

BON VOYAGE

This is the last edition of the Cadre for the 1972-1973 academic year. We shall resume publication in Sept. of this year at which time we shall reproduce the "Cadre Manifesto" which appeared in the April 3rd. edition. There shall be other reproductions e.g. Pat Duffy's proposal for a restructuring of the UPEI Student Union; and the information regarding Day Care facilities for children of students and faculty which appeared in the April 11 edition.

Time nor circumstances have not permitted the promised expose on unethical practice at G.J.'s. This awaits another publication.

Your exams are before you; so is your summer. Make of it what you will. Until September then.

The Vanishing Law On Campus

I would like to bring it to the attention of administration and students about the lack of proper policing of a high school hockey game which took place on this campus April 5th. The north parking lot was completely blocked and parking was allowed on the access road reducing it to single lane traffic. Many cars were blocked in and there were students who had spent a great deal of effort to get out of the parking lot.

With such a flair for screw-ups, might I ask the campus "pigs" and administration how this type of thing was allowed to get out of hand?

future by man or God, both of which is ridiculous), for they built in the present their present.

I owe nothing to the past or to my forefathers. I owe only to myself to live an existence in the present.

One deficiency of the past was their conception of time. They lived very much determined by their past (constituted by their forefathers, etc.) and projected heavily upon the future; the present was practically ignored! In any society (or any individual) which finds the reality of the present too difficult to cope with, may look to the past, or look to the future (e.g. many UTOPIAS were written for this reason) rather than face up to their responsibilities man is always looking for a way out of his PRESENT situation.

You say I have nothing to replace this present system. So far as our material society goes I have no desire to eliminate it for it is not wrong in itself. What I do wish to change is the way we deal with life's problems. If man would accept their freedom and responsibilities which living in the present implies, then we would have a very different, healthier society. In that society I would have little to say.

Again I say, I owe nothing to the past (so far as gratitude is concerned); I owe nothing to my forefathers; I know nothing of the future nor does it concern me, what does concern me however, is the present and how I compare myself in it.

Sincerely yours, Stan Dalton

Dear Editor:

It seems that every time I pick up a Cadre there is someone complaining about being "ripped off" by the Administration. While I realize that these "rip offs" do not affect everyone on campus, I would like to express some of my opinions concerning the forthcoming summer sessions.

Being abundantly aware of the fact that we are not a tri-semester institution and consequently cannot offer a wide variety of courses during the summer sessions, I feel that the timetables set forth, represent the endeavours of some highly pressured joker whose main concerns were to match courses with professors who cannot swim, or with those who are zealous enough to teach a few hours on either side of "prime tanning time" on P.E.I.

As a result of these constraints the student who planned on getting some of his courses off finds the usual bag of tricks thrown at him. He finds one or two courses during the time that suits him which he either already has or are such absurd selections he decides to waste his time and not his money by not taking any courses.

Here's the final catch-since only a few students find a course they want to take, the administration inflates the residence fees to compensate for the income foregone because many students are not satisfied with the timetable.

In conclusion, as I look with despair at the deviously packaged summer calendar, I realize the constraints that the administration has to deal with and can't help thinking that if a bit more progressive thinking seeped through the system that just maybe things would be better next year.

Sincerely,
Irene McCardle
