Lively Session Of Legislature Closed Yesterday

One of the liveliest sessions in many years closed when the Legislature was prorogued yesterday. During the four-week period practically every member of the House took the floor at one time or another to have something to say in the debates.

There was plenty of wit and humor and in addition there were many solid suggestions for the Ministers of the various departments of Government to consider. Mr. F. L. MacNutt, Third Prince, reminded the House during the debate on the Budget that this Province was far from the poor place it is frequently pictured. Mr. MacNutt said that the total value of our provincial production was in the neighborhood of $64,000,000 annually and maintained that the figure was a true indication of the prosperity of the Island.

He mentioned the primary industries of farming and fishing and said of the former that its members are prospering at the present time and justly so because theirs was the backbone of Prince Edward Island economy. However, he warned farmers that they should have more faith in the Province and more confidence in the future. "Farming is as good an occupation as any there is," Mr. MacNutt said when he stated that a man only needed his health to be a success at it.

Of the fishermen along our shores he said that they were all industrious and as a result were prospering from their industry. The Province, too, was aiding fishermen greatly by the many efforts it was making on behalf of them. He thought the man who works for himself on the farm "has his own form of social security" and he always has something he can dispose of in case of real necessity.

Favor Property Vote

During the discussions on possible changes in the election system employed here it was noticeable and it was frequently surprising, that there were many of the members who favored the present property vote despite opinions to the contrary of its unfairness. Several of the speakers in the debate referred to the "stake" which the property owner has in the Province and his willingness to wager his money that Prince Edward Island will continue to prosper by purchasing land here. Hon. W. E. Darby, Attorney General, said in this connection that a two-thirds vote of the members of the Legislature would be necessary to effect any reform in the present set-up of the House.

In a brief reference to the religious angle involved, Mr. Thomas Cullen, Clerk of the House, who represents Second Kings, said that frequently in the districts it had been a case of one Catholic running against another while one Protestant opposed another of the same faith. He thought that a possible rearrangement of districts might upset this.

Ottawa Agreement

Regarding the many complaints offered about the various tax agreements entered into with Ottawa, Mr. J. George MacKay, Fourth, felt there was no use "harping" on them after they were signed. But he did think that we should keep on sending delegations to Ottawa as "the wheel that squeaks the most gets the most grease".

Mr. Harvey Douglas, Second Kings, in attacking the Opposition in the House said that it was the Conservative Party, while in power, which had been responsible for the passing of the Bankruptcy Act for farmers who paid off their debts at 10 and 15 cents on the dollar. He said it was the merchants of the Province "who took the rap".

Mr. E. P. Foley, Summerside, reminded the members that today farming was much like the sweater girl, "she gets out of it all she puts in and draws lots of interest besides". He was very critical of the apparent efforts to break the Lord's Day Act and said there was a growing tendency nowadays to break it with professional interests appearing in the effort. The speaker wondered why the Province could not be free of the "swirling dust" created by loaded trucks on Sunday and thought there should be one day of the week without that nuisance. He said the demoralization of a nation begins with collapse of its religious faith.

Fine Concert in P. W. C. Series

The Prince of Wales College current Concert Series closed last evening with what was undoubtedly the finest performance to date, in the appearance of Rosabelle and Kelsey Jones, duo-pianists. From the moment this talented young couple stepped on to the stage there was a confidence in their manner and an assurance in their playing which marked them as high ranking musicians.

Residing in St. John, N. B., Dr. and Mrs. Jones are playing an increasingly prominent role in the growth of musical activities in the Maritimes, and their appearances are attracting wide interest. They were married while attending Mount Allison Conservatory where they both received licentiate and baccalaureates in music. Dr. Jones then studied in Toronto with Sir Ernest MacMillan. Leo Smith and Healy Willan, receiving his doctorate in 1931, and then studied composition in Paris with Nadia Boulanger. He is at present the conductor of the St. John Symphony Orchestra, of which his wife is a member. Rosabelle studied under Max Perani after her marriage, and in Paris studied composition with Yvonne Lefebvre.

Original Work Played

One of the highlights of their appearance last evening was the performance of an original composition by Dr. Jones in three movements. Dance, Interlude and Fantasia. He pointed out the fact they were both using music. This, he said, was because although the music had been finished three months ago, they were constantly changing it.

Their skill in perfect teamwork was very noticeable in the extremely difficult "Variations on a Theme of Haydn" by Brahms, in which they brought out the composer's changes of mood with changes of tempo and expression to a remarkable degree. "Scherzouche," by Darius Milhaud, was the final number on the program and at its conclusion brought the loudest applause of the evening after which the artists generously gave three encores. In three movements, Vif, Modere and Brazileira, this composition thrilled the enthusiastic audience with its brilliance and wild, throbbing beauty. Other numbers included were "Jesus Christ, the Son of God" by Bach, arranged by Dr. Jones; "Gigue in C" by Bach-Ross; "Sonata No. 1 for Flute and Piano" by Handel, arranged by Dr. Jones; "Six Liebeslieder Waltzes" by Brahms-Maier; "Jamaican Rumba" by Benjamin, and Gershwin's "Prelude No. 2."

It was pleasing to note that the former sombre grey background on the stage has now been replaced by the brown plush curtains which previously hung across the front. The College has been fortunate in being able to secure a set of scarlet curtains for the proscenium arch which lend a rich and dignified atmosphere to performances on the stage.

Ministers Take Issue - Both Hon. Mr. Darby, Provincial Treasurer, and Hon. A. W. Matheson, Minister of Health and Welfare, took issue with the member with Mr. Darby stating that his own district and that represented by Premier Jones had only $74,000 spent on the roads compared to the $80,000 spent in Mr. MacDonald's. Mr. Matheson said this city received a sum of $2,000 monthly for welfare work with no strings attached to it. He also said that the city was reimbursed for up to 50 percent of the money it spends on relief and he stated that this was more than any other district in the Province got.

Mr. MacDonald, obviously annoyed with some of the members and their actions yesterday, told them it was all right if they "want to fool around", but he was in dead earnest and wanted the Minister of Highways, or his deputy, to show him where the $80,000 supposedly spent on roads here had gone.

Hon. Keir Clark remarked that the junior member from Charlottetown was complaining about not getting enough for his district but he thought the Minister of Highways had been very fair and said that in all the Government had spent $864,000 in Fifth Queens'. He thought the district was fairly treated as were all other districts.

Swing Towards Labor Continues

By Fraser Wighton LONDON, April 9 (Reuters)—The swing toward Labor continued strongly today in Britain's local government elections.

The socialists recaptured the important Northumberland County Council in Northeast England, and scored successes in 12 other counties. In Bedfordshire the party increased its representation from 10 to 29 seats. This does not give Labor control, but makes it the biggest single group in the council containing anti-socialists under various labels.

Socialists, who before the elections controlled only eight of the 62 county councils, are expected to have majorities in at least 12 when final results are known.

approval came a week or so ago. The United States, the United Kingdom, New Zealand, Australia and Ceylon have approved the treaty and notified Washington of their ratification. The next country to do so will bring the required majority of six.

The treaty was adopted at the last sitting before the commons adjourned to Monday, April 21 for the Easter recess. There were only about 50 members in the 262-seat house when approval came. The qualified support came from M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader, with John Blackmore (SC — Leinster) following them with criticism of American economic and diplomatic policies which he said were at least partly responsible for the last war.
