'The Mouse Trap' Rehearsal Staged Last Night At SDU

For the dress rehearsal last night of "The Mouse Trap", Charlottetown Little Theatre's entry in the Regional Drama Festival, the cast had a real audience for whom to perform. They were "on stage" at St. Dunstan's University Auditorium which gave them a real work-out in preparation for next Monday night's performance at Prince of Wales College, before a live audience—the students at St. Dunstan's.

Mrs. Fred T. Ranahan, stage manager for "The Mouse Trap", who has done so much towards the production of this play which is being directed by George Anderson, said last night that all connected with the play were most grateful to Rev. Adrian Arsenault for having arranged to have this dress rehearsal at St. Dunstan's.
