Diesel Locomotives For C,N.R. Lines In Gaspe Area

CAMPBELLTON, N. B. Dec.4 The first of fifteen diesel-electric road locomotives for the Gaspe linse of the Canadian National Railways arrived here tonight. It is No. 7600. These diesel-electric road locomotives are being constructed by the Canadian Locomotive Company of Kingston, Ont. and will be numbered 7600 to 7614 inclusive. They are of 1,000 horsepower with six-wheel driving trucks, there being two such trucks to each locomotive, and when all have been delivered it will complete the diesel-electric operation of the Gaspe coast line.

As part of the dieselization of the Gaspe coast line, fueling and other facilities are being installed at New Carlisle, Gaspe and Campbellton. W. E.Robinson, regional vice president and general manager said. Maintenance and other work will be performed in the Campbellton shops of the railway which are being equipped for that purpose.

As diesel-electric locomotives have no facilities for the heating of passenger trains, it has been necessary to provide separate special heater units, and the first of three was turned out of the Moncton shops of the railway today. The heater units are housed in a special type car which is connected immediately behind the locomotive. These heater cars contain two flash-type boilers burning oil fuel, which will provide steam heat for the heating of passenger trains at a pressure of 200 pounds. In addition, there is a separate diesel-electric generator set and a motor driven air compressor to provide electrical energy and air for the proper working of the heating units. The heating units are equipped with automatic controls to maintain an even heat during the winter season.

These heater cars are similar to those which were constructed in the Moncton shops of the railway for the Prince Edward Island division of the C.N.R. and are the only units of their kind constructed in Canada. They have proved highly successful in service and it is believed are the answer to one of the problems of diesel-electric train operation, of providing heat for passenger trains during the winter season.

FEATS OF JUNIOR

defenseman lost his life in a car accident in 1940.

Five Still In Province

Five of the players are still in the Province. Goal tender John Davis, who played with the Navy during the war is employed with the C.N.R. in Charlottetown.

Defenseman Leith Jay, who teamed up with Willie MacDonald, is employed with Jack Cameron's Men's Wear Store in the City. Jay's hockey career was cut short on account of illness but for several years he acted as a capable referee in City League games.

Forward "Tarky" Whitlock, a veteran of Navy service, who scored the final two goals in the game which the Royals defeated Dartmouth 5-4, works with Lane's Bakery in Charlottetown. Another forward Art Perry, who saw long war service, is employed with the Department of Physical Fitness while forward Aubin Blacquiere, who also served five years in the services, is living in the Province.

Two of the players are living in Nova Scotia. Vince "Pud" Roach who served with the Navy during the war is working with the Halifax Shipyards. Bert Steele a former St. Mary's star in the Big Four, is living in Truro and plays with the Truro Bearcats.

In the final game of the 1939 series with Dartmouth which the Royals won 9-4, Jack Coyle scored five goals, three of them unassisted. "Tarky" Whitlock got two, "Bucko" Trainor and Bert Steele one each.

The following year the Royals defeated Truro Bearcats in the finals for the Maritime title. They won the first game 15-1 and the second 7-4.

The membership of the team was slightly different from that of the previous year. "Tarky" Whitlock was not playing but in his place was 15-year-old brother "Buck". Earl "Leaky" Boates from Summerside assisted John Davis in the nets.

New Players Added

Several other new players were added. They included Charlie Deighan from Summerside, Chris Gallant, "Toots" Richard and Eddy Corbett.

The feats of "Buck" Whitlock need not be recorded here as they have been written and well written across the sports pages of newspapers in the Maritimes. Charlie Deighan and "Toots" Richard, after seeing war time service have returned to work in the Province, Charlie with the C. N. R. and Richard with the C. N. T.

Chris Gallant is a dentist in Charlottetown and several years ago played with the Navy team here. Eddy Corbett is now living in Toronto. During the war he won the Military Medal as a sergeant in the Army and lost part of one foot during his period in the service. The remainder of the team personnel was the same as that of the 1939 squad.

After winning the Maritime championship the Royals played Perth Blue Wings at Ottawa. Perth won both games, the first 7-2 and the second by an 11-2 count.

The next year, 1941 the members on the team were mostly new faces but they won the Maritime junior championship by defeating Truro. They lost out in the Eastern Canadian playdowns against Ottawa Canadiens.

The team's lineup that year was: Goal, MacArthur; defence, McDougall, Kelly, Hodgson; forwards, LeClair, Whitlock, V. Blanchard, Higson E. Blanchard, Gallant, Beck, Jackson.

The President of the Club was Mr. P. W. Turner, a Charlottetown business man. Mr. Turner is still a leading business figure in the City and still keenly interested in hockey.

Canadians In Korea Have Bit of Fun Hunting

By Bill Boss
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, Dec. 4 —(CP) —Stories about "the one that got away" have nothing to do here with fish.

They relate exclusively to three types of prey: Chinese Communists, dog deer and pheasant

The abundance in Korea of deer and strikingly-plumed pheasant once realized, it may be accepted back home that it would represent a sheer waste of talent and skill to lavish Canadian fieldcraft and marksmanship exclusively on the enemy.

Here there are no civilians to interfere with the stalking of any kind of prey. There are no licence fees. The fields are heavy with unharvested crops—rich feeding ground for wildlife and excellent cover for the hunter. And not very much game gets away—the deer freeze obligingly and the pheasant are either too busy eating to be bothered, or too heavy to fly away.

It's simply irresistible, and so while the Chinese get their full share of attention it nonetheless is far from exclusive.

Leader in this—as in any other kind of hunting his troops do in Korea—is Brig. John M. Rockingham, whose weapons provide the occasional deer for his headquarters' men's mess and pheasant for his own.

One of the Brigadier's most satisfactory moments in Korea occurred when a magnificent golden-ringed cock-pheasant he had just shot was brought to his table to excite the admiration of three military visitors from Canada

Lt.-Cols. Peter Bingham of the Royal Canadian Regiment, Edward McNaughton of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery and Louis-Fremont Trudeau of the Royal 22nd Regiment were speechless.

Bagging such birds is daily routine, however, to the 2nd R.C.R.'s Maj. Kitch Wildfang of Orangeville and Brockville, Ont. With a shotgun borrowed from Maj. Colin McDougall of Ottawa Wildfang daily roams the forward areas of the Imjin front Recently Wildfang was sent to the rear headquarters to rest. But every morning he was back up at the front flushing his prey.

Less happy recently was McDougall, 30 feet from whose tent was feeding a big, fat bird, spectacularly feathered, a Manchurian ring-necked pheasant. His shotgun was with Wildfang.

McDougall got permission to open fire in the camp area, fired four rounds from his revolver, and missed. "That bird," he said, "didn't even stop feeding."

British Ban On Tass To Be Continued

LONDON, Dec. 4— (Reuters)—Britain's two-month-old ban on distribution of Russian propaganda here by Tass, the Kremlin's global propaganda machine will stay until Tass promises to respect British libel law, the government said today.

Lord Reading, foreign affairs undersecretary, made the statement in the House of Lords.

He was replying to a member's demand for firmer action against Tass. Lord Vansittart urged the government to plug the leophole by which Tass has been getting away with statements which would land British newspaper men in court.

Tass represents itself as a department of the Russian state, entitled to diplomatic privileges which place it beyond the reach of libel laws. This was upheld by a British court in 1949.

Vansittart wanted Tass' diplomatic privileges ended immediately.

Reading explained that in October Britain closed down a radio listening post Tass operated here. The post was used to take down broadcasts from Russia and distribute items to newspapers and interested parties here by a teleprinter circuit and by regular mimeographed bulletins.

With the ban, all these services stopped and Tass reverted to the function of sending reports from Britain back to Moscow—the function it fulfills in Canada, the United States and other parts of the world.

The reports are slanted to fit the Communist line and broadcast back to non-Communist countries by Moscow's propaganda radio.

Reading said Tass had published many libels against East European leaders exiled in Britain.

He said Tass carried a libel last summer which prompted the British Government to protest to the Russian Embassy. It was rejected so the service was closed down.

Reading said Britain sent a further note to the embassy saying that before the service was allowed to resume Tass would have to waive legal immunity or agree to arbitrate disputes with persons claiming libel against them.

LONDON, Dec. 4— (Reuters)—Princess Elizabeth became a member of the Privy Council today. The Privy Council is an ancient body consisting of about 300 eminent persons from all parts of the Commonwealth and advises the King in affairs of state.

NO LIMIT

DUNEDIN, N. Z.— (CP) — New Zealand is neglecting a tourist gold mine in not advertising its deer stalking in North America, a visiting business man from Canada, Garsden Fowler, said here. In New Zealand the season lasts all year round and there is no bag limit. Deer actually have become a pest in some areas.

STUDENT VILLAGE

OSLO — (Reuters) — First phase of the building of a student village at Sogn, just outside Oslo, is almost complete. The village has been financed largely by contributions from municipalities all over Norway and contains apartments to be rented at $8.50 a month.
