MR. FARMOUTHARSON, at the close of his address at Nine Mile Creek, said: "Gentlemen, I am coming in at the head of the poll; come to town the day after the election and we'll have a good time." This was rather a broad reminder of the "free booze" a number of the supporters of Mr. Farmoutharson had in a certain back store, on the day after the last election.

ADVISES have been forwarded to Mr. Harvie and others respecting the rates from Quebec to Vancouver by C. P. R. They are:—Unlimited, $115; first-class, limited, $95; second-class, $90.50. The figures indicate some advantages over the Northern Pacific route, and suggest the better policy of using and becoming acquainted with the grand scenery opened up by the C. P. R.

The general verdict of the smokers of the Myrtle Navy is that it is the finest tobacco they have ever used. There can be no mistake upon this point for it is proved by this tangible evidence. The large demand for this tobacco shows it to be true, and the character of the demand gives further proof. It has never been of the spasmodic kind, up one month, and down the next. It has been a sustained and constantly increasing demand. The unsurpassed quality of the tobacco accounts for this.

We learn that Cadet Douglass, of the Gospel Army, is suing Messrs. Parker & Bailey, proprietors of a saw mill at Milo, Me., for injuries sustained by him while in their employ. The facts of the case are about as follows: On the night of Sunday, the 24th of January last, Mr. Douglass, who by the way was not a sawyer, but employed in another portion of the mill, was told to go to work at the circular saw in the place of a man who was absent. He at first declined, but on being told to take his choice between going to work and going home, he decided that it were better for him to go to work. He went therefore, to the saw, which was, he says, not protected as it should be. After being at work for some time he was accidentally struck with a log, his right hand came in contact with the saw, which entered between the thumb and forefinger, cutting the arm clear up to the elbow. The wound was attended to as soon as possible, and next day the saw was protected. The case is to come up for trial in the Supreme Court at Machias, Me., next October. Messrs. Rownes and McNeill are the Attorneys for the prosecution, and $10,000 the amount of damages claimed.

MANY prominent citizens are taking exception to the Sunday parades of the Salvation Army. On Saturday evening an officer of the law waited upon Captain Cook and, after informing her of this fact, requested that in future the Sunday parade be discontinued. The Captain said the Army had as much right to play their drums and parade the streets on Sunday as the churches had to ring their bells; consequently, she could not their bells; consequently, she could not accede to the request; after a report was made. Yesterday the Army was to be arrested, and large numbers gathered in the neighborhood of the police station to "see the fun." About half-past two, beating of drums and the clashing of cymbals was heard in the direction of the Barracks. The excitement became more intense, and the crowd near the police station was soon largely augmented. Nearest and nearer came the members of the Station door. Several policemen were in the Station door, and the eyes of the multitude, as the Army approached, were upon them. At length the Army arrived opposite the Station, and just when it was expected that the "grand raid" would take place, the Salvationists, looking quizzically at the policemen, started up "Well fight!—we'll fight!" &c., as loudly as possible, accompanied by the playing of drums and marching past—unharmful; the disappointed crowd followed the Army to the Square where the open air service was held, which on this particular occasion was even more demonstrative than usual. The day's proceedings were brought to a close with a grand "free and easy" in the barracks.

Politics at Millview and Avondale.

As the decisive hour of election draws near, the people of the Belfast District are becoming more and more in earnest in the contest.

The meeting at Millview on Friday advertised for two o'clock, did not come off until four, owing to the unwillingness of the Government candidates to proceed in the absence of their opponents. Much sympathy was felt on account of the absence of George Forbes, Esq., who was too unwell to attend. Shortly before four o'clock D. C. Martin, Esq., and L. H. Davies, Esq., put in an appearance.

The meeting was called to order by Dr. Beers, Cherry Valley, being appointed Chairman. He briefly explained that the object of the meeting was to discuss the local political questions of the day, and to help the electors in coming to a decision which party to support at the election next Wednesday.

Alex. Martin, Esq., addressed the meeting in one of the ablest speeches of the campaign. He exposed in the plainest manner the inconsistent statements of the opponents of the Government, even when accusing that Government. Notwithstanding the fact that he felt wearied with the work of the campaign, having taken part within a short time in fifteen public meetings, he entered very fully into an examination of the conduct of the Government, and advocated the policy they had pursued. Financial statements were by no means shunned, and the use of the moneys which the Government had received was satisfactorily explained. The general policy of the Government was entered upon and discussed, and Mr. Martin expressed his determination to still advocate the interests of the electors and support the present Government, should they again honor him with their confidence.

D. C. Martin, Esq., emphatically denied having anything to do, on behalf of himself and the party he belonged to, with certain documents which were being distributed round the country, calculated to put creed against creed. His statements on former occasions—already published—were again repeated as to the merits of the Opposition and the demerits of the Government.

Wm. McLean, Esq., briefly explained that he was not an orator, but thanked the electors sincerely for the nomination which he had received, and assured them that should they honor him by electing him as one of their representatives, that he would work for them, although he couldn't talk much.

L. H. Davies, Esq., came to the front, and in a lengthy speech proceeded to defend his government and himself. The letter "I" was largely used, and bursts of indignation filled the gaps. Mr. Davies is fairly eloquent, somewhat energetic, and speaks pretty freely. In calm and earnest language he informed the assembled electors of all the beneficent acts of his government, of what good they had done with the people's money, and book in hand dealt in figures. The only time that the audience seemed anyway tickled during his remarks was when he very seriously informed them that "a lie which is repeated very often, sometimes gets to be believed."

The audience were sensible of the fact. Before concluding, the eloquent speaker, went into the field of Dominion politics, and wanted this Province to follow in the wake of other Provinces, all against the Dominion Government. He complained bitterly about Dr. Jenkins being sent to Ottawa to tell our story, while he told another, and assured the audience that he received credit abroad for his own conduct in Parliament, although he was denied that credit at home. He defied any one to show that his government had shown one dollar of extravagance, yes, one dollar, and told the people that the Sullivan Government had received $290,000, which they said they could do without. In defiant tones, he wanted to know where all that money was or what the Government had done with it.

Alex. Martin, Esq., demolished the "not one dollar extravagance idea" in the handsomest manner possible, "and as to the moneys the Government had received from Ottawa, even for argument's sake, admitting the truth of Mr. Davies' calculations, he clearly showed that the Government on the two items of education and the asylum alone, had spent a larger amount over and above anything the Davies Government had spent, than the whole amount which Mr. Davies wanted to know about. Mr. Martin followed Mr. Davies on every point, at one time the argument became "hot and heavy," but the Government candidate held his ground, and the people evidently thought that their candidate was able to take care of both himself and his talented opponent for they gave Mr. Martin a ringing cheer, the only genuine applause at the meeting. Certainly Mr. Martin gave the Dominion member a severe castigation and denounced his proceedings on the Reciprocity Treaty in no gentle terms, and it was patent to every one that Mr. Davies felt his position.

Edwards Grant, Esq., put a few pointed questions in a quiet and gentlemanly way to L. H. Davies, Esq., in reference to the alleged non-extravagance and extravagance of the Davies and Sullivan Governments respectively. Mr. Davies run to side issues, but Mr. Grant insisted upon the point, and showed very clearly that the Davies Government was "chased out" for their extravagance and wantlessness, and on failing to get a satisfactory answer from Mr. Davies, let him stand, as "dodging the question."

After a hearty vote of thanks to the chairman, cheers for the Queen and the Liberal Conservative party, the meeting at Millview terminated. It was followed as soon as possible by another meeting at Avondale, when the same questions were again discussed. It was evident at the meetings that the intelligence and respectability of the people were well represented. After the Millview meeting, the larger portion of the electors remained in earnest talk and discussion for some time. What brought Davies here? was enquired. "Oh he feels his own seat shaky," was the reply. From another came the words, "He says he gets no credit at home for what he does at Ottawa, and I suppose it is because we know him better here, than they do abroad." An old gentleman chimed in, "Well I did intend to give the Grits a vote, but after the proper setting down our Sandy gave Loo Davies, although he isn't as good a talker, I'll stick to the Government." Still another, "if Davies knew what suited him best, he would stay at home, nobody wants him to come out, when he wants to be elected himself, and he will find that hard enough next time." "It's a d—d lie, Louis Henry Davies is the best man in the country," shouted an intelligent, respectable and infuriated Grit. Then the boys said "Let us go," and they went.

The Gospel Army.

The meetings at the Gospel Army Hall continue to increase in interest and last night the Hall was packed. It had been announced that Rev. Mr. Whitman would read the testimonial that Staff Capt. Herbert had brought with her. This he did, and at the same time expressed his entire confidence in her, and his disapproval of the means used to traduce her character. The rev. gentleman said that even supposing all that had been said about Miss Herbert's past were true (which he had no authority to say was), yet was there any Christianity shown on the part of those who would try to drag her down again to the mire, and prevent her usefulness as a Christian. He had not heard the letter read, but he had been told what it contained, and he considered it a most dastardly act and altogether unchristianlike, and he felt sure the citizens in Charlottetown would not allow themselves to be prejudiced but would agree with him. He had not taken part in the meetings before Capt. Herbert's first arrival in Charlottetown, but when she explained the method adopted by the G. A. and their motives every particle of prejudice had vanished and he could say from his heart, "God bless these workers." He had felt even during the short time since his entrance to the Hall the divine and refining influence, and he hoped they would be rewarded for their labours. Rev. Mr. Whitman spoke at length. Rev. Mr. McLeod read the lesson. Capt. Herbert gave the closing address—and at the invitation five converts went into the enquiry room; making for the week 48. The testimonials were of the highest order, all speaking in terms of sympathy and confidence, and were from the clergy and prominent ladies and gentlemen of Calais, where Miss Herbert has been laboring for some months. Since her arrival in P. E. I. this time Miss Herbert has received numerous visits, and expressions of sympathy, and enjoyed the confidence of the large body of Christians. She leaves for Georgetown on Wednesday, where she will hold meetings at the special invitation of W. Sanderson—but will return on Saturday and take the meetings until Monday night. On Wednesday morning she returns to Calais.

Rifle Match.

The "Charlottetown Rifle Club" held their first competition on Saturday, the 26th inst., at Kensington Rifle Range, which proved to be quite an enjoyable meeting. A large number of members were present who took part in the match. Towards the close the contest became very exciting, as Capt. Weeks had only to hit the target with his last shot to come in ahead of the highest score, which he did in splendid style, by making a bull's-eye, giving him a total of 34 pts., at the 400 yds., which added to his previous score of 29 pts., at the 200 yds., made him the winner of the silver spoon, with a grand total of 64 pts. This is very creditable on the part of Capt. Weeks, as he is only a young shot and had to compete with some of the older riflemen of this city. Mr. Mqrhart having made the lowest score captured the horn spoon, which is a challenge trophy, to be held by the winner until the next competition. The Club propose to have their next match on Saturday, the 3rd July.
