week. In the meantime the Government have placed Batt Bros. on the East and West River routes. Last fall the Government gave orders to manufacturers for a new boiler for the Elfin, but the material for its construction was delayed all winter at Pictou, and as a result the steamer is left unfit for service until some repairs are made. A new boiler is now under construction and will be completed as soon as possible.

THE GREAT REBELLION

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

MOUNTED MAN NEEDED BADLY AT FRONT.

A mounted scout and courier, attached to the forces in the Northwest and well acquainted, from several years residence and travel, with the region over which the "ring" extends, on arriving at Qu'Appelle station from the front, April 20, thus gives his view of the situation in a letter to his brother in Ottawa. Before receiving this you will have heard of the engagement between Middleton's men and the rebels, which took place yesterday. The latter have a great advantage, as the country they occupy affords splendid cover; they are, moreover, good marksmen—much better than the majority of the volunteers. The General should have more mounted men. Those he has have but a poor outfit. The Governor-General's Body Guard arrived yesterday, and the Winnipeg and Quebec cavalry this morning. Had these men been at the front in yesterday's encounter, it would have been sharp and decisive, as Riel would have been totally routed. I arrived here this morning and return again to-morrow, with despatches from Clarke's Crossing; the distance is 240 miles. We run through in 35 hours without stopping, except to change horses.

[The mounted scout and courier above referred to is Mr. James McNeill, son of Mrs. McNeill, Revere House.]

LAST WORDS OF DYING SOLDIERS.

A letter from Prince Albert gives additional particulars of the Duck Lake fight. Speaking of the killed volunteers, the writer says: Napier's last words were 'Tell my mother I died like a man.' William Blake said, 'I am shot—God have mercy on my soul.' Merton said, 'You can't do anything for me—I am shot through the heart. Take care of my wife and family. Tell them I died like a man on the battle field.' Elliot, the policeman, said 'Fight on, boys; don't let them beat us.'

THE HALIFAX BATTALION.

The sixty-sixth contingent of the Halifax battalion, with headquarters, under Col. Bremner, reached Medicine Hat on the 7th inst., and encamped on the bank of the Saskatchewan, all well. The staff accompanying the 66th are: Bremner, Kenny, Garrison, Corbin and Dr. Tobin. The Rifles are much disappointed at not leaving. The lucky ones are jubilant. Two sergeants go, McKay and Taaf. The Rifles and artillery remain at Swift Current with Majors McDonald and Walsh and Rev. Mr. Pitblado. Blood Indians are reported on a horse stealing expedition forty miles away. A detachment of mounted rangers left Medicine Hat on the 7th inst. to gain information as to their whereabouts.

CAMP OF PERRY'S DIVISION.

(4 miles from Edmonton), Monday, May 4, via Calgary May 6.—A courier from the north gives the opinion that Big Bear will make a desperate fight. He knows it must be either death or the rope now that so large a force has come against him. Father P. Scollen, of the Battle River mission, whom we met to-day, says for some time previous to the Battle River outbreak, he had great difficulty in keeping his Indians quiet. They fired their rifles close to his face and made all sorts of threats. It was Indians of the Bobtails band who had taken everything from the Hudson's Bay store at Battle River. The whole band had intended to move when they heard of our approach, but he had persuaded all but the guilty ones to remain. Since the Government had ceased to provide ammunition and issued no rations. The Indians, Father Scollen says, have been "hard up," and to join Big Bear, who has plenty. The course they will take will much depend upon that of the Indians at LacBiche and White Fish Lake. Father Scollen says he would like to know what course the Government intend to pursue, for if no heed is given to the Indian, he would no longer consider his life safe among them. At our noon encampment Chief Ermine Skin, in his state trappings with a half dozen retinue came for an interview. He gave information that some scouts of his had been to the last smoke of tobacco. They came upon a large camp 30 miles west of Battleford and saw there Lucky Man, Poundmaker, and Little Pins. There were two hundred lodges, six hundred horses and more cattle than they could count were grazing about Big Bear was at that time near Fort Pitt. The intention was to join forces and march to Sounding Lake. Ermine Skin promised not to entertain couriers from Big Bear, and if they came or if he should learn anything further he would send on the news. He hoped the government would prevent the Indians of Lac LaBiche and Whitefish lake from rising, for if once they should join the rebels it would be impossible to keep the young men quiet. Since the disturbance had arisen the government had ceased to issue rations to his band, and all he had was three sacks of flour for his 200 people.

THIS IS A STRONG TEMPTATION

STRIKE-HEM-ON-THE-BACK

HAVING NO AMMUNITION

they could not secure game. His young men said that the bands they had seen under the four chiefs had plenty of rifles and ammunition. General Strang is busy at Edmonton, building barges with which to convey troops to Fort Pitt. All this region is terribly disturbed. Edmonton people are highly pleased at the arrival of troops. The town is full of refugees from the surrounding country. Father Scollen is very much afraid that

A GENERAL INDIAN WAR IS INEVITABLE.

He says none of the chiefs can now be trusted. The stoppage of Indian rations since the troubles began is a very unfortunate circumstance. A great many settlers have been killed and more have not been heard of for weeks. Ermine Skin's Councilor, Wahbathagose says he knows "bad Indians" are communicating with the Blackfoot, Bloods and Piegiens at the present moment. The trail between Edmonton and Calgary will be kept open by our detachments and couriers despatched every second day.
