Old Times in Annapolis, N. S.

A correspondent of the Halifax Herald writes: Coming up on the train from Annapolis, I had a very interesting chat with Peter Bennett, ex-sheriff of the county. He is an extraordinary old man—the oldest resident of ancient Port Royal, and knows more about its history during the past three-quarters of a century than any other man living. He is small of stature, and though born 81 years ago, his memory is as clear, his eyesight almost as keen, his step as firm, and his walk as erect as any man of 55. He was the son of a United Empire Loyalist who came to Annapolis from New York in 1783—a descendant of the Huguenots. Twelve years later he married a Miss Palmer of Horton, by whom he had a family of nine children. Only two of these now survive—Peter, and a brother living at Bridgetown. The Duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria, was a friend of Mr. Bennett's father, and the ex-sheriff himself was a school-mate of Sir Frederick Williams, the hero of Karr, and of the father of Bishop Binney. Here I may mention that United States Consul General Phelan, who was present during the conversation, remarked that the bishop was born at Sydney, C. B., in a house owned by his (Mr. Phelan's) aunt, Mr. Bennett says the old town of Annapolis was a lively town when he was a boy. On Monday last an old tree, standing outside the court house, was burned, to prevent its falling down and hurting some passer-by. That was a full grown tree when he was a boy and was then used as a public whipping post. He has seen a number of men publicly flogged there—getting thirty-nine lashes each; and on one occasion he saw a woman flogged at the same tree. She got fifteen lashes on the bare back for stealing. He has frequently seen soldiers flogged in the barracks for desertion. On one occasion he saw a man branded in the court house. He was guilty of manslaughter and the letter M was burnt into the palm of his hand. The ceremony was performed by Sheriff Winniet, father of Sir William Winniet, at one time Governor of Cape Coast Castle. Mr. Bennett has a vivid recollection of the war of 1812 and the stirring events connected therewith. Long after that thrilling period one thousand Imperial troops were stationed at Annapolis. When the paternal Bennett came from New York, one hundred and three years ago, he brought two or three slaves with him and kept them at Annapolis for many years, disposing of them at a large discount just before the declaration of emancipation. Mr. Bennett thinks there never ought to have been any emancipation, and that the colored people would be far better off if they were still in slavery. He thinks articles of marketable value, he thinks they would be much better taken care of by their masters than they now take care of themselves. He would, however, be in favor of the punishment of owners for cruel treatment of their slaves. For over a century of a century Mr. B. was sheriff of his native county. He has been a life long liberal; and while he himself is in favor of repeal, he admits that the young generation—the future—is against it. And there is therefore no hope for the success of the movement. He still lives in the house that he built half a century ago, and which has never since been shingled. They built substantial houses in those days. He never used tobacco in any form, never tastes any kind of liquor, and he cheerfully looks forward to celebrating his centennial 19 years hence.

Home Rule Notes.

A large landowner in Cheshire has discharged all his gamekeepers, and has given permission to his tenants to kill any game that may be seen on their farms. The tenants, who are much pleased, have assured their landlords that they will take care that he is never without sport. On the Hawarden estates (Gladstone's) this system was adopted some time ago, only the park around the castle being reserved.

At a meeting of the Belfast Anti-Repeat Union, arrangements were made to hold a convention of Loyalists in the near future. Letters from England were read offering armed assistance.

One firm of manufacturers in the Province of Ulster has already concluded arrangements for the transfer of its mills to Germany. It is stated that other Ulster firms are also considering the advisability of removal.

More firearms have been sold in Londonderry during the past three months than were sold during the previous five years. Orders have just been given there for 1,000 new rifles. Crowded meetings of Orangemen were held at Newry and Mourne, at which pledges were given not to submit to the Dublin Parliament and not to pay taxes. All present enrolled themselves as volunteers for military service. Canadian Orangemen have promised support.

An Important Achievement.

In baking powder the question of purity in baking powders has formed quite a feature of newspaper discussions in Boston, and eminent doctors of philosophy have given opinions as to the ingredients which compose many of the articles sold under that name. The investigations have narrowed down to the limit which awards the Royal Baking Powder the palm of purity, and several of the most distinguished scientists have testified to their conviction that no extraneous or deleterious matter enters into its composition. The Royal Baking Powder Company have achieved a world-wide reputation for the success which has marked their preparation of cream of tartar for baking purposes. It is indisputably shown that they have eliminated all elements of impurity, and present to the public a healthful and chemically pure article. Such widely known chemists as Henry Morton, E. G. Love, H. A. Motst, W. N. McMurtrie, and others have verified its superiority over other manufacturers, and testified, through practical experience, to its excellence. It is well for families to observe the fact that it costs more to manufacture the Royal Baking Powder than any other, but it is, as shown by chemical analysis, the only "absolutely pure" baking powder made.

A United Imperial Navy.

While it is well known that Sir Alexander Galt is in favour of Imperial Federation, it is also known that he regards, at least for the present, the difficulties in the way of a union of customs or of legislation as almost insurmountable. He thinks, however, that a step might be taken in the direction of union by the formation of an Imperial Navy. No doubt both Great Britain and the Colonies are ripe for this step, and it is equally certain that it is one which might be taken with advantage to all concerned. Indeed, circumstances are already forcing upon both Canada and Australia the necessity of maintenance of vessels for the protection of their maritime interests. Certain of the Australian Colonies have already modern warships of their own for the protection of their commerce, and Canada, if she is compelled to protect her fisheries, will be ready to have effective warships sooner or later. By building one or two for such a confederation, Canada would practically secure such a reserve force in case of serious troubles as would make the strongest nation on the face of the earth hesitate before entering upon a quarrel with her.

A Woman Detective

When a woman sets deliberately to work as a detective she knocks the spots off a man almost every time. This is illustrated by the striking achievements in this line of Mrs. L. Cook, a healthy Louisville woman, who, as she drove home one day in her carriage, discovered a brutal-looking ruffian emerging from a side entrance to her premises with a well-stored bag upon his shoulder. The man's whole appearance breathed the word "burglar" so plainly that Mrs. Cook whispered to her coachman that Mrs. Cook "bingled" so that she turned around and followed slowly after the retreating villain. After many devious windings he was tracked to his lair, which proved to be a respectable hotel. The carriage was at once driven to police headquarters, and two detectives, in plain clothes, accompanied Mrs. Cook back to the lair. The brutal-looking ruffian proved to be a garbage collector, and when Mrs. Cook got home she found she hadn't lost anything.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's

Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little shrub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, always all pain, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. [Feb 4 eod wkly]

The members of the United States Senate accounted wealthy, are worth $160,000,000. Stanford, of California, heads the list with $76,000,000, and is followed by Fair, of Nevada, with $50,000,000.
