In Advanced Years

The strength and pure blood necessary to resist the effects of cold seasons are given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I have for the last 25 years of my life been complaining of a weakness of the lungs and colds in the head, especially in the winter. Last fall I was again attacked. Reading of Hood's Sarsaparilla I was led to try it. I am now taking the fifth bottle with good results. I can positively say that I have not spent a winter as free from coughs or pains and difficult breathing spells for the last 25 years as was last winter. I can lie down and sleep all night without any annoyance from cough or pain in the lungs or asthmatic difficulty." E. M. CHAMBERS, J. P., Cornhill, N. B.

Kidney Facts.

In Jan., 1892 my son was taken with Kidney disease. Though attended by three physicians, and change of climate he grew worse and by '93 had fallen from 195 lbs. to 95 lbs. In 10 days from starting to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills we were able to move him home. In 4 months he gained 50 lbs. and was fully restored to health by the use of this medicine. Jno. S. Hastings, 23 St. Paul St., Montreal.

London has maintained for many years pre eminence in the fur trade. American and Russian buyers both visit the city to buy furs originally taken in their own respective countries. The sales amount to £4,000,000 a year.

Hands and Ankles Raw.

For years I have been a great sufferer from itchy skin trouble and salt rheum. My hands and ankles were literally raw. The first application of Dr. Chase's Ointment allayed the burning, itching sensation. One box and a half entirely cured me. It is also instant relief for chilblains. Henry A. Parmenter, St. Catharines, Ont.

THE KANGAROO.

A Success in Many Ways, But not in Running Down Hill.

Leather made from the skin of the kangaroo is one of the new products in the leather line. It is soft, strong and the light grades are particularly well adapted for light summer shoes and for shoe tops, while the heavier grades will bear more usage than any other leather finished on the grain side. The light skins are made into the finest brilliant glazed kid and in dull finish for ladies' fine shoes, and the heavy ones are finished for men's fine work. Much of it is crimped and sold for tongue boots. Shoe laces of good qualities are also made of it.

The skin of the kangaroo has a wonderfully muscular fibre, which contributes largely to the strength of the animal, enabling the females to carry their young in their pouch until old enough to take care of themselves, and aiding the kangaroo in his long leaps when in motion.

The animal is a native of Australia and adjacent islands. It is a distinct species, and has no counterpart in other countries. There are a great number of families, some scarcely larger than a rat, others of almost gigantic size. The giant kangaroo (Macropus major) the family which furnished the most valuable skins, was discovered by Capt. Cook about a century ago, at which time it attracted much attention among naturalists.

The natives of Australia call the old males "booma," and are slow to attack them. The "booma" has paws as large as those of a mastiff, though of different shape. His feet are his weapons, and when attacked he is a dangerous antagonist. When raised to his full height his hind legs and tail form a tripod upon which his body rests, carrying his head as high as that of a man on horseback.

The kangaroo lives upon vegetable food, and roams over the plains of Australia in large flocks. Its teeth are so constructed that it can feed upon roots and live upon barren plains where other animals would starve, and to its destruction of roots is attributed the sterile plains so common in Australia.

When feeding a large male stands at his full height and acts as sentinel, while the balance of the flock lie on their sides and browse. At the slightest approach of danger the sentinel sounds the alarm, and in an instant all are erect upon their hind feet. They leap with their forepaws clasped close to their body, the tail stretched backward, while the powerful thigh muscles are caused suddenly to straighten to the joints, by which act the body flies through the air on a low curve. The ordinary jump is about nine feet, but thirty feet is often made at a leap. When pursued by hunters, and on level ground, or on an upgrade, they can outrun the fleetest dog, but downgrade they lose their balance and roll over. The flesh of the kangaroo furnishes excellent food, kangaroo venison being considered a dainty dish, while the tail furnishes an excellent and nutritious soup.—Philadelphia Times.

The Origin of an Old Saying.

It is a curious bit of literary exercise to take a common saying and trace it back to its origin. Take the common saying, for instance, "All that glitters is not gold." It is found in current literature everywhere and in a dozen different forms. Dryden renders it, "All, as they say, that glitters is not gold;" Spencer says, "Gold all is not that doth golden seem;" Lydgate has the same idea in the words, "All is not gold that outward showeth bright;" Chaucer expresses it in somewhat different phraseology; Middleton has it," "All is not gold that glisteneth," and Shakespeare says, "All that glistens is not gold." Go a little further back and the same expression is found in the monkish collection of proverbs, and there is no doubt it a classical scholar were to set to work with the determination to hunt the proverb down, no matter how long it took, he would find it in Latin, Greek and most other ancient and dead languages. It is a natural outgrowth of sarcasm as applied to fictitious show and is no doubt as old as the science of metal working.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Recipe for Apple Charlotte.

With the fall pippins, tart and juicy, just before us, apple desserts are particularly seasonable. A simple and delicious dish made from this fruit is apple charlotte. Peel and core six or eight good cooking apples, stew them with a little sugar, and the rind of two lemons cut thin and chopped to a pulp, or the rinds may be grated in, perhaps preferably. Line a battered mold thickly with lady fingers or slices of rather stale sponge cake; pour the apples on hot and press them down well; put a meringue of white of egg and sugar on top, or whipped cream if preferred, and set away to chill. It should be served cold.

Another dessert suggestion is to bake cottage pudding in gem or popover pans, thus giving to each person an individual pudding. This way not only adds to the attractiveness of this simple but popular dish, but conserves its lightness, if, as often happens, a careless hostess attempts to cut the pudding with a steel knife when hot from the oven. The usual sauce accompanies the individual serving.—New York Times.

About Olive Oil.

After the olive oil has been roughly but honestly made, it is carried across the yard to another room, the walls of which are lined with huge red terra-cotta vessels kept carefully closed. In one of these the oil is poured and left to settle, ransa being shaped well up about the vessel to maintain a high temperature within. When the oil is finally poured off it is of a lovely golden color, as clear and as transparent as water. But it is not destined to reach the public in this arcadian state. Scarely has it left the hands of the peasants before it is manipulated and adulterated to such an extent that even in Florence pure olive oil is almost unobtainable. Cotton oil, colza oil, etc., are mixed with it, rendering it absolutely hurtful to the consumer. The Italian Government has offered prizes for the discovery of a method of exposing the adulteration. At present no more certain way has been found than that of Prof. ——chi, a well-known Italian chemist, treats the oil in question with nitrate of silver and judges of the adulteration by the resulting color tion.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—It is announced that with the sanction of the czar, a Russian bank, with a large capital, will be opened for business soon at Pekin, with a branch at Shanghai. This enterprise is regarded as another indication of Russian determination to wrest the commercial as well as the political supremacy in the far east from England.

MARK IT WELL.

A Development Peculiar to the Present Generation Dangerous and Often Fatal.

As each generation comes and goes it is marked by changes, developments and discoveries unknown to its predecessors. From a physical standpoint one of the most to be dreaded conditions and peculiar for its rapid increase during the present generation, is when the mind labors under the delusion of persecution, continual restlessness, pain in the back and head, twitching of the muscles of the face and hands, furred tongue, breath foul and heavy, nausea and further indications of stomach trouble. There may be delirium, convulsions or sinking spells. Medical authorities apply different names to the conditions that are unintelligible to the average reader. The actual fact is the demoralized and dangerous state of the system is due to the accumulation of "Body Poison" in the blood that should and would be thrown off by the Kidneys if in a healthy condition. In order to restore health, strike at the root of the disease with Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the only medicine known that will control the changes going on in the Kidneys, enabling them to furnish for the whole system blood free from disease-breeding poison, building up the shattered condition of nerves, and relieving mental depression Price 25c., sold by all dealers.
