Can't Koch and Cupid Cure Me?

A BOSTON MILLIONAIRE'S BRIDAL TRIP TO THE GRAVE.

Robert Morris, a Boston millionaire, dying of consumption, passed through Pittsburg, Pa., on his bridal tour. With him were his physician, Dr. Parker; his mother, a cousin, Herbert Wilson, and the bride.

The cousin told the romance of the story. He said that about four years ago Morris fell in love with and became engaged to a young heiress who moved in Back Bay society. The engagement was approved of by both families, and a date was set for the marriage.

Before the time arrived the young man became seriously ill, and the ceremony was postponed.

He had been attacked by consumption. Everything to aid him was done, and physicians in this country and Europe were consulted, but none could give him relief.

He continued to grow worse until six months ago, when it was thought to be a matter of a few weeks until he would pass away. He had been constantly cared for by his mother and betrothed, but had re-fused to allow the latter to bind herself to a dying man. When the crisis came the young lady insisted on the wedding taking place, so she could have the right to remain always at his side.

Morris finally consented, and the words that bound them were spoken at his bed-side, while the bride knelt, holding the hand that even then death seemed to be trying to wrest from her. The marriage appeared to renew the life of the young man, who at once began to improve and seemed about to recover.

Several weeks ago, however, he took a turn for the worse, and has ever since been sinking rapidly. The doctors warned him that his only chance for life lay in his being removed to Florida. So the start was made. It is really the bridal trip of the young couple, but will probably be a journey of death.

When the train stopped at Pittsburg the bride was constant in her attentions to the pale and hollow-checked groom as he lay in a mass of pillows looking sorrowfully out of the window.

Advertising for Heirs.

PEOPLE STILL CONTINUE TO BE TAKEN IN—A WARNING TO FORTUNE SEEKERS.

The following has been received at Ottawa: Copy of an extract from a letter from a leading firm of London, solicitors to Sir Charles Tupper, on February 11th, 1891, in regard to an application made to them by a Canadian in connection with some land and money in England, to which he believed he was entitled:

The gentleman called upon us the other day with your letter of introduction. We should have the greatest possible pleasure in assisting him in any way in our power, but we fear his search for a supposed family property is a hopeless one. He does not even know in what county in England the estates are supposed to lie, nor is the name to be found in any county directory, or in the usual books of reference. He has no family records, nor a single scrap of evidence to connect his family with the last owner from whom he claims descent, and who is supposed to have died at the end of the last century or the beginning of the present one. He has nothing to go upon but family tradition and so-called "advertisements for heirs" which from time to time are inserted in newspapers. It is perfectly lamentable to find that a man in apparently poor circumstances should have been induced to travel here from the far west of Canada on such a wild goose chase.

We are familiar with cases of this kind, being frequently asked to assist persons in Canada or the United States to recover enormous properties in England owing to advertisements, which have little or no basis in fact, appearing in foreign or colonial newspapers. It is always the same story: large estates supposed to be lying vacant for years, only waiting for an heir to step in, and fabulous sums of money (generally several millions sterling) awaiting a claimant in the court of chancery. Of course neither the vacant property nor the funds in chancery are forthcoming when searched for.

The parties who hope to succeed in these ventures seem quite unaware that in England the period within which an action for the recovery of land can be brought is by statute fixed at twelve years from the time when the right of action arises, though under certain exceptional circumstances, such as the lunacy or infancy of the claimant, the period may be extended to thirty years, which is the absolute limit. Absence beyond the seas has not since 1879 afforded any protection to claimants, or prevented the statute from "running" against them and barring their claims.

With regard to funds in chancery, we know as a matter of fact that there is hardly a fund lying there unclaimed exceeding a few hundred pounds in amount.

It almost seems a pity that some way cannot be devised of putting the public on their guard against these misleading advertisements, on the faith of which considerable sums of money are uselessly spent and lost.

A Weary Tramp.

Reports from points along the line of construction of the Great Northern extension through Northern Montana, show that at Cut Bank, the present terminus of the line, heavy storms have totally suspended work, throwing two thousand men out of employment. Seeing starvation staring them in the face, a large number started to traverse the deep snow to Summit, 100 miles further west, and many perished from cold and exposure. The record so far has been seven deaths from freezing, while large numbers had arms and legs severely frozen. It is also certain that a great many have perished of whom no traces have been found.

Farmers' Club at Emerald.

Pursuant to notice, a meeting was held in the hall at Emerald on Tuesday, 24th inst., for the purpose of organizing a farmer's club at Emerald. The meeting was called to order by calling Peter Duffy, Esq., to the chair and William Clarke secretary.

Moved by J. Heber Haslam, seconded by Peter McMahon that we organize a Farmers' Club by appointing a president, secretary and a committee of seven, and that the club be known as the Central Farmers' Club. Carried.

J. Heber Haslam was appointed President, Geo. R. McMahon secretary, and the following comprise the committee, viz.: Jas McDonald, Peter Duffy, Wm Deighan, John Hughes, Michael McKenna, Robert McKenzie and John T. Murphy.

Then an interesting discussion on farming generally followed, in which many of those present took part. All felt much alarmed at the scarceness of fodder and of good seed oats in this Province, when the following resolution was put and unanimously carried:

Whereas, The Island is now threatened with a fodder famine, animals are dying daily in different parts of the country, and the farmers will have insufficient hay to put in their crops, and

Whereas, The Province will not have anything near enough seed to supply the wants of the farmers,

Therefore Resolved, That the local and Dominion governments be solicited to render immediate assistance both in providing hay for fodder and oats for seed, and selling them at a fair price and at reasonable terms of credit.

The next meeting of the Club will be on Monday, 30th inst., when the matter of importing seeds for spring seeding, such as wheat, clover, timothy, turnip and other seeds will be considered. Therefore, all the farmers interested should attend this meeting.

Down With the Belgian Flag.

THE LONDON TIMES SAYS IT CANNOT WAVE OVER THE NILE REGIONS.

The London Times of the 20th publishes a long article on Congo affairs, calling attention to the prohibitory tariff and to the rumors in connexion with the Kerkhove expedition, which is now well on its way from Leopoldville, with the intention of annexing the Nile valley in King Leopold's name.

The Times thinks that it is opportune, now that King Leopold is in London on business connected with the Congo territory, to protest against the "overweening ambition" of the Congo Free State.

The Times adds: "The Belgian flag cannot wave over the Nile regions. Surely, King Leopold is the last monarch England would have expected to complicate an already difficult position. He ought to realize that such action will inevitably lead to a partition of the Congo Free State among the European powers whose possessions are clustering on its borders."

The Times concludes with the remark that "we have reason to believe that King Leopold has been brought to view these schemes in their true light, and that he will take means to keep them within their legitimate bounds."

Canadian Cattle.

CHICAGO PEOPLE HAVE JUST HEARD ABOUT THE BIG PURCHASE.

A Chicago despatch of the 22nd says: The sensationally large purchases of cattle in Canada during the past week by American capitalists was brought to light here to-day. The first complete public knowledge of the results of the masterly international campaign was quietly, but effectively waged by Secretary of Agriculture Rusk. The object is to afford relief to American cattle growers by opening up the markets abroad. According to the statements of one of the largest dealers in Chicago, success has already been attained, while a much greater widening of the foreign outlet is now close at hand. The Canadian purchases is simply in the nature of preliminary tactics to secure the unrestricted entry of American cattle into Great Britain. The Canadian cattle, though inferior to the American product, is legally unfettered by British enactments. The Americans, who have just bought some immense Canadian herds, propose to utilize the Canadian animals to familiarize the people in rural England, Scotland and Wales with the beef from this side of the Atlantic.

Murdered by Christian Scientists.

Within the last week three children have died at Springville, Lynn County, Iowa, under the care of Christian Scientists, and great excitement prevails there. The first was two children of Mr. and Mrs. John Doane. Mrs. Doane wanted a doctor. The grandfather would not allow it, but summoned two faith-healers, Mrs. Vitcher of Anamosa, and Mrs. Miller of Towu Grove. After the death of the children, a daughter of the old man Doane sickened and died, and the faith-healers fled to the nearest railway station.

News Notes.

The grip is thoroughly epidemic in Pittsburg, fully four thousand cases being reported. A number of persons have died.

A special from Des Moines, Iowa, says: S. E. Dow and Abler Graves, of Crawford county, have brought suit against the Bradstreet Company, each claiming one hundred thousand dollars damages for alleged wrongful rating, as to their financial standing.

A shocking outrage is reported to have been perpetrated at Trinaderry House, the residence of Mr. Francis A. Kelly, a magistrate in County Clare, Ireland. Early one morning, when one of the servants visited the farm-yard and out offices, he found that during the night eighteen sheep, which had been driven in the night previous to a haggart, had been killed, or were dying. The unfortunate beasts appeared to have been struck with some heavy sharp instrument behind the lower part of the head, inflicting a deep cut, and the arteries of the throat had been severed with a knife. Eleven were dead outright, and the remainder were in a dying condition.
