Following are the official poll returns for Queen's County.

Graduation Exercises Held At Riverside Hospital Last Night

Culminating years of intensive work and study, three young ladies were graduated from Riverside Hospital on Tuesday evening during an impressive graduation program. The three, Margaret Renilda Gallant, Mary Winnifred Hogan, and Thelma Dorothy MacLeod, received their diplomas forom His Honor, Lieutenant - Governor Prowse. Dr. R.G. Forsythe, of the Hospital Staff, delivered the address to the graduates, and Premier Matheson spoke briefly. Chairman during the graduation program was Dr. A.J. Murchison, Medical Superintendent of the Hospital.

PROGRAM

Following the March In by the graduates, nursing staff, and official party, and the Invocation by Rev. M.D. Dunbar, Margaret, Bethany, and Frank MacIntyre were heard in two musical selections, after which the diplomas were presented by His Honour. The award to the student of highest standing for the two- - year course was then presented by Miss Renilda Gallant by the Honourable Dr. M.L. Bonnell, Minister of Health, followed by vocal solos by Virginia MacDougall.

Following the address to the graduates, remarks by Premier Matheson and violin solo by David Thompson, a vocal duet by Barbara Rogers and Stirling Inman brought the evening's program to a close. Accompanist was Albert Blanchard.

ADDRESS TO GRADUATES

In his address to the graduates Dr. Forsythe remarked on the work which has been done by them and expressed "a most confident expectation that they will continue to do valuable work in nursing Mental patients, or, even if they leave this work, that they will take with them knowledge and attributes that will make them very valuable people no matter, where they may be.'"

"It is my feeling," he said, "that the most important area in our work is one which is little appreciated by anyone other than the patients." Having generally defined his theme as "the importance of people as people," Dr Forsythe noted that the importance has been sadly neglected throughout the history of mankind.

"To me", he said, "it appears that this over-valuation of the mechanical and the under-valuation of the importance of the individual is a quite frightening state of affairs, I don't believe anyone is quite free from it. It is so much easier to understand and deal with mechanics than it is to understand and deal with humanity"

Having stated that the mental hospital is one of the institutions least affected in this regard, Dr. Forsythe told the graduates that "psychiatry is one of the few fields of human endeavour in which almost entire dependance is placed on human judgement of human beings. Since the people who do appreciate the value of your work are unable to say so, you will always receive relatively little acknowledgement for it.

In concluding, he stated that "others more technically trained can say, I can help by giving needles, by constructing buildings or by doing many other things, but you are among the very rare people who can say, "I can help by giving myself alone, as a person."

for a visit of the National President, Hon. C.B. Sherwood, Minister of Agriculture for the Province of New Brunswick. There will be a program of judging for calf club members and sports will be held. The directors will announce the exact date of the field day at a later date.

Max Thompson, who attended the annual meeting of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, reported on some important policy changes considered at the meeting. Mr. Thopmson said it was a pleasure and a privilege for him to serve as the Association's director for three years and thanked the members for the support they had given him.

R. A. Profitt made reference to the Farm issue of the Guardian, which was published last month for the first time. He said the issue was very much appreciated by the farmers of Prince Edward Island who would look forward to subsquent editions.

Max Thompson added his words of appreciation to those of Mr. Profitt. He noted that in Prince Edward Island where there is no publication of a regular farm paper, such coverage of agricultural events by a daily newspaper was worthy of note and hoped that the pratice would be continued.

The secretary, Mr. Cecil Stewart remarked of the co-operation he had received with the Guardian during the year. He said the paper published everything that was of any importance to the Holstein Breed, even without his calling attention to it.

JUDGES

The matter of judges for the Charlottetown Exhibition was deferred until a list of recognized judges could be obtained from the National Association. Mr. Profitt called attention to the fact that if some Maritime judges were not used they would automatically become disqualified since a judge is struck off the list when he misses three years in a row without judging. Max Thompson suggested the name of Ira Lewis be added to the list of eligible judges. The names of George MacLaughlin of Ontario and Allison Profitt were suggested for the Maritime Winter Fair.

The possibility of having a joint fieldman with the Province of Nova Scotia was brought to the attention of the meeting by Ira Lewis who pointed out many of the ways in which a fieldman could be of assistance to the breeders. The directors were empowered with the authority to approach the Nova Scotia breeders with this thought in mind.

BULL CLUB

At a meeting of the Superior Bull club held previous to the Association meeting Parker Newson was re-elected president with Jas. G. MacLean vice-president. Directors are as follows: Prince County, James G. MacLean, Lot 16; Harold MacLean. Queens County, Parker Newson, Cecil Stewart and Walter Buntain, Rustico. Kings County, Howard Dixon, Fortune Bridge and Charles MacDonald, Souris River.

It was agreed to have a schedule drawn up regarding the placing of the club bull. The schedule calls for the bull to be placed in various parts of the Island for one month periods. Thee service fee will be $5.00 but the caretaker of the sire may have his services free for his keep.

Mayors Endorse Water Safety

In view of the appalling drownings in Canada last weekend, the Mayors of Prince Eward Island's three main centers have added their words of endorsement of "Water Safety Week." Below are statements of Mayor J.D. Stewart of Charlottetown; Mayor W.A. Currie of Summerside and Mayor Bruce H. Yeo of Montague.

MAYOR STEWART

"It is appalling to think that thirteen lives were lost in our province last year, through accidental drownings, but one can realize that were it not for the Water Safety services as instituted by the Canadian Red Cross Society, this figure could well be many, many times larger," writes Mapor J.D. Stewart of Charlottetown.

"I feel we owe a very deep sense of gratitude to the Red Cross Society in the great effort they are making to safeguard the population of our country against drowning accidents, from the tiniest tot to the adult.

"The training of instructors, the training of lifeguards, the technical services offered to organizations, the program assistance given to instructors, organizations, groups and camps, have certainly been a gigantic factor in the preservation of life. We are continually warned by the press and radio of the great danger of traffic hazards, but we must acknowledge the Red Cross as the medium through which we are made ever mindful of the great hazards to those who play near the water, or seek their pleasure in canoeing, boating, etc, or to those noble men who make their living by taking the products from the sea.

"I most heartily and sincerely endorse Water Safety Week, which is being observed in our province from June 16th to 22nd. We cannot be too cognizant of the great dangers which confront us all, more especially during the Summer vacations, when such a large portion of our population is in contact with the various types of aquatic sports.

MAYOR YEO

"As Mayor of Montague it is a privilege to endorse the efforts of the Red Cross through its Water Safety Committee—in calling the attention of our people to the important matter of water safety through the observance of "Water Safety Week"—June 16 - 22," writes Mayor Bruce H. Yeo of Montague.

"It is nothing short of appalling to learn that 13 lives were lost in our Province last year through accidental drownings—and the aim to make 1957 free of such tragedies is a most commendable one.

"I therefore urge the people of Montague and vicinity, as well as all citizens of the Province to set an example by practicing water safety and also to encourage children to learn to swim and familiarize themselves with the rules of water safety.

"Let all of us then—practice water safety—not only during this special week but throughout the year. To use a well-known slogan: "The life we save may be our own."

MAYOR CURRIE

"The Mayor and Town Councillors of the Town of Summerside hereby commends and is pleased to join with the Canadian Red Cross Society in its efforts to preserve the lives of our Citizens at all times and in particular during Water Safety Week June 16th to 22nd and sincerely urges all Citizens to become conscious of the hazards existing at or near the water which each year claims many lives of our Citizens. The Parents especially should acquaint themselves with these hazards and become familiar with the safety rules which govern them. In so doing anyone of our Citizens may be spared the sorrow caused by the untimely death of a loved one."

Wide Field Covered By Conservative Programme

OTTAWA (CP) — The new Progressive Conservative government of Prime Minister John Diefenbaker will have to plan on a hefty legislatie program to make good its election campaign promises.

The promises cover a wide range of subjects—from social security to agriculture, from resources development to fiscal policy, from parliamentary rights to international trade.

Some can be implemented immediately; others will take longer because they are long-term efforts.

But as Mr. Diefenbaker said at one point in his 100-speech campaign

"My idea of politics is that promises should only be made that can be effectuated."

300,000,000 HIS ESTIMATE

Later he said his party's promises would cost no more than $300,000,000 for current expenditures, excluding spending on self-liquidating projects which would pay themselves off over the years.

That would be one-fifth of the $1,500,000,000 price tag the Liberals placed on the Conservative pledges.

And, on top of that, he promised to reduce "unnecessary" taxes, including the 10-per-cent excise tax on automobiles.

Mr. Diefenbaker promised a September session to increase old age and other pensions to "a fair and reasonable" figure tied to cost of living increases.

Social security measures would be maintained at "a high standard to keep pace with national productivity."

BIG FARM PROGRAM

A large section of Mr. Diefenbaker's election platform was filled with planks aimed at agriculture.

There would be flexible price supports; cash advances on farm-stored prairie grain; study of an improved crop insurance plan in co-operation with the provinces; protection against dumping of U.S. agricultural products in Canada; extension of farm credit; support for producer marketing boards; soil and water conservation programs; and payment covering losses on wheat exported at below domestic prices to certain "good customers" in the Commonwealth.

He pledged the appointment of a royal commission to investigate the spread between the price paid producers for farm products and the price charged consumers.

A Conservative government also would approach Britain to buy Canadian wheat with 17,000,000 interest she owes Canada from last year on a postwar loan, instead of applying it to the loan. The present arrangement calls for deferment of the interest payment until after the year 2001.

Benefits under the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act would be extended to all parts of Canada, instead of being limited, as now, to the Prairies.

PROCESSING AT HOME

Development of natural resources and encouragement of more processing in Canada of raw materials now being exported to the U.S. was promised.

The resources program would be a 10-year effort and would include the development of north-south highways.

Priority would be given to federal aid to help British Columbia develop the Columbia River power project. The South Saskatchewan River dam and irrigation project would receive federal aid.

Mr. Diefenbaker pledged establishment of a Canadian energy board to encourage balanced power development among coal, oil, gas and atomic energy.

Provincial and municipal governments would receive a larger share of the national income. A new federal-provincial tax conference would be called to give the provinces a better deal.
