

THE DAILY EXAMINER. AUGUST 16, 1882.

The Game Laws.

A CORRESPONDENT writes to THE EXAMINER complaining of laxity in observing the game laws. He draws attention to the remarkable fact that some of the "considered respectable citizens" of Charlottetown, and of other parts of the Island, openly violate the laws and shoot with impunity.

Jews in the United States.

When the Russians were hard on the Jews, a special movement was made in promoting the emigration of the persecuted sons of Israel to the United States. Many thousands landed in that country, and now it happens that the venture has not been crowned with a large measure of success.

The Threatened Troubles in Syria.

THE special telegram yesterday's EXAMINER gave the news that Mussulmans were growing restless in Syria. These followers of Islam in Syria are likely to be the cause of grave trouble and anxiety during the Egyptian campaign.

French being the only European language taught, and in every possible way does the French seek to regain an influence over this impressionable people. A third feature is the division of the Moslem factions. Even now in Jerusalem alone there are five of these factions, and they refuse to intermarry.

The Alexandria Riots.

A HALIFAX LADY AT THE SCENE—A VIVID DESCRIPTION.

MRS. THOMPSON, a native of Halifax, returned from Alexandria on the 13th inst. She had been living with her husband in the unfortunate city for eight years, and was compelled to go on board a British man-of-war on the day following the Sunday riot and massacre of Europeans.

THE well known commission house of Messrs. E. T. Russell & Co., has been removed from its old quarters in State Street Block, Boston, where it had a successful existence for nearly a quarter of a century, to the new building, 284 State Street, near Atlantic Avenue.

LADIES Black Straw Hats in all the newest shapes at J. B. MACDONALD'S. [a 14 31 wly 31]

AT the special meeting of the Charlottetown Land League, held on Monday, the 14th inst., John Kelly, Esq., was elected President, and P. D. Cox, Esq., Vice-President. Interesting remarks were made by gentlemen present, and addresses were promised by members for the regular meeting, which takes place on Monday evening next.

BUY Harvest Gloves at J. B. MACDONALD'S. [aug 14 31 wly 31]

GENERAL BUTLER'S yacht "America" was magnificently illuminated last night. A display of fireworks was also made from her deck. The illumination and fireworks were witnessed from the wharves by crowds of spectators. The "America" left early this morning for Bay des Chaleurs where the party will remain a few days fishing, and then proceed to Quebec.

SUMMER RESORT.—We have just seen a letter from the proprietor of a summer resort in Massachusetts, to the proprietors of the Seaside Hotel, Rustico Beach, in which the writer says:—"If the half I have heard of your house and location be true, you have the best place on the Atlantic coast." This comes of advertising in THE EXAMINER.

IN accordance with the general custom of observing the Annual Scottish Gathering as a partial holiday, we, the undersigned, hereby express our intention of closing our respective establishments at 12 o'clock, noon, August 17th, 1882.—W. A. Brown & Co., W. A. Weeks & Co., J. B. MacDonald, John McPhee & Co., Robert Young, Perkins & Sterns, Geo. Davies & Co., L. E. Prowse, A. B. McKenzie & Co.

THE police of the city are now strictly enforcing the law regarding cattle at large. For the future, stray horses and cows (as well as dogs) will have a hard time of it. Last night there were eleven losses and one cow taken to the pound by the police, and in the last few days more than thirty head have been captured. We are glad to see the police active in this matter, the result of which will be a complete abatement of the cattle wandering nuisance.

FELLSHOS, Corsets, Gloves, Laces, just received at J. B. MACDONALD'S. [a 13 31 wly 31]

SOME splendid specimens of grain were exhibited in THE EXAMINER office this morning. They came from the Rosebank Farm, and consisted of white and black oats and white wheat, all sown with the broadcast machine on the 24th May. The stalks of the wheat were 5 1/2 feet high, and the heads 4 1/2 to 6 inches. The stalks of the oats were 4 1/2 feet high and the heads were rich and fat in their plentiful grain. The land on which these were grown was heavily manured for potatoes and topped with soot and lime.

Lord Dufferin's Diplomatic Success.

Lord Dufferin's great tact, perseverance and success in Constantinople are much praised, and compared to those of the "Great Eltchi, Lord Stratford De Redcliffe, before the Crimean war. Lord Dufferin has actually succeeded in compelling the Turks to violate their own fundamental principle of never taking more than one step at a time by making them take two. By declaring that in consequence of Turkey's delay in formally accepting the identical note, the English government might consider she had refused it, he so wrought upon the feeling of the Sublime Porte that the Minister of Foreign Affairs hurriedly telegraphed to all the ambassadors, requesting them to meet at two hours' notice, and informed those who were able to attend that he was ready to sign a protocol accepting the identical note without reservation; also that the Sultan's proclamation demanded by Lord Dufferin would be prepared at once. In addition to these feats the English Ambassador has instilled great activity into the Turkish mind in regard to the military convention between England and the Porte, his draft of which shows that while England accepts Turkish co-operation, she is prepared to do the work with or without its assistance. Lord Dufferin has been assisted in these great results by Said Pacha and Artin Effendi, who supported his policy and fought against Palace influences.

Roamings near Ramleh.

Less frequent and promiscuous outpost firing is shown by Arabi's troops. Last Saturday I managed to approach within less than four hundred yards of his cavalry vedettes, who merely covered me with their carbines without firing, as they have done at 800, even 1,000 yards. My object was accomplished—namely, to pick up a load of Remington cartridges dropped by the Arabs during the night attacks. As I suspected, these cartridges bore marks of being made at the Tourah factory, near Cairo, and the discovery was important as proving that the Tourah works are in operation, which are capable of turning out sixty thousand cartridges daily. There is an active movement of trains in the rear of Arabi's outposts. General Alison's last reconnaissance had the intended effect of making Arabi mass his troops within striking distance of Ramleh. It is incomprehensible why the English have yet no balloons for reconnaissance work.

SAYS the London Advertiser:—"There seems to be a good deal of political corruption lying around generally." How could anyone have relations with the grit, without coming to such a conclusion?

DURING the season, it is stated, the Canadian Pacific will add 640 miles of new road to its mileage; 520 miles of this will be on the main line and the balance on branches.
