'Waved Lobster' Warden Declares

SUMMERSIDE — The fisheries case against Theodore Arsenault of Wellington charged with having been unlawfully engaged in fishing for lobsters in a lobster fishing district for which the license issued did not authorize him to do so was concluded last evening in magistrate's court at Summerside. The case was adjourned for judgment by presiding Magistrate W. Chester S. MacDonald until Dec. 16th. E.H. Strong, QC, represented the department while J. O. C. Campbell, QC, was defence counsel. Six informations were laid against Arsenault, all identical except for the particular dates, these being Sept. 7, 9, 10, 11, 16 and 19th. Defence counsel Campbell applied for dismissal at the conclusion of the case for the crown which wound up last evening with the final two witnesses. Mr. Campbell's move for dismissal was based mainly on the fact that "The Crown witnesses didn't know where one fishing district ended and another began," and he added that "not one witness stated that the accused didn't have a license to fish where he did."

Final Crown witnesses were Fishery Officer Norman MacLeod who laid the informations and Fishery Warden Lloyd Heckbert who followed the boat in which the accused was aboard into Summerside harbor on several occasions where he saw Arsenault taking part in handling lobsters that were taken aboard. Evidence revealed the others in the boat were fishing legally. Warden Heckbert stated he followed the boat from Queen's Wharf in the fishing patrol boat and circled close enough to watch those aboard, including the accused hauling in traps. He stated that on one occasion the accused held a lobster up in the air and waved it at him. In summation Mr. Strong called the case "a flagrant abuse of the Fisheries Act" referring especially to the alleged lobster waving performance.

Speaker Says Education Important To All K Of Cs

Every Knight of Columbus should be prepared to educate his children to the point that they can assume a prominent position in community life, Dr. J.A. MacMillan said in Charlottetown last night. Pinch-hitting for Ernest Gillis of Halifax, fourth degree master grounded by bad weather, Dr. MacMillan was introduced by Faithful Friar, Rev. W.E. Simpson, and thanked by Judge C. St. Clair Trainor, a member of the order's fourth degree. Faithful Navigator Frank MacMillan presided at the banquet held at the Charlottetown Hotel.

posed by Mr. Mullin and responded to by Mrs. Percy MacDonald of Mount Edward Road. Program features included organ music by Mrs. Richard Dowd and two solos by Frank Macintyre. Bishop MacEachern also spoke briefly. Educational leadership was the role that Canada was best fitted to play in the world today, Dr. MacMillan stated. With a small population, the nation could not presume to be in the same power league with the United States, Russia or Britain. Since we could not alone defend ourselves, the nation's duty was to help others defend themselves. One out of every 16 Canadians was foreign-born and there were three million teenagers in the country. It would require all the nation's efforts to develop and educate these people and the Knights of Columbus must play an important part in this, Dr. MacMillan, said. In a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post, Admiral Richtover said that the fundamental fault of education today was the accent on training people rather than educating them, Dr. MacMillan declared. In an article entitled "The Uneducated" the admiral declared that education was primarily for the purpose of making man cognizant of his position in the world and his relations to other persons and regions.

AMERICAN MEN ARE BLASTED

ONDON (Reuters) — A Pan-American stewardess shot down the American male in flames Wednesday. Susan Dixon, 25, who is leading the airline's recruiting drive for British girls as stewardesses, had these deadly words to say about American men: "He is a conceited animal obsessed with sex and alcohol, a nicotine and pep-pill addict, more interested in boasting about his love affairs than conducting a serious one." Miss Dixon's experiences with Englishmen apparently have been happier. "British men are courteous and gentlemen a n l y," she declared. "Underneath the bowler hat and umbrella you find a flattering interest in a girl as a person not just a body."

Miss Dixon, who comes from Paignton, Devonshire, said she had spurned nine marriage proposals from Americans in the last year alone, but definitely was in the market for a British husband. Now all of these former estimates, some of them official, appear to have been washed out. Mr. Walker says progress is being made as rapidly as possible, that there are many factors to be taken into consideration. He adds that the report will be completed as soon as possible, but will give no estimate now as to when this might be.

Govt. Operation Probe Is Considered By PM

By ALAN DONNELLY
OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker has added fuel to reports that the government plans an inquiry into the whole field of its operations, similar to the United States Hoover commission. Such a proposal is being "exhaustively examined," he told reporters Wednesday.

Mr. Diefenbaker made the statement following a 90-minute private meeting between the cabinet and a 40-man delegation from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, headed by President H. Gordon Love of Calgary. One of the main proposals in the chamber's annual brief was a demand for stricter labor laws that would end unions' immunity from lawsuit and tighten up on strikes and picketing.

REQUEST REPEATED
But the submission also repeated a request made on similar occasions in the past for an inquiry, similar to that made by the Hoover commission in the U.S., to ensure economic and efficient administration. The chamber argued that taxes are too heavy and that government expenditures should be reduced as soon as possible. The prime minister told reporters he had informed the delegation that the idea of an inquiry into government operations "was a matter that was being discussed."

A Canadian Press report two months ago said the inquiry was being planned. At that time, Mr. Diefenbaker said the inquiry by former president Herbert Hoover had brought about "considerable savings" without reducing the effectiveness of government.

REITERATE PAST PROPOSALS
Today's brief by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, representing more than 750 local Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, was largely a reiteration of past proposals for government action. But in the field of labor legislation it took a stronger stand than it has in the past. It said trade unions should be made civilly responsible before the courts for their actions. That step was taken by British Columbia this year. The legislation has been strongly criticized by organized labor. The chamber said strikes and lockouts that endanger public health and safety should be outlawed, with compulsory arbitration to settle dispute that can't be resolved by bargaining. It said picketing should be allowed only where a legal strike or lockout exists, with picketing only by the employees involved. Mr. Diefenbaker indicated he made no comment on those points in the meeting with the delegation.

Sentence Is Suspended

SUMMERSIDE — An elderly gentleman from Tyne Valley appeared in Summerside Police Court yesterday charged with being intoxicated in a public place but after the details were revealed, Magistrate R.S. Hinton, QC, suspended sentence.

According to the evidence the man appeared at police headquarters Tuesday night and told them he was drunk and wanted to be arrested. They said he was looking for a night's lodging as he is a pensioner and couldn't afford a hotel room. He received the night's lodging in Prince County Jail. A Harmony man pleaded guilty to the same charge and was fined $20 and costs or 15 days. He elected the latter.

Car Ransacked At S'ide Motel

SUMMERSIDE — Thieves ransacked a Charlottetown car parked overnight at a Summerside motel and got away with a sample case containing items valued at more than $50. The car, owned by John Stevens, was thought to be locked but apparently one of the rear doors was overlooked and was an easy job for the thief to get into the car. The case contained such items as a leather case, Ronson lighter, two flashlights electric wall clock, etc. said he hadn't received any complaint about any threats. In Halifax Wednesday, a spokesman for Transport Minister Hees said there isn't likely to be a public inquiry into the threats or into the operations of the automatic toll gates.

No Decision

(Continued from page 1) the extent of the modifications. The railways contend the union pay proposals—a dual bid for a seven-per-cent boost plus 12½ cents an hour—would cost them $65,000,000 a year. This, they add, is the equivalent of revenue from a 30-per-cent freight rate increase. They are expected to reject the pay demands eventually, then go into conciliation—a long process in railway matters. Observers expect the dispute to be dumped finally in the government's lap.

HAPPENED BEFORE
This is what has happened in the past. In the last negotiations, when the unions asked for a 35-cent-an-hour boost in pay, the bargaining sessions collapsed, conciliation proceedings took several months and a report was delivered. Then the unions accepted the conciliation proposals but called a strike when the railways turned them down. The threatened strike was halted after the railways got a 17-per-cent freight rate increase to cover the cost of the wage settlement, a three-stage increase amounting to about 14 cents an hour. Average rate of pay for a non-op worker is about $1.72 an hour, but because of the wide range of skills and jobs there is no specific figure. The non-op workers span the nation and include clerks, electricians, machinists, track maintenance crews, freight handlers, porters and other workers outside the running trades. The running trades—engineers, firemen, brakemen and conductors—cover about 45,000 men on both railways but they are not involved.

MOON MEASURE

The moon has a diameter of 2,162 miles, compared to earth's diameter at the equator of 7,926 miles.

"The matter is still in the hands of the RCMP," said the spokesman. Mr. Hees disclosed in Ottawa Tuesday that revenue from the bridge in September and October was $158,000 higher than in the corresponding months of 1958. In Ottawa, the board said that an increase of 532,000 was recorded in the number of vehicles using the bridge in September and October compared with the corresponding months of last year. The board said that bridge improvements, including a fifth traffic lane, new approaches and the automatic toll devices, were main factors in a speedup of traffic across the bridge. The government had two RCMP investigations into bridge operations before the automatic devices were installed. Mr. Hees said no evidence of dishonesty was found.
