

TURKEYS IN A TREE

Turkeys on the farm of Arthur Anderson near Poplar Point, Man. 50 miles west of Winnipeg took to the trees when the Assiniboine River burst over a dike and flooded adjacent farmland. The water receded later.

Commonwealth Protection Stressed By Mac In Talks

By HAROLD MORRISON
 WASHINGTON (CP)—An aide to Prime Minister Macmillan said here the British leader informed President Kennedy that the Commonwealth in Britain and Europe must be protected "to some degree" before Britain will agree to enter the European partnership.

This aide said Macmillan's views were well understood by Kennedy at the two-day Anglo-American talks. Macmillan flew to Ottawa Sunday for talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and a speech before The Canadian Press in Toronto Tuesday night.

Because of the Canadian election campaign, Macmillan is decided to soft-pedal the political side of his Canadian visit. He has cancelled a planned press conference in Ottawa and has decided on a speech in Toronto which would be "of a different kind—interesting but light and non-political," the aide said.

Macmillan will provide Diefenbaker with details of the Anglo-American discussions here during which Macmillan and Kennedy expressed readiness to meet with Soviet Premier Khrushchev at the summit "whenever there is an indication that such meetings would serve the interests of peace and understanding."

NEED HOUSE APPROVAL
 Britain then will go back into Common Market talks to "refine" the negotiations on the basis of whatever comment the prime ministers make. Any decisions reached at that time would have to be submitted to the British Parliament for approval. This might bring Britain into the Common Market by 1963.

But the aide said Macmillan emphasized that despite the optimism voiced by the U.S. that Britain will join the market, such a step should not be taken as a "foregone conclusion."

Agreement would have to be reached to allow the existing scheme of Commonwealth tariff preferences to be continued "to some degree" for a period of years so that Commonwealth countries "don't lose anything by the new trade arrangements."

The aide said Kennedy's attitude, on being told of the British view, is that the U.S. administration well understands the Commonwealth problem and is taking the long view on this subject.

Douglas Says NDP Aiming To Build Up New Democracy

By SCOTT SCHILL
 SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. (CP)—National New Democratic Party Leader Douglas declared here that the aim of the New Democrats is to build a new democracy.

He told a rally that while Canadians must preserve their political democracy, they must also supply social and economic democracy.

Mr. Douglas said Canada has become an economic dictatorship.

"We have less and less to say about our economic life," he said. "Our economy has been stagnant. We have been bogged down in a morass of indecision and uncertainty... while the companies are shooting craps with destiny."

The New Democrats will supply Canada with economic planning, Mr. Douglas said.

The unemployment problem will not get better by itself, he said. Between 1962 and 1965, 1,000,000 young people will be seeking jobs. Automation, which now is affecting not only the "man in overalls, but also the white collar workers," will also put workers out of jobs.

MACHINES REPLACE MEN
 By 1970, one job out of every seven will disappear. The workers will be replaced by electronic computers and automation.

Mr. Douglas said that if Canada had a planned economy, used its unemployed workers fully and used its savings, it could increase the Gross National Product by $4,000,000,000 in a year, and without any new taxes the federal treasury would take in an extra $1,000,000,000 in a year.

With this money, a New Democratic government would pay for 60 per cent of the health needs of the population, with the provinces paying the other 40 per cent.

The NDP would provide pensions of $75 a month to all persons over 65 years of age and would tie the pensions to the cost of living. The party would also set up a national retirement allowance scheme.
