PC Party Internal Troubles May Be Ironed Out Privately

OTTAWA (CP) — Gordon Churchill, Opposition Leader, Diefenbaker's chief lieutenant and Conservative House leader, said Wednesday he hopes the party's internal troubles can be ironed out privately after Parliament resumes its session, Feb. 16.

He said in an interview the party has been able to overcome many of its difficulties in the past by informal discussions among members in their offices, and by closed meetings of all the members in caucus session.

But Mr. Churchill, MP for Winnipeg South Centre, said he has not been commissioned by anyone to initiate anything in the nature of peace talks between the pro and anti-Diefenbaker groups in the party. Nor would he say whether he thought such an approach should be taken.

Mr. Churchill pinned his hopes on discussions among the Conservatives — "we are all Conservatives, and we are all friends" — on meetings which would take place after Feb. 16.

But the 10 Quebec Conservative MPs have asked for a response before then to their demand that the party executive call a full-dress convention to discuss the leadership and policy of the party.

BALZER WINS SUPPORT
Leon Balcer, leader of the Quebec group, said Wednesday he is winning growing support for the Quebec position.

Mr. Churchill said in an interview it is impossible to carry on proper discussions among the MPs and senior party executives when they are scattered across the country. When Parliament resumes, there will be caucus meetings and informal discussions in the offices of the MPs.

"We have solved quite a number of internal troubles in this way in the past. I have no idea whether these difficulties can be resolved in this way, but they aren't going to be resolved by any series of press interviews."

Among those MPs who have

SIR WINSTON
The 70-year-old Lady Churchill went for an afternoon drive with her daughter, Mrs. Mary Soames, for about an hour. This was only the third time she had left the house since her husband was gripped by his grave illness last Friday.

The family, including Churchill's son, Randolph, and two daughters, continued to make their daily visits while Britons offered prayers for Churchill in churches and chapels throughout the country.

Dr. Israel Brodie, Britain's chief rabbi, ordered prayers in all synagogues.

As if the country's snowstorm seemed to reflect the nation's sadness, the question continued to be asked: How long would Sir Winston's struggle continue and when, in fact, did he first become ill?

Time and Tide, a national magazine, said sources close to the family disclosed Churchill originally took ill Jan. 11, five days before Moran first reported that Churchill had been hit by cerebral thrombosis.

After his third visit of the day to the dying statesman, Moran spoke to reporters gathered near Churchill's red brick home at No. 25 Hyde Park Gate.

Asked if the grand old man had reached his lowest ebb yet, Lord Moran replied: "Yes. His condition is stationary. This condition can last from 24 hours to 24 hours."

This was interpreted to mean from day to day.

A half-hour earlier Lord Moran's 13th medical bulletin reported a more marked weakness in the circulation.

A medical expert said this probably meant Churchill was reaching the "terminal stages of his illness."

Action Against Memorial Complex Unknown In Legal Circles Here

Frank Storey, general manager of the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Centre, said last evening he had not heard of a $1,250,000 legal action against the Memorial complex.

The rumor of legal action against the Memorial by the contractor, Pigott Construction of Hamilton, Ont., originated in Montreal.

Gordon Holmes, provincial prothonotary, stated that the land the building stands on was vested, by provincial statute last year, in the people of Canada and no legal action, such as liens, etc. can be taken against it without the written permission of the attorney general of P.E.I.

In Prince Edward Island a lien cannot be placed on a building without involving the land.

Mr. Holmes also stated that he knew nothing of any action against the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Centre.

Mr. Storey, who is also the chief executive of the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Building Foundation, explained there was a clause in the contract between the Foundation and the Pigott Company stating any difference between them would be settled by arbitration.

The arbitration would be handed down by a board composed of three members, one appointed by the Foundation, one by the company and one by both. The board if needed would not sit until the completion of the building.

Mr. Storey said he was unaware of any action on the part of the company or the Foundation to establish an arbitration board.

Even if the board was appointed it would not be able to go ahead with any arbitration because the building is not yet completed. Mr. Storey feels it would be late spring or early summer before the building will be finished.

Mr. Storey did admit the contractor had been complaining about delays on the part of the architects Alfred DesBarates, Dimokopoulos, Campbell and Sime of Montreal. Mr. Storey felt that anyone who has dealt with either of them realized "the relationship between the contractor and the architects has not been a happy one."

Mr. Storey said he was not sure if the board was appointed it would not be able to go ahead with any arbitration because the building is not yet completed.

Brig. W. W. Reid was guest speaker at the annual banquet of Charlottetown branch of the Royal Canadian Legion held last evening at the branch home, with over 200 members present.

Brig. Reid reviewed many of the outstanding events carried on in the province during Centennial Year.

He had high praise for the Legion in general and the Charlottetown branch in particular for their co-operation and assistance in Centennial activities.

Premier W. R. Shaw said men of the Legion had served their country in war and were most of the leadership and citizenship in time of peace.

Referring to the visit of the Queen, he said the "whit-hearted, warm and loving reception" given her by the people of the province would not be soon forgotten by all who witnessed it.

Deputy Mayor Walter Cox also spoke briefly, stating that relations between the Legion and City Hall were always friendly.

The facilities of the research station at the Experimental Farm here are being enlarged, and a winter works building and renovation program of approximately $100,000 is underway at the present time, to provide space for new research personnel that will be coming here from other Maritime stations. It was learned yesterday from R. C. Parent, director of the Charlottetown station.

The changes here are part of a reorganization in the Research Branch, Canada Department of Agriculture, right across the country. Mr. Parent said.

Featured here at Charlottetown will be work with soil research, cereal and forage crop breeding and utilization of the crops, and dairy cattle breeding and management.

"Now we are to get four research officers from Nappan, N.S.; two in soil research, two in forage crops, also the supporting staff, which will include plumbers, technicians and the maintenance staff," Mr. Parent stated. There will be 10 to 15 new men come here eventually and the transfer will start next fall and continue through the winter. It is expected.

HALIFAX (CP) — The weather office says the weather pattern was changing rapidly over the Maritimes Wednesday evening as a new disturbance formed in southern New Brunswick. This, combined with an older and weakening system in Quebec, was causing snow in all three provinces, as well as occasional rain and drizzle along the Atlantic coast of Nova Scotia.

The new system is expected to move rapidly east, allowing colder air to move in today. While this will give some cloud and a few flurries, by evening clearing skies are forecast for all regions. Friday will start out sunny, with more cloud later in the day, and for New Brunswick, snow in the evening.

Man Crushed In Cave-In; Has Fractures

SUMMERSIDE — An Oyster Bed Bridge man, Stanley Matheson, suffered multiple fractures of the rib cage and fractures of both collarbones here yesterday in a cave-in accident.

Mr. Matheson, an employee of the Square K Construction Co. Ltd. of Charlottetown, was one of a number of men working on a deep trench for a sewer line to the new Summerside Raceway stables when the sides of the trench, which were unshored, caved in and he was buried in more than a ton of clay.

The accident happened on West Street at approximately 3:15 p.m. and the injured man managed to crawl out of the clay but was assisted to a company shack from where a doctor was called.

Dr. S.R. Cameron, who attended Matheson at the scene and later at Prince County Hospital, stated the injured man was in serious condition.

An ambulance from Compton's Funeral Home transferred Matheson to the hospital. The accident was investigated by the town police.

Christian Unity Service Is Held

ALBERTON — The first observance in Alberton of the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity began last evening with a service in St. Peter's Anglican Church.

Members of all churches were represented in the congregation which filled the church to capacity.

Clergymen participating in the service were Rev. M.R. Ness, Rev. Gerald Steele and Rev. David MacDonald.

The hour of worship included prayers, readings from the Scriptures, repetition of the Nicene Creed, a Litany and the singing of hymns. The interdenominational choir was under direction of Mrs. Ruth Campbell as organist.

In his brief introductory remarks Mr. Ness reminded the assembled congregation that the closer people draw to Christ, the closer they will come to one another.

This evening the second service will be held in the United Church and on Friday the final service of the week will be in the Sacred Heart Church.

The most interesting discussion heard at a swine breeders meeting for many years. The president threw out another interesting suggestion when he questioned seriously the practical value of basing the worth of a sow on the ROP slaughter test score, for example, when the animal hasn't good legs and feet to stand on.

"I have seen sows scoring 95 in ROP with terrible feet and legs", added the Kingston breeder who suggested the present policy is placing the emphasis on the wrong place.

Mr. Willis suggested that all breeding animals be classified on their conformation—that is done with cattle, sheep and only dogs that classify by certified breeding purposes. The suggestion received active consideration from the meeting which searched for ways and means of having a classification system made available here.

Directors named included Chester Whiteaway, Murray River; Stanley Colwill and Fred Matheson.

Mr. Godfrey is the new president, Mr. Colwill is the vice-president, Harrison Green, Kingston was named representative on the P.E.I. Federation of Agriculture executive. Sterling Willis was named to the Royal Winter Fair swine committee.

Regals Edge Maroons 5-3

ALBERTON — Hockey returned to Alberton Tuesday after an absence of three years as Alberton Regals edged O'Leary Maroons 5-3 in the first game to be played in the new Jacques Carver Arena.

The game was fast and action packed throughout — the traditional hockey rivalry went all out to capture their first encounter in the West Prince Hockey League.

Fourteen penalties were handed out by referees Reg Pridham and Allison Ellis.

In the first period the Regals forged ahead 3-0 on goals by Walter Adams and Mike Kinch. O'Leary's George Bernard chalked up the only marker in a sixizing second frame. In the final period the score was tied twice, George Bernard and D. Ellis tallying for O'Leary and James Millman, Allan Wallace and Erskine Matthews for Alberton to make the count 5-3 for the home team.

Both goal keepers were hard worked with Regals Pery MacNeill playing an outstanding game closely followed by Maroons Gordon Rodgeron.

In spite of extremely cold weather and some drifting over three hundred fans attended the game.

Penalties were handed out to B. Frizzle (3) B. Profit 3, H. Barbour, W. Adams, W. Hardy, A. Williams of the Regals and B. Dennis, W. Livingstone, M. MacDonald, and Ian Strang of O'Leary. Bobby Profit of the Regals was given a match misconduct for hitting the referee with his hockey stick.

The Regals are coached by Vernon Hardy assisted by John Rochford while the Maroons are coached by Orville Phillips.
