LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Tribute to a Good Wife.

Str.—I feel it my duty to say a few words on the death of my loving and beloved partner, which took place on the 14th day of May last, 1891. She was stricken down by the malady that has laid low so many in town and country of late. Throughout her painful illness no murmur or complaint proceeded from her lips. In fighting the battles of life she took more than her share. When meeting with trials, losses and crosses through the chequered scenes of life—and not a few we had—she was never despondent, but would fault others that were. She was naturally unassuming and peaceable. No relation, friend or stranger that ever came to her home but admired and respected her for her extreme kindness, and as a kind and tender-hearted mother I think none could excel. I stood at her bedside and saw her breathe her last, like the sun setting after a cloudy and stormy time fringing the western sky with its golden beams. All was calm; not a ripple on the past troubled waters. She passed away like a child dozing to sleep in its mother's arms. A few days before her death she said to her daughter that she was about to enter the dark valley and shadow of death, but she trusted her Blessed Saviour would support and conduct her safe, and receive her into His everlasting kingdom prepared for the people of God, and where the Lamb, who is in the midst of the throne, shall lead them and guide them to fountains of living waters, and God himself shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.

There everlasting spring abides
And never withering flowers;
Death like a narrow stream divides
This heavenly land from ours.

FOR OVER FIFTY YEARS Mrs. Winsloe's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for their children while cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best-known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winsloe's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. mar23 ed & wky lyr

Address and Reply.

On June 30th, 1891, Messrs. H. F. Bissett and Alex. F. McLean waited on Miss Katie Coady at her boarding house, on behalf of the ratepayers of Cardigan Bridge School and presented her with the following address:—

DEAR MISS COADY.—With deep regret we hear of your intended departure from amongst us. Since you came here about two and a half years ago as teacher of the primary department of our school, we have always loved and respected you, for the very amiable manner in which you conducted the department over which you had jurisdiction, and your exemplary conduct, and think it but a small tribute of our respect to present you with this address, thereby showing our appreciation of the valuable services you have rendered us in laying the foundation of a good education in the youth of our school. And you may rest assured that wherever your lot may be cast in the future you shall always carry with you the best wishes of the people of Cardigan Bridge and vicinity, and trust that under the guidance of Divine Providence your path may be strewn with heaven's choicest gifts.

D. C. Morson, Mrs. J. A. Alley, H. F. Bissett, Mrs. John McDonald, John L. McDonald, Mrs. D. C. Morson, Alex. F. McLean, Mrs. H. L. Macdonald, James F. McDonald, Alex. McKay, James A. Alley, Mrs. G. F. Owen and others.

MISS COADY made the following reply:—

DEAR FRIENDS,—I cannot find words sufficient to express my feelings for the honor and respect you have shown me by presenting me with such a beautiful and numerous signed address, and can only say that I thank you all from the bottom of my heart. Since I took charge of the primary department of your school, I only did what I considered was my duty in regard to the teaching and advancement of your little children and it affords me great pleasure to know that my services have been so highly appreciated, but without the hearty co-operation of both parents and pupils, my work would not have been the success you give me credit for, and whatever fate awaits me in the future I shall always remember the happy days I spent with the good people of Cardigan Bridge and vicinity, and in bidding my little pupils good-bye I trust they will always remember and pray for me.

KATIE COADY, Teacher.

Rothschild's Maxims.

The elder Rothschild had the walls of his bank placarded with the following curious maxims:

Carefully examine every detail of your business.

Take time to consider and then decide quickly.

Dare to go forward.

Bear troubles patiently.

Be brave in the struggle of life.

Maintain your integrity as a sacred thing.

Never tell business lies.

Make no useless acquaintances.

Never try to appear something more than you are.

Pay your debts promptly.

Learn how to risk your money at the right moment.

Shun strong liquor.

Employ your time well.

Do not reckon upon chance.

Be polite to everybody.

Never be discouraged.

Then work hard and you will be certain to succeed.

Literary Notes.

"My Danish Sweetheart or the Romance of a Month," is a highly interesting work by W. Clark Russell. It is written in that popular authors usual style, with no plot whatever, and reads on from chapter to chapter with the interest of the story. It depicts sea voyaging in true and vivid word pictures. The putting out of the life boat from the village of Lintreale on the Cornish coast to the relief of the distressed Danish bark Anine; the wreck of that vessel; Hugh Tregarthen and Helga adrift on the broad Atlantic on a fragile raft; being picked up by a Deal lugger, the stupid crew of which are on a voyage to Australia; being taken from the lugger to the bark "Light of the World," the wreck of the lugger, the murder of the captain of the "Light of the World," and after leaving the murderous crew of that bark being picked up from an open boat by the steamer "Mosquito," and finally being landed "home again" and finally being the most interesting written by this celebrated writer of sea stories. It is published by Lovell & Co., Montreal.
