Dr. Murchison Home After Studying Latest Technique In Mental Health Treatment

Dr. A. J. Murchison, Medical Superintendent at Falconwood Hospital, has just returned to the Province following a year's absence in British Columbia where he studied the latest techniques in the treatment of the mentally ill. Most of Dr. Murchison's time was spent at the Essondale Hospital, New Westminster, which is the British Columbia Provincial Mental Hospital. But he also had the opportunity of visiting mental hospitals in New York and the State of Washington.

Dr. A. J. Murchison

In connection with the Essondale Hospital the new Crease Clinic was opened this year. It was designed and equipped to function as a diagnostic and active treatment centre for mental illness and is provided with departments in all the medical specialties. These include radiology, cardiology, neurology, eye, ear, nose and throat, surgery and clinical laboratories. In addition there is complete equipment and facilities for the practice of psychiatry.

Impressed With Service Dr. Murchison was given the complete freedom of the hospital which is under the direction of M. G. Gee, Director of Mental Health Services for British Columbia. He was particularly impressed with the depth of services provided the patients.

In the Crease Clinic, a 300-bed unit, patients are quartered for a comparatively short period of time for therapy. Usually they have four months of shock and insulin therapy and group therapy. All possible diagnostic aids are provided the staff and the physical condition of the patient is thoroughly explored as being of prime importance.

There is also a social service department which delves deeply into the case history of the patient and determines his home conditions. Interviews are obtained with near relatives and every effort made to assist the patient to recover and eventually to return to a normal life.

Extensive use is made of recreational facilities with dances and parties held regularly and moving pictures supplied for entertainments. A new building now in course of erection will make available bowling and games of all kinds as well as having a swimming pool. There is also a library for patients' use as every effort is made to produce conditions as near as possible to everyday living.

Occupational Therapy Occupational therapy is greatly stressed with weaving, woodwork and metal work provided the patients to try to get them interested in something early in the period of their stay and thus keep them occupied.

The Clinic only takes those patients whose cases are not acute and who will respond to therapy treatment. If after the four months stay there is no response the patient may be transferred to the main hospital. In connection with the hospital is a large training school for psychiatric nurses, who though not B.N. grade are specialists in their own field. The hospital staff consists of 20 doctors many of whom stay for one or two years for training. Where surgery becomes necessary it is carried on at one of the ordinary hospitals with Lobotomy being done at Vancouver General Hospital. However, the Essondale expects to have its own surgical department in a short time.

A Growing Problem Dr. Murchison states that the problem of mental illness is a growing one which must be coped with. There are, he said, approximately one million citizens in Canada who are permanently, partially or temporarily disabled by mental ill health and points out that in 1945 the population of Canada's mental hospitals was 50,000 while today it is 65,000, an increase of 30 percent. He said it is now the number one health problem as it strikes more people than polio, heart disease and cancer combined.

Another feature of his visit to the West Coast which favorably impressed Dr. Murchison was the Woodland School for those who are mentally retarded or deficient. Operated in conjunction with Essondale Hospital it has a capacity of 1,200 and provides all forms of help for the younger people especially. Besides the school there is Child Guidance Clinic to deal with 'problem' children. Dr. Murchison was impressed with the excellent work the clinic does in handling the problems of adolescents. In many cases, he said, there is a physical or emotional reason for the action of youngsters who get into trouble and the clinic tries to find the cause. In many cases, he said, there is a physical or emotional reason for the action of youngsters who get into trouble and the clinic tries to find the cause. In some cases the children are found to be mentally defective and they are sent to the Woodland School. The clinic also maintains travelling units which visit all parts of the Province.

Needed Here He feels that an idea similar to the Woodland School and its Child Guidance Clinic are very much needed here. But perhaps the greatest need is for a Mental Health Clinic. Dr. Murchison said yesterday that at one time all the mentally ill patients received was care. Now

New Salvation Army Officers Arrive In City

Senior Captain and Mrs. Leslie Titcombe arrived in the City over the week-end to take charge of the Charlottetown Salvation Army Corps in succession to Major and Mrs. Ernest Hutchison who recently left for their new post in Ottawa.

Prior to coming to Charlottetown, Senior Captain and Mrs. Titcombe were stationed for five years in Nanaimo, British Columbia, and this is the first time their work has carried them into the Maritimes. "We were very impressed by the friendliness and the warmth of the welcome we received," the Senior Captain said last night, "and we are looking forward to a period of fruitful work in the Province." During the war years, Senior Captain Titcombe spent two years in the R. C. A. F. Special Services in Regina, Saskatchewan, and was then transferred to the military Auxiliary Services, serving for eighteen months overseas and at the end of the war he was in North-West Germany. He was posted to Nanaimo on his return. The Senior Captain and his wife, who is a third generation Salvationist, have thirteen years service as Salvation Army Officers, and are particularly interested in all phases of youth work and youth activities. They have two young sons, Gerald and David.

Installing New Traffic Lights

City workmen were busy over the week-end installing two more in the series of city traffic lights. They are being put in at the corners of Grafton and Queen streets, and Kent and Great George Streets. The lights are the same type as that now operating at the corner of Euston Street and Elm Avenue and will work on the same time change frequency. It is expected that they will be in operation by the end of the week.

Army Casualties

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP) — The army has issued its 57th casualty list of the Korean war, reporting two officers and five men wounded and three men injured in action.

FERRY REFLOATED

Continued from page 1 main on the slip for three or four days. In the meantime the "Prince Nova", sister ship on the Wood Islands-Caribou run, will carry on the service alone. She will make three trips daily, leaving Wood Islands at 7 and 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. The return trips will be made from Caribou at 9 a.m. and 1 and 5 p.m. Because of navigational difficulties officials of Northumberland Ferries do not consider it advisable to attempt night sailings. Mr. R. E. Mutch, president of the Northumberland Ferries Ltd., paid high tribute last night to the work of Captain C. R. Hunter, Marine Superintendent of the company. He stated that Capt. Hunter had neither eaten nor slept from the time the Dunning went aground Friday until he had successfully supervised the freeing of her.

Mr. Mutch was also very appreciative of the splendid cooperation of Mr. Clive Currie, who was temporarily in charge of the local office of the Dominion Department of Public Works. Mr. Currie had personally driven to Montague with Capt. Hunter to arrange for the departure of the two tugs of his department which were working there at the time. He had also telephoned Ottawa, telling of the trouble and obtaining permission to let the tugs go to the assistance of the Dunning.

Details Of The Duke

A friend once asked the Duke of Edinburgh: "What is your reaction to international publicity which will always be a necessary part of your life?" The Duke answered: "It is all right with me, as long as it does any good." When workmen were moving furniture into Clarence House, he removed his coat and helped. "Sometimes he likes to roam in London, alone and unrecognized, talking to waiters and bus drivers. He often visits boys' clubs in London, always unexpectedly, to see them working normally. He plays the piano. He plays polo. He captains a top notch cricket eleven in "Bluebottle". A Dragon class sailing boat, he came first at Cowes regatta last year, first this year. He tried golf. He defeated him. Because he was not reared in the shadow of the Throne, he has a closer knowledge of ordinary life than any British monarch or consort before him. The new English prayer book has been modified to read as follows: "Almighty God, the fountain of all goodness, we humbly beseech thee to bless Mary, the Queen Mother, the Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, enrich them with thy grace." (There is a separate prayer for the King)

JUNIOR LEAGUE MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Junior League of the Charlottetown Hospital was held Tuesday evening, October 2, at the Nurses' Residence with 30 members present.

The meeting was opened with prayer by the President, Mrs. George Chandler. A new member, Mrs. A. J. Gaudet, was introduced by the President. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted. Correspondence was read, including an invitation to the President to attend a meeting of the Association of Nurses on Wednesday, October 3, also from the I. O. D. E., who are sponsoring a Canada Packers Food Clinic in P. W. C. on Oct. 10 and 11.

The financial statement was read by the treasurer, Mrs. Gerald Johnson, and approved. Mrs. Reginald Cronin reported for the baby-birth at the Charlottetown Hospital Bazaar. A report of the Ways and Means committee was then given and a discussion took place in regard to money making activities for the fall months. Mrs. Mitchell MacDonald was appointed Convener of the annual doll lottery to be held in December. A very interesting and detailed report of the Maritime Hospital Convention held in St. Andrew's, N. B. in June was given by Mrs. Bernard Hughes, past president, who accompanied by Mrs. Reginald Cronin, attended as delegates of the League. It was decided to have a member of the Hospital give a talk to the members in the near future. A copy of the amended constitution was then read and will be read at two more business meetings before being passed. There being no further business, the meeting adjourned. Lunch was served by Mrs. J. J. Hayley, Mrs. Urban McQuaid, Mrs. Earl Keardon and Mrs. Arthur Wellner.

Fine Concert Given By St. Joseph's Choir

Music lovers of this City received one of the greatest thrills they have ever experienced on Saturday evening, when the Saint Joseph's University Choir presented a program under the sponsorship of the Maritime Blue Cross organization.

Dr. J. A. MacMillan, who acted as chairman for the occasion, expressed the opinion of the crowd of main dining room of the Charlottetown Hotel, where the entertainment was given, when he said, "The concert we have just heard is one of the finest you or I will ever hear." Directed by Rev. Leandre Brault, C.S.C., Professor of Philosophy at St. Joseph's, the group of twenty-four singers ably demonstrated the ability which won for them the trophy in the International Folk Song Competition in Wales this year, and the annual award for the best Senior Choir in Canada in 1949.

In the program of 15 songs the choir was heard at its best in folk songs and Gregorian chants resounding at times a huge organ tone. Each word was clearly enunciated, and the volume was completely under the capable guidance of Rev. Brault, swelling to full strength and decreasing to a whisper at the movement of his hand.

A master in the interpretation of his music, Rev. Brault demonstrated this by having the choir sing three or four familiar and very simple numbers in a manner which will be remembered when these selections are heard. The choir, the majority of which are between the ages of nineteen and twenty-four, left two of its members at the airport in Moncton when it was found the plane could not accommodate them all. At the conclusion of their concert they were entertained at dinner in the smaller dining room, and then left by plane in order that they might be back in the University by midnight. In addition to the Blue Cross Convention delegates who had finished their dinner just previous to the concert, approximately forty leaders of choirs and other musical organizations in Charlottetown received a special invitation to attend. Each and every choir director who took advantage of the generous invitation received an inspiration from the program which will no doubt be reflected in work done by local groups. It is understood that Rev. Brault has been working with the group for the past five years, since his entering St. Joseph's University, and that the members of the choir are constantly changing. Rehearsals are carried out during the recreation periods which usually amount to two hours each week, with rehearsals every day if the choir is to compete. There are also special practices for the singing of Mass each Sunday. Students interested in taking part are entered in Choral C, from which they graduate to Choral B, and from that to Choral A Group, which was the group heard here.
