THE FARMER'S BOY.

The sun went down behind you hill across the dreary moor; Weary and lame, a boy there came up to a farmer's door. "Will you tell me if any there be that will give me employ To plough and to sow, reap and mow, and be a farmer's boy."

Chorus— And to be a farmer's boy, to be a farmer's boy, To plough and sow, reap and mow, and be a farmer's boy.

"My father's dead, my mother's left with her five children small, And what is worst for mother still, I'm the largest of them all; Tho' little I be, I fear no work, if you will me employ To plough and sow, reap and mow, and be a farmer's boy."

Chorus. "And if that you won't me employ, one favor let me ask, Will you shelter me till the break of day from this cold and wintry blast? At break of day I'll trudge along elsewhere to seek employ To plough and sow, reap and mow, and be a farmer's boy."

Chorus. "O pray, try the lad," the farmer cried, "no further to him seek." "O yes, dear father," the daughter cried, whilst tears ran down her cheeks. "For those than can labor it's hard to want an' travel for employ Who'll plough and sow, reap and mow, and be a farmer's boy."

Chorus. In course of time he grew a man; the good old farmer died, And left the lad the farm he had, and the daughter for his bride. The boy that was, now farmer is, oft smiles and thinks with joy The lucky day he came that way to be a farmer's boy.

When Marriage is the Topic. The wedding gate is a favorite subject with the epigram makers. From a very old ballad we take this:

There was a criminal in a cart A-goin to be hanged; Respite to him was granted, And cart and crowd did stand To know if he would marry a wife Or rather choose to die. "Tother's the worst—drive on the cart!" The criminal did reply.

More modern is this verse: I would advise a man to pause Before he takes a wife— In fact, I see no earthly cause He should not pause for life.

Who, by the way, is the author who describes a second marriage as being "the triumph of hope over experience?" Samuel Lover's matrimonial epigram is very apposite: Though matches are all made in heaven, they say, Yet Hymen, who mischief oft hatches Sometimes deals with the house t'other side of the way. And there they make Lucifer matches. —Chambers' Journal.

Such is War.

The actions of men wounded in battle are often misunderstood. General Fuller, as quoted in the Chicago Inter Ocean, cites a pathetic instance of this kind: In the midst of battle General Fuller was trying to check the flight of panic-stricken men. One poor fellow came stumbling along, not heeding a word that was said to him.

Indignant and impatient, Fuller, as he came near this man, leaned from his horse, and, touching him with his sword, said sharply, "Go back, sir!"

The man looked up with an expression of anguish and despair on his face that said as plainly as words, "I am looking for a place to die." He opened his blouse and showed a big, gaping wound in his breast. Then he dropped to the ground. The general instantly dismounted, but almost as he raised the man's head to his arm the poor fellow breathed his last.

Women in a Photograph Gallery.

"If you want to see some of the vanities of life, just pass a week in a photographer's gallery," said one who has grown gray in the art that immortalizes. "That the bulk of our patrons is of the class of handsome people is a common belief, but not a correct one.

"Of course pretty women of a certain class get an enormous number of pictures taken, which they use almost as some people do cards, to give away to everybody. But a large number of orders come from people who are positively homely. Photographers rarely do a pretty face full justice. We cannot flatter nature without spoiling the effect entirely, but we can help out a homely person wonderfully, and the shrewd photographer doesn't neglect to do it in every possible way. I have seen commonplace looking women go into ecstasies over pictures of themselves.

"The painter who can use the modifications of light and shade in colors has a big advantage over us, but we have pretty well balanced things by touching up photographs in water colors. It's wonderful what exalted opinions some women have of their personal beauty. I have seen some of them who have been dealing with me for a quarter of a century, and they expect that their pictures of today shall show as attractively as those of decades ago."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

A Beautiful Bull.

The foreman of a grand jury in the west of Ireland had been presented for some public service with a gold watch, of which he was very proud, and as he displayed it at a dinner of the grand jury, bets were made by members as to whose watch was most accurate. At last some one suggested that it was impossible to decide.

"Oh," said the foreman, "there's no difficulty about that! There's a sundial in the garden, and we'll take a lantern and decide the bets that way."—Exchange.

MONTREAL, April 20.

Do you remember sending me two boxes of tea last September. Kindly send me six boxes. I would like exactly the same quality as we had before, which would be very difficult to beat. Do you want an Agent here. I believe I could do a good business for you.

St. JOHN, N. B. October 30.

Enclosed please find the amount of your bill for the Tea which was most satisfactory and much liked by my family. I will send for another box when this is finished.
