Sweeping Dept. Changes Are Announced

Cabinet Unchanged As Jobs 'Shifted'

SIGHT BRINGS BEAUTIFUL YEAR

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Miss Bessie Sikes, blinded by an attack of meningitis at the age of nine months, has had a whole year of sightseeing.

"I've seen a magnificent things, beautiful things—mountains and rivers and all the pretty flowers," she said. "I've seen so many things and places, and so many people."

It was April 21, 1963—Sunday morning when Miss Sikes' left eye suddenly she rubbed it and suddenly she could see—the pattern in the kitchen linoleum, the furniture, her mother's picture on the wall.

"What happened was that the cat scratched an opaque lens that became dislodged and fell inside the eye," her doctor said.

"The opened the pupil and allowed light to enter," Miss Sikes is in her 90s.

When she became blind, vision appeared, letters and cards poured in from all over the world.

Miss Mary Laidley, 78, of Covington, Ky., sent $100 which she thought was for Miss Sikes to take a five-week bus trip.

By RALPH CAMERON
Sweeping changes affecting practically every department of government but leaving cabinet posts themselves unchanged were announced last night by Premier Walter R. Sharp.

Amounting to an almost complete separation of industry from natural resources in the department headed by Hon. Lou Rossier, the most startling shift saw the entire ARDA program switched to the department of agriculture under Hon. Andrew B. MacRae.

Premier Sharp said the move was made to leave the "larger responsibilities of industrial development" with Mr. Rossier as all departments had been greatly expanded in recent years and called the departments of fisheries and remains "as an outstanding example of being badly overloaded."

ARDA SHIFTED
The cabinet move immediately the entire Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development program, switched to the department of agriculture under Hon. Andrew B. MacRae.

Prime Minister Pearson said the cabinet changes were requested on the Cyprus situation involving the Canadian commander there.

Cracking down under new rules, Speaker MacNaughton reduced the question period to under 20 minutes.

Veterans Minister Tillier announced a plan to turn veterans hospital facilities over to community use.

NPD Leader Douglas said veterans oppose this policy because it didn't make clear how their rights would be protected.

A Conservative non-confidence motion entangling veterans hospital policy was defeated 123 to 94, NDP members backing the Conservatives.

WEDNESDAY, April 22
The Commons meets at 2:30 p.m. to resume debate on the industrial revolution. The late afternoon stands adjourned to April 28.

Gov't Wins Vote Over Hospitals

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal government drew support from Creditiste and Social Credit MPs Tuesday night in the Commons to defeat a Conservative non-confidence motion on veterans hospital policy, 123 to 94.

The motion explored the government's announced intention to transfer the 11 veterans hospitals to provincial or local control, provided adequate safeguards for veterans can be worked out.

The motion also explored the government's refusal to accept representations from the Royal Canadian Legion and other national veterans groups opposing the new policy.

The 106 Liberals voting were joined by 10 Creditistes and seven Social Credit MPs.

The 82 Conservatives present drew support from 12 New Democrats.

Standings in the 265-seat Commons: Liberals 128, Conservatives 94, NDP 17, Creditistes 13, Social Credit 11. Two seats are vacant.

It was the seventh confidence test survived by the minority Liberal government so far in the 1964 session.

Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, both out of town for speaking engagements, missed the vote.

HOUSE ROISTEROUS
The Commons was in a hot-house, bantering mood as the roll-call vote was taken.

Lon Bacon, the Conservative New Quebec leader, set a round of applause from both sides.

High Prices Pose Danger of Lobster Over-Fishing

By MIKE DUFFY
A new annual Fisheries Council of Canada convention, held at the Charlottetown Hotel, yesterday examined the lobster fishing industry in the Maritime provinces.

The members of the panel, three from the industry and three from government discussed all facets of the industry.

Panelists were: Loren Baker, D.G. Wilder, T.R. Kissella, W.A. Brody, S.H. Burhoe and W.L. Williamson, Chairman for the meeting was S.J. Campbell of Halifax.

Mr. Brody, president of Maritime Packers of Pictou, N.S., expressed concern over the present over-fishing in some areas of the Maritimes. He said that the situation is the result of the incentive over the present high prices.

PRICE PROBLEM
"The radical change in the price level at the end of last season has placed the packer and assembler in a most difficult situation," he said. "Truly last year's chicken has come to roost. If he decided to base this year's price to the fishermen on last year's closing prices, the public may balk. Prices in the fishing industry have been lower than would be expected in a most difficult situation," he said. "Truly last year's chicken has come to roost. If he decided to base this year's price to the fishermen on last year's closing prices, the public may balk. While the majority of Atlantic fishermen obey the regulations, there is a stubborn element who refuse to listen to "Groups of fishermen themselves have advocated stiffer penalties for poachers and processors who have fought the fish."

While public meetings have been held in various areas, catch conservation, these have only been partly successful as fish are not being sold as fish by obeying the laws. Mr. Robichaud pointed out because lobster tend to stay in one area where they are hatched, stocks that become depleted in one district are not likely to be re-populated by lobsters migrating from other areas.

For the same reason, fishermen who throw back short lobsters will find that the lobster they will catch larger and bring more money the next year. Better lobsters when returned to the water, can be taken later when their eggs have hatched.

Police identified her as Miss Johnnie-Alice Jones, 27, a Negro and mother of three children.
