

LAW.—Horn Tooke used to say, that law, in his opinion, ought not to be a luxury for the rich, but a remedy to the poor. When told that the course of justice was open to all, he replied, so is the London Tavern to such as can pay their entertainment.

Imperia, the Lais of Modern Rome, like her Grecian prototype, found Princes anxious for favors. The splendor with which she received her visitor has never been surpassed. Such was the elegance of her apartments, that the Ambassador of the Spanish monarch, on a visit he paid her, spat in the face of one of the servants, excusing himself by observing, that it was the only place he could find fit for the purpose.—Roscoe's Leo X.

REWARD OF FLATTERY.—Frederick William, father of Frederick the Great of Prussia, painted, or fancied he painted; but his works were mere daubs. Such, however, was not the language of his courtiers, when descanting on the merits of the royal Apelles. On one occasion, his Majesty favored them with the sight of a new specimen. 'Suppose,' said the King, 'that some great painter, Rubens or Raphael, for instance, had painted this picture; do you think it would fetch a considerable price?' 'Sire,' replied the Baron de Polnitz, who passed for the most practiced and the most obsequious of his Majesty's courtiers. 'I assure your Majesty that a connoisseur could not offer less for such a picture than 25,000 florins.' 'Well then, Baron,' cried the gratified monarch, 'you shall receive a proof of my munificence. Take the picture for 5,000 florins, which you shall pay me in ready money; and as I wish to render you a service, you may have my permission to sell it again.' 'Ah, sire,' cried the Baron, who was fairly caught in his own snare, 'I can never consent to take advantage of your Majesty's generosity.' 'No reply,' said the King; 'I know that I make you a handsome present, by which you will gain 15,000 florins or more. But your zeal for my interest has been proved, and I owe you some recompense. Your love for the arts as well as your attachment to my person, entitle you to this mark of my esteem.'
