

Pulp And Paper Products Show Increasing Demand

MONTREAL (CP) — R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, said Tuesday "the economic barometer is rising and the improvement in the general economy is beginning to show itself in increased demands for pulp and paper products."

Addressing the annual meeting of the Woodlands section of the association, Mr. Fowler said total production of the pulp and paper industry in 1958 "seems likely to reach a level that will not be seriously below the peak level attained in 1956."

Mills now were operating at 80 to 85 per cent of capacity. He believed there never would be a return to operations at 100 per cent of capacity.

Mr. Fowler said:

"At capacity operations we cannot meet the full needs of our customers, and if we ever get back to it, we are likely to run into the same condition as we had a few years ago when too many expansion projects were undertaken at the same time."

REASONABLE RESERVE

"I hope that long before we begin to get back to near-capacity operations, decision will be taken to expand capacity gradually and sensibly and that we will thus maintain a reasonable reserve of productive ability to meet the full demands of our customers and relieve them from recurring fears of shortages."

Mr. Fowler said that with mills operating below capacity woodlands operators will have to pay strict attention to the costs of producing wood and to estimating the amount of wood needed by the mills. Under production or over production of wood could prove costly to woodlands companies.

Another speaker also referred to the problem of costs.

M. S. M. Hamilton of Montreal, manager of the association's industrial relations section, said that many Canadians are becoming aware that Canada "lives by selling a large percentage of her products abroad and that owing to our costs, we are finding it increasingly difficult to meet the competition of manufacturers in other nations."

CHANGING ATTITUDE

He said this awareness is partly responsible for "what appears to be changing public attitudes that could lead to changes and modification in our institutions and concepts of responsibility."

F. N. Joranson of the Institute of Paper Chemistry, Appleton, Wis., called for close liaison between producers of forest products and forest scientists.

He described tree breeding as a means of forest improvement and its relation to making forest products.

Another speaker, James Dose of Toronto, spoke of the growing need for more professional foresters. He is secretary manager of the Canadian Institute of Forestry.

that for years he and his colleagues had been trying to get some hard surfaced roads for the people of the south shore and had been unable to do so. "It was not until this federal program came into being that we were able to do this," he said.

In addition to this he stated the Rustico Road and the Mayfield road were to be paved.

"These roads do not run from sand hill to sand hill, they run through the best farming districts of the province," he said.

Turning to agriculture, Mr. Bell said he had never criticized the government for increasing its budget for agriculture. He admitted the department was a difficult one to run. It was hard to formulate policies and it was hard to get the farmers to follow these policies. "That is why they should have constant supervision at all times," he said.

He said he was worried that the frozen food plant could not operate for more than a few weeks of the year. He hoped that the operations of the plant would be extended, possibly in the processing of potatoes.

FALCONWOOD FARM

Speaking of Falconwood Farm, Mr. Bell wondered whether the farm should be continued as a government property or not. He said it was a good farm and there was a lot of free labour obtained from the patients. He doubted whether the de-

Service Is Held In St. Andrews

MONTAGUE — The second in the series of pre-Easter services at Montague, was held last night at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church with Rev. J. Fraser conducting the service and leading in prayer. The music was under the direction of the organist, Mrs. A. F. Campbell.

Congregational hymns were "When I Survey The Wondrous Cross", "In The Cross Of Christ I Glory", "Take Up Thy Cross", and the choir sang "Sweet The Moments Rich In Blessing".

The guest speaker, Rev. A. G. J. Steeves, read the scripture lesson from John, chapter 3 and spoke on the text "Search the Scriptures . . . for they are they which testify of Me. (John 5:39)."

The speaker traced from the Old Testament the prophetic utterances concerning the Messiah, and noted their fulfillment in Jesus of Nazareth. He emphasized that anyone who searched the scripture has no excuse for rejecting Christ as Saviour or serving him as Lord and Master.

The service tonight will be at 8 o'clock in the United Baptist Church when Rev. F. MacKinnon will be the guest speaker.

KINGSBORO

Mrs. Ralph Bruce returned to her home in East Latic after undergoing an operation in the P.E.I. Hospital, Charlottetown. Her many friends hope to see her regain her health and strength real soon.

Mrs. Lester Robertson is spending some time in Souris, the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. MacDonald.

Aubrey MacGregor, East Baltic, spent a week with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Stewart, Kingsboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Robertson and Mr. Edwin Robertson, Munn's Road, accompanied by Mrs. D. Rose, North Lake, were among those who attended the funeral of the late Mr. Samuel MacLeod, Uigg, which was held from the United Baptist church. Friday the 13th of March saw this district strongly lashed by gales together with snow and rain but the only real damage reported was three windows which were demolished in the Kingsboro Baptist Church. No further damage resulted except to boats which lay in the path of the driving rain.

Mrs. Charles MacCormack returned to her home at North Lake after spending a few days visiting with relative and friends in Charlottetown.

Rev. H.R. Bell has taken up residence at his home in Kingsboro, after spending the winter months visiting with members of his family.

Mr. and Mrs. James Robertson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Robertson, Kingsboro, attended the funeral of the late Mr. Samuel E. Mace-d, whose death occurred recently at the King's County Memorial Hospital in Montague.

Mrs. Leslie Ladner, Charlottetown, visited recently with her mother, Mrs. Reggie Rose and Mr. Rose, Kingsboro.

MCA Officials Optimistic Over Moncton Airport Future

By DOUG HAKNESS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONCTON (CP) — Maritime Central Airways officials are optimistic about the future of Moncton airport as a major alternate landing field for international aircraft.

MCA ground crews service overseas planes diverted here and the service promises to net close to $25,000 this year.

With the installation of the first underground fueling system in the Maritimes, the airport is capable of refueling all types of aircraft, including the largest jet transports.

Donald Simmons, executive manager of MCA, says installation of the fueling system has tended to make Moncton a principal diversion centre in the Maritimes. Gander, Nfld., is a regular refueling airport, but weather conditions often prevent planes from stopping there.

GOOD WEATHER CONDITIONS

Mr. Simmons is hopeful that international airlines will decide to make Moncton their chief refueling base in the future. He feels the local airport offers the best weather conditions in Eastern Canada.

The standard under-wing jet hydrant installed here early in March emits thousands of gallons of fuel in a matter of minutes. Large jets can be refueled within 15 or 20 minutes. Trucks supply gasoline to conventional planes.

Completion of an airport extension enables all types of aircraft to land here.

One of the first BOAC Comets to land here carried Prince Phillip, who was en route to Springhill, N.S., after the mine disaster last October. Since that time, BOAC's planes have made several stops.

Mr. Simmons said the outlook for Moncton appears promising, although it is not known what effect the opening of Kelly Lake airport near Halifax, will have on Moncton traffic.

"We feel the local airport has all the aspects of becoming a cross-roads for international flights and the company is finding its maintenance service an interesting and profitable project."

Record Wheat Exports Seen

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Churchill Tuesday forecast "another record year" for Canadian wheat exports.

Replying in the Commons to George McIlraith (L — Ottawa West) Mr. Churchill said that although exports are down 4.3 per cent in the first six months of the crop year from the corresponding period last year this country's wheat situation is better than it was a year ago.

He noted that in the 1957-58 crop year that ended last July 31 Canada exported 316,000,000 bushels of wheat.

"Even with the slight decline of the first six months our exports should be at least 300,000,000 bushels," he said, adding that he believes "we will have another record year."
