

Home-Making.

The following is one of a number of letters received in response to our invitation of last week. All come with the mark which we set up, namely how a young couple can economically start housekeeping, but this one is given for the advice it contains:—

Editor of the "Woman's Kingdom." In answer to your kind invitation for more opinions on the marriage, question allow me to say to young men:—Do not marry until you are willing to make some sacrifices. For instance, if you love the card table, bar room or yourself better than you do your home, remain single. Do not marry a girl and take her from a loving home, where perhaps she has a father, mother, sisters and brothers for companions every day, and as soon as you have returned from your wedding tour spend all your spare time and every evening with old companions, and leave her to enjoy her own society with the help of the rest. You have done your duty (you think) if you have left enough of wood split to keep the house warm until mid-night, when you see fit to come home, and your are quite put out if your wife does not meet you with a smile. If she should venture to find fault at having to stay up so late you put your foot down at once. Are you master there? You tell her that you intend to do as you please. If it should be your evening thanksgiving and you have married a sensible girl, you need not be surprised, and that before very long, to discover that she has become indifferent as to your whereabouts, a sad state of affairs, but what you must expect, unless you do your best in making home the dearest spot on earth! When you are prepared to make these sacrifices, by all means get married. It is that way the good Father intended to be happiest.

What is home with none to meet— None to welcome, none to greet! Home is sweet—and only sweet— When there's one we love to meet us. Home!—Go watch the faithful dove Sailing 'neath the heaven above— Home is there there's one to love us. Home is there there's one to love us. —Working Woman

The Tobacco Industry of Germany.

The following is from the "Tabak Zeitung," chief producer of tobacco is, as is well known, its home, America whose power of producing is not nearly approached by that of any other division of the earth. The further however, the love of tobacco spreads outside that country. The smoking nations of this quarter of the globe do the utmost—and very justifiable too—to provide for their own needs as far as possible. Unfortunately the results do not always correspond to their exertions, at least as far as flow is concerned. In Europe the best cigars are produced by Turkey, Russia, Hungary, Germany and France, but they are far surpassed by the United States of America, Cuba and Brazil. German and France are even behind Japan, Peru and China. In spite of that, the cultivation of tobacco in Germany is more important than is generally believed. The area of the ground grown with tobacco amounted to 21,800 hectares, the yield of the cured leaves (taking the average of the last two years) to 41,728 tons. But this is not nearly enough for the requirement of the home tobacco industry in raw tobacco. Above 40 per cent. of the quantity used is imported.

A Witty Retort.

A fidgety old gentleman at a railway station was terribly afraid that he would lose the run of his trunk, and consequently worried the busy porter about it somewhat as follows:—"Porter be sure that my trunk is safe." A moment later: "Porter, don't forget my trunk." Shortly again: "Porter, now you are quite sure that my trunk is safe?" The porter answer, "A-rab, and be jibbers it's a pity you wasn't an elephant, instead of an ass, and then you would always have your trunk under your eyes."

Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites Scott's Emulsion of Pure FOR LUNG TROUBLES AND WASTING DISEASES Dr. J. S. Snow, New Orleans, La., says: "Scott's Emulsion is the finest preparation of the kind ever brought to my notice. In cases of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we may consider it our most reliable agent. In a perfectly elegant and agreeable form."

"I should like to box your ears," said a Chicago girl to an unscrupulous Detroit ad then added, reflectively, "if I could find a box big enough."

Proof-reader (to editor): "Is this 'little brother' or 'little brother' in your manuscript?" Editor (who has one): "It doesn't make any difference."

Little six-year-old was obliged to take a dose of medicine that left an unpleasant taste in the mouth. When asked how he liked it, he said: "It's good enough, all but the end of it."

"Who brayed then?" inquired earnestly a public speaker, in a tumultuous meeting at which imitation dogs and "monkeys figured with open mouth." "I guess it was only a echo, sir," responded a hearer.

HOW LOST HOW RESTORED!

JUST published, a new edition of DR. CULP VERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the medical cure of SPRAINS or Strains, Weakness, Involuntary Spinal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also CONSUMPTION, EPILEPSY and FITS, induced by self-indulgence, or sexual extravagance, &c.

The celebrated author, in his admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
