

French Proverbs About Women.

What woman wills God wills. He who takes a wife finds a master. A foolish woman is known by her finery. A melon and a woman are hard to choose. He that hath a wife is always sure of strife. A woman conceals what she does not know. A woman unemployed is busy in mischief. Never a looking-glass told a woman she was ugly. A woman who looks much in the glass spins little. A tender-hearted mother makes a shabby daughter. A deaf husband and a blind wife make a happy couple. With an old husband's hide a widow buys a young man. Weather, wind and women's minds change like the moon. Widows weep for the lack of a husband, not for the loss of one. He who is married, or tries to lead an ass, is never free from plague.

Tobacco Chewers Among Women.

A well known physician, while walking down the street with a friend, remarked, a patient of mine lives in that house who is dying—an idolized wife—beyond all help, and tobacco chewing has killed her. Why, Doctor, what do you mean? I mean this: her husband is literally steeped in tobacco juice, and the insensible perspiration from his body has become so saturated with nicotine as to be a deadly poison. His wife, before I was called, had absorbed enough of the poison so that no human power could save her; and even he will, I believe, end his days in torture from some form of skin disease. The skin is really the most wonderful and important organ of the human body. Night and day, every hour of our lives, it is filtering out from the blood useless or poisonous debris. If it stopped work even for twenty-four hours in this or any case, death would ensue. You can imagine, then, what it means for a delicate, sensitive-skinned woman to sleep in a warm bed night after night with an inveterate tobacco chewer. The skin and mucous membrane of some persons is much more sensitive than others. A person who in summer is subject to hay fever, tanned or burned skin, in winter to cold, bronchitis, chapped hands or chilblains, ought always (whether at home or traveling) to keep a bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Lintment near at hand. Dilute the lintment with water and gently bathe, or moisten a cloth with it and lay upon the irritated skin if very sensitive; then wash it clean in the morning with Castile soap and water. If a person who takes cold quickly, or is predisposed to bronchitis or catarrh, or exposed to any poison, irritating to the skin or mucous surfaces, which might tend to cause consumption, will every night, before retiring, bathe the chest and throat with Johnson's Anodyne Lintment and, before dressing in the morning, rub the whole body smartly with a coarse towel, slightly dampened, and then wipe dry, we believe they never would have pulmonary troubles or diseases from defective working of the skin. I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., will send a pamphlet describing other uses for this old household remedy, now eighty years old.
