Fire Damages Brooder House At Alberton

Fire broke out about 2.30 p.m. on Tuesday in the brooder house at the Matthews turkey farm in Alberton resulting in the loss of fifty birds and some damage to the floor and roof of the building.
Mr. Herbert Matthews, owner of the business, said last night that the blaze was caused by the explosion of one of the stoves. He had checked them all about two o'clock and on his return a half hour later he found that the fire had broken out and was gaining headway. An alarm sent in to the Alberton Fire Department was responded to instantly but Mr. Matthews had the blaze under control by the time they arrived. There were 2,000 birds on the floor at the time and Mr. Matthews said that had he remained away for another few minutes all would have been destroyed and the building as well. The brooder house was of wooden construction.

The late Mr. Holman was always keenly interested in the Prince County Hospital and for a quarter of a century was its energetic president of the board of trustees. He helped in the building of this institution from a particularly small organization to an up-to-date hospital. In line with his zeal for the betterment of Summerside, for a number of years he acted as vice-president of the local Board of Trade and his interest in tourist activities in particular made him an invaluable member of this organization. During his career Mr. Holman was also connected with other local business enterprises, serving for a time as president of the Hall Manufacturing and Cold Storage Co. Ltd., and as vice-president of the Pioneer Publishing Co. Ltd. Other civic organizations to which Mr. Holman devoted much time and interest were the Summerside Golf Club and the Curling Club.

He is survived by his wife, the former Constance Wright, and three daughters and two sons: Mrs. Gerda H. Morrison, Summerside; Keltie, Mrs. Ralph Hebb, Halifax, N.S.; Hilda, Mrs. J. T. Nichol, Arvida, Que.; Alan H. and Harry T. Jr. in Summerside. He is also survived by three sisters, the Misses Carrie and Gladys in Summerside and Mrs. Maud Parsons, Montreal and a brother Dr. William Holman, Toronto. Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

claimed that at 5:56 p.m. on the evening of May 26, 1948, a large silver, twin-engine aircraft flew over the mink ranch at a height of 400 feet. He examined the mink pens and found the animals highly excited. The testimony said that in the morning most of the mink had disappeared. Thomas Vaughan, president of Nova Mink Limited, said the company had embarked on a program of improvement and enlargement before the incident took place. He said the company was almost driven from business because of the heavy loss of young animals which were to be used for breeding. James Langile of Halifax said he was visiting Musquodoboit on the day in question and saw a low flying plane pass over the area. John MacInnis of Briton Cove, Victoria County, testified that he had found it necessary to avoid exciting mink during the whelping season since they would destroy their young if alarmed. He had been mink raising for 10 years. Mr. MacInnis estimated the value of a young mink between $35-40 and the general business loss resulting from destruction of an entire year's production as running into thousands of dollars. The mink farm has asked $9,120 to pay for the dead mink and $5,000 to compensate for general disturbance of its business. The case is believed to be the first of its kind in Canada.

HALIFAX, April 19 (CP) - A $13,120 suit against Trans-Canada Airlines resumes today when two witnesses will appear for the plaintiff - Nova Mink Ltd. - and nine for the defence.

Airline Sued By Mink Company

The case got underway in the Nova Scotia Supreme Court yesterday when it was charged that a T. C. A. plane, flying low over the mink farm at Musquodoboit Harbor, 30 miles east of here, caused the death of 203 young mink. The firm charged the "noise, concussion and disturbance caused by the operation of the said aircraft frightened, disturbed and panicked the mink so much they became frenzied and crazed and killed their young and each other and greatly deteriorated the value of such mink as survived." The company claimed the frightened mink swallowed more than 200 of the week-old "kits." T. C. A. has denied the charges. The incident occurred May 23, 1948, the mink company said. The evidence of the late James Vaughan, manager of the mink ranch was read yesterday with the explanation that he was suffering from an incurable illness when the evidence was taken and did not expect to live long enough to appear at the hearing. Mr. Vaughan's statement
