Convent of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary.

A Pleasing and Marvellous Record from a City Educational Institution.

Testimony of the Highest Possible Character.

Paine's Celery Compound and its Good Work.

The Sisters call it the "Wonder-Working Medicine," and Strongly Recommend Its Use.

No medicine in the world has ever earned or received the high and unstinted praise that has been justly accorded to Paine's Celery Compound. Testimonials (many of them of uncertain authenticity and questionable veracity) appear each week, advocating the use of medicines worthless and of no value to the sick and suffering.

Paine's Celery Compound stands on a summit of fame, far removed from all the deceptive medicines of the day. Its letters of testimony come from the best people, and from institutions whose names are synonymous with honor and uprightness.

Among the large and noted institutions whose people have been blessed by the curing and healing virtues of Paine's Celery is the "Convent of the Holy Names," in the city of Montreal.

This thorough and magnificently equipped institution of learning is amongst the largest of the kind on this continent, and has over thirty branch houses in Canada and the United States.

After a thorough trial of Paine's Celery Compound in the head house, by sisters who suffered from the troubles that make life miserable, and seeing the truly grand results—health, vigor, strength and strong nerve—it was deemed advisable, in the interests of suffering humanity, to make a declaration that would give comfort, assurance and hope to all sufferers in the land. The sisters have kindly and graciously written as follows:—

"We feel it a duty to add our testimony in favor of your 'wonder-working' Paine's Celery Compound. Many sisters suffering from debility, dyspepsia, sleeplessness and indigestion, have been completely relieved after taking it.

"We shall strongly recommend its use in all our houses as the best medicine to restore health, and give tone and vigor to the nervous system."

DELFT AND ITS CHINA.

ONE OF THE FAMOUSLY CLEAN TOWNS OF THE NETHERLANDS.

But Its Great Boast is That It Was the Home of the Prince of Orange—A Typical Inn—Buying the Famous Ware—The Leaning Tower of Delft.

The town of Delft, whence all this chinaware comes, is one of the famously clean towns of the Netherlands, being situated in the southern central part of Holland. The word "Holland," is incorrectly used by the English-speaking people, being in reality the name of only one province of the Netherlands. The English and Americans have thus improperly transferred the name of a province to that of a whole country, as had a mistake as if England were called "Sussex" or the United States "New York." This old town is a collection of remarkably clean canals, overshadowed with lime trees and bordered by the cleanest of clean brick houses, the water for all this cleansing being furnished by the river Schie, which flows into the Maas at Delfshaven. The cleanliness of many of these Dutch towns is really marvelous. They are so clean that it seems a desecration to do any work within their limits. Various travelers have given various explanations for this habit of cleanliness existing among the Dutch; the climate, the abundance of water and the superabundance of servants have all been brought forward as causes. But it seems to me that there is a force back of all these elements which is the real cause of this phenomenon: it is due simply to the temperament of the Dutch people; they are methodical and cleanly by nature, and hence they cannot stand anything that smacks of even a suspicion of dirt.

Delft is famous for other things besides its china and its cleanliness. In the first place, the great boast of Delft is that it was the home of the famous William of Orange and the scene of his unfortunate death, and, secondly, it was the birthplace of Hugo de Groot, the great statesman and scholar, whose fame is linked to that of the neighboring university of Leyden.

The celebrated Prinsenhof, which was the palace of William the Silent, the founder of Dutch independence, is on the Oude Delft canal.

Opposite the Prinsenhof stands the famous "Oude Kerk," or old church of Delft. It has a leaning tower which, while by no means as marked as that of the famous tower at Pisa, is still far enough out of plumb to attract attention and invite investigation. Its inclination was probably produced accidentally for the tower is tall and heavy and its base is surrounded by various canals, which would tend to weaken the stability of its foundations. Moreover, the Dutch have no desire to do such an unorthodox thing as to build a church with a leaning steeple. In this old church is a monument to the memory of Admiral von Tromp, who is the great naval hero of Holland.

In the square market-place which lies to the west of the Prinsenhof stands the so-called Nieuwe Kerk, or new church of Delft, which, although called new, was built in 1412, and is in reality older than the old church.

In the open square which lies in the Groote Markt between the Nieuwe Kerk and the Stadhuis is a bronze statue of the other great celebrity of Delft, Hugo Grotius, or Hugo de Groot. This great Dutch scholar was born in this town in 1583, the day before the assassination of the Prince of Orange. He became involved in political troubles early in life and was imprisoned for several years but finally escaped and became eventually the Swedish ambassador to France, in which service he died. His principal claim to fame is as the founder of the science of international law.

Delft is off the line of the conventional sightseer; what few visitors it does attract generally run down there for the day from The Hague, which is only a few miles distant. Therefore when we stopped at Delft we found that our presence created quite a sensation in that section of the town. Our little inn evidently was not honored often by the presence of travelers. The best rooms were small and dark, while the beds were single, each one being completely enveloped in curtains of heavy dark-colored calico. Everything about the hotel, however, was scrupulously clean. We could not find any one who was able to understand the simplest English; even our best German provoked no intelligent response. As our attempts at Dutch were as thoroughly hopeless, it was hard to make even our simple wants known. Imagine our surprise then, on being awakened in the morning by hearing a voice ask at the door in excellent English whether we would have tea or chocolate for breakfast.

On going to the breakfast-room we found a sweet, bright-faced, intelligent-looking Dutch girl who said that she was the niece of the proprietor of the inn; that her aunt had sent for her to attend us and serve as guide to the town as long as we stayed.

On leaving our inn in the morning we walked straight to the nearest china store to buy Delft ware. Shades of Delft! We were offered the common Japanese ware which has filled our own shops for years to the full as being better and more novel than Delft ware. Finally, we succeeded in getting some original ware, but we were regarded rather suspiciously—probably as being either feeble-minded or very eccentric. We visited also the potteries, which are beginning to be again the show-places of the town.

Our New York Dutch girl proved an excellent guide, for with her care we learned much of Delft and its customs. Here, on the edge of the town, we found the great Polytechnic School of Engineering, which is the real military school of Holland, for here the Dutch youth is taught to fight against the sea. This study of civil engineering is necessary to the existence of Holland; a country that lies in great part below the level of the sea must be guarded, that it may not be swept from the map again. This action was taken with a portion of the Netherlands to save the country from the Spanish in the sixteenth century.

Many of these dykes were so expensive to build that the sum represents the value of an equal amount of massive copper. Holland is a fortress; its mills are its towers; its cathedrals are its gates; the islands the advanced forts; and, like a true fortress, it shows to its old enemy, the sea, only the tops of its bell-towers and the roofs of its houses in defiance and derision.—J. Howe Adams, in the Peterson Magazine.

Mr. Stratton, of West Peterboro, has given notice that he will introduce in the Ontario Legislature a bill to regulate bicycles, which, among other things, will declare all bicycles to be carriages, under the regulation of municipal councils and authorize municipalities to license all such machines provided that the moneys obtained from the taxation are applied to improving roads and making pathways for persons using wheels.

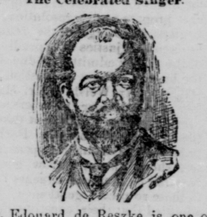
EDOUARD DE RESZKE.

The Celebrated Singer.



Mr. Edouard de Reszke is one of the foremost singers of the time; at present he is charming fashionable audiences in New York, in the lyrical version of "Romeo and Juliet." Recognizing that it is of the utmost importance to the success of the great singer that the system should be kept fresh and elastic, Mr. de Reszke says of the great tonic wine "Vin Mariani:"—"With pleasure I state that 'Vin Mariani' is an excellent tonic, specially useful to singers." This is in harmony with the testimony of many other prominent singers and orators, all of whom agree that "Vin Mariani" has the special virtue of strengthening the voice, besides possessing the power to build up body and brain, enfeebled from excessive strain or overwork. This celebrated tonic-stimulant, containing the medical properties of fresh selected coca leaves, has been used with benefit and delight by most of the great ones of the earth, and if you care to know, not merely what these great ones say, but how they look, send your address to Laurence A. Wilson & Co. Montreal, and you will receive a number of celebrated portraits free.

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

How Ye Editor, Who is Also Mayor, Helped a Brother Chip.

Helping an Editor.—While a certain per cent of the journalistic fraternity of this Territory are down on the Kicker, and never miss an opportunity to give us a whack, our feeling toward the entire lot is a fatherly one, and we are always cheerfully willing to do a brother editor a favor. Last week we got word from Brother Babcock of the Pine Hill Recorder that things were not going right with him. Day before yesterday we mounted our mule and rode over to see what the trouble was. We soon ascertained that he had been licked so often that the sand had all pertered out of his craw. He started the Recorder with the intention of making it a rival of the Kicker; but, alas, he doesn't know one end of a gun from the other and is too weak in the back for a rough and tumble fight. Whenever he has published a spicy paragraph during the past six months, someone has called at the office and wiped the floor with him and made him feel that life was not worth the living. He was expecting two or three callers when we got over there and it didn't take much coaxing on our part to induce him to stand back and let us take a seat at his editorial table. In fact, he had gone home and gone to bed, and we were running things, when a big buffer of a teamster struck the office to lick the editor for publishing an item to the effect that spotted horses were going out of style and had suffered a drop in prices. The duffer didn't want to argue the matter or demand a retraction. He was boiling over to lick somebody, and he was no sooner inside the office than he made a dive for us. He picked up a hot iron from the very start. We had him on his back and thoroughly licked in less than five minutes, and we had no sooner let him up than he subscribed for three copies of the Recorder and paid in advance.

We had only got our second wind when in came a citizen of the town to lick Brother Babcock, for saying there were too many saloons in the place. He didn't know one editor's back from another, but when we wheeled on him and proceeded to bump and bang the breath out of his carcass such a look of amazement stole into his face that we thought he was preparing to drop dead. In the course of five hours, which was all the time we could spare that day, four different individuals came in to make Bro. Babcock get down on his marrow bones and plead for mercy and be mopped over the floor. There were four separate and distinct surprise parties, and in each case we came out on top and secured cash in advance subscribers for the Recorder. We smashed two knuckles on our right hand, but the pain and annoyance were more than offset by seeing the radical improvement wrought in Bro. Babcock. When he came over and learned what we had done, he was a new man. We put him up to a trick or two in the manly art, and before leaving had the satisfaction of seeing him wallop the proprietor of a poker-room, who had called to stop his paper and punch the editor's head. We believe the Recorder man has passed the Rubicon and will be all O. K. from this time on, but some day next week we shall ride over again and give him a few boxing lessons and teach him the use of a revolver. We will willingly do as much for any other editor within 50 miles of us. We have always held that an editor should be on top, and, though we have had to knuckle on several occasions, our average is way ahead of the game.

Postal Matters.—The Lone Tree Herald, which, by the way, is a very good weekly newspaper for one run by a red-headed cross-eyed man, was pleased to say last week that the editor of the Kicker was still hankering to be Postmaster of this town. We acknowledged the corn. The only thing we have reached out for and failed to get since we struck Arizona is a post office. When we had the Kicker on a paying basis and had been elected Mayor of the town, Territorial Senator, president of the Publishers' Association and several other things, we grabbed for the Post Office. The present incumbent is a mean man from the ground up. He is not in sympathy with any party or any human being except himself. If he can find one single man in the town who does not hate him for a skunk, we'll forfeit $500 to any charity he may name. It was our firm belief that we could boost him out in a week, but after long years he still sticks. It is one of the mysteries of politics. We have licked him on the street and shot at him through the general delivery window. We have sought to buy him off, and we have sent three different petitions to Washington praying for his removal and our appointment.

We frankly admit that we have left no stone unturned in our efforts to handle Uncle Sam's mail in this locality, but we are no nearer the zenith of our hopes than when we began. While confessing to defeat and disappointment, we are trying to be a philosopher about it. Even post offices come to him who waits. In the course of time this plum will fall into our hands, as other plums have done, and realizing this we have contracted to build an addition to the Kicker office to be used as a post office. Nothing is too good for an editor, and the editor who is not constanntly reaching out after the fat things of life deserves to end his days in the poorhouse.—M. Quad.

Land and Water Tricycle.

A tricycle which can be made to travel either on land or water is the invention of a Hamburg genius named George Pinkert. The machine is so large and heavy that no such speed can be gotten out of it as is made every day upon the boulevards, but Herr Pinkert thinks he has accomplished much in doing nine and one-fourth miles an hour on land and seven and one-half on the smooth surface of a river. His tricycle has motor wheels fifty-three inches in diameter and nearly twenty inches thick. They are made of sheet iron, and are divided into three water-tight compartments, which are filled with air. On the outside of these wheels are flange-boards about four inches wide by seven and one-half in length. The steering wheel is about a yard in diameter and sixteen inches thick, and has two water-tight compartments. The heels have rubber tires which allow them to run on land. The whole machine weighs about 210 pounds.

Any Jury Would Convict Him.

"Young man, what right have you to kiss my daughter on such short acquaintance?"

"What proof, sir, have you that I have done any such thing?"

"No positive proof, young man, but that hairpin in your mustache is strong circumstantial evidence."

Very Likely.

Mitts—Hasn't your husband got wheels in his head?

Mrs. Bigwit—I guess he has. He's working out a new roulette system to break the bank.

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.—South American Rheumatic Cure, for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immdiately disappers The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents.

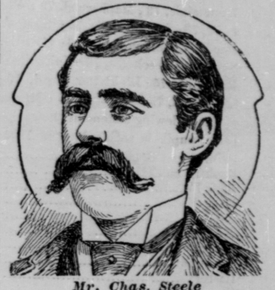
Appetite and Health Restored by Hood's Sarsaparilla.



Mr. Chas. Steele
St. Catherine's, Ont.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"For a number of years I have been troubled with a general tired feeling, shortness of breath, pain in the back, and constipation. I could get only little rest at night on account of the pain and had no appetite whatever. I was that tired in my limbs that I gave out before half the day was gone. I tried a great number of medicines but did not get any permanent relief from any source until, upon recommendation of a friend, I purchased a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which made me feel better at once. I have continued its use, having taken three bottles, and

I Feel Like a New Man.

I have a good appetite, feel as strong as ever I did, and enjoy perfect rest at night. I have much pleasure in recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla." CHARLES STEELE, with Erie Preserving Co., St. Catherine's, Ontario.
