Winter Meeting of the Western Agricultural Convention.

The winter meeting of the Western Agricultural Convention was held in the hall at Middleton, Dugald Wright, Esq., the president, occupied the chair.

Among the large number of prominent farmers present, we noticed Hon. Alex.
Laird, Stewart Burns, W. McNeill Simpson, Alex. Smallwood, H. Trueman, J.
Carruthers, T. Lefurgey, R. H. McDonald, Colin T. Wright, W. G. Schurman, D.
Rogers, C. Craig, Major Craig, Stephen Black, Alpheus Wright, Albert Craig, Walter Simpson, Russel Lockerby, and William Rogers.

After the transaction of routine business, the Hon. Alex. Laird being called upon, came forward with a paper on "The Cultivation of Wheat," in which he gave his experience in the cultivation of that cereal.
He advocated early sowing on land on which roots had grown the previous year; gave his experience with different kinds of manure; strongly advocated procuring the best of seed and changing it every two years; thought if farmers did so they would have little trouble from smut; gave as his opinion that rust was caused by heat and moisture in calm weather. Mr. Laird received a hearty vote of thanks for his paper. A very lively discussion followed the reading of this paper, the following gentlemen taking part—W. McN. Simpson, H. A. Stewart, Arthur Simpson, Stewart
Burns, Colin T. Wright, H. Trueman, J.
Carruthers, Stephen Black, D. Rogers, and Walter Simpson. The speakers, in the main, agreed with the paper read, and in the discussion brought out some important facts with regard to the wheat crop of last year. D. Rogers, Esq., the only miller present, discussed the milling qualities of last year's crop, and argued that it did not make nearly so good flour as the crop of the previous year. The rust question, and also the different insect enemies of wheat were pretty fully discussed, but on this last point not much valuable information was elicited.

R. H. McDonald, Esq., then came forward with his paper on "Production and Distribution." We shall not attempt to give a synopsis of this excellent paper, as it will likely be published. Suffice to say it was well received, and called forth a hearty vote of thanks from the convention.
A lively discussion followed, participated in by the following gentlemen: Thos. Lefurgey, M. McN. Simpson, Hon. A. Laird, Arthur Simpson.

A committee was then appointed to prepare a programme for the evening meeting.
The President invited the farmers present to join the Convention, to which invitation quite a number responded.

On motion of Walter Simpson, seconded by _____, the Convention resolved to invite C. C. Gardiner, Esq., of Charlottetown, to read a paper at the January meeting next year.

The Convention then adjourned to reconvene again at 7 o'clock in the evening, when the commodious Hall was packed to its utmost capacity. Miss Lydia Auld presided at the organ, and the Messrs. Lewis discoursed sweet soul-stirring music from the violin, banjo and accordion.
I failed to procure a programme, and therefore cannot give the titles of the excellent recitations and songs which were so admirably rendered. I also failed to get the names of the actors in that part of the entertainment.

The following gentlemen delivered short addresses: W. McN. Simpson, Thos. Le-furgey, A. Laird and Arthur Simpson.

Walter Simpson read a short paper, entitled "Life on the Farm." A vote of thanks was tendered to the Hall Company for the free use of the Hall, which, by the way, is one of the finest we have seen in the country; and also to the people of Middleton for the kind and hearty manner in which they received and entertained the members of the Convention.

So closed one of the most interesting and profitable agricultural meetings it has ever been our lot to attend.

More Poisoning.

A Topeka, Kan., despatch says; Dr. T.
S. Olney, corner of Elk County, Mrs.
George Buckingham, her father, G. N.
Walter, and one Dixon has been arrested at Howard, Elk County, Dixon, on a charge of murder, the others as accessories. Last Saturday Dixon showed symptoms of poisoning. Fearing he was going to die he confessed that he murdered George Buckingham last June by administering a dose of poison prepared by Dr. Olney, $50 being paid to Olney for the prescription.
Dixon was promised $1,000 for committing the deed, and in trying to collect it was invited by Olney to take a drink, in which poison was administered. Strong antidotes saved his life, and his confession caused the arrest of the parties above named. Dixon had often visited Buckingham's house, and alleged intimacy existed between him and Mrs. Buckingham. The latter had sued for divorce, urged by Dixon. Buckingham died in June, and although foul play was suspected at the time, the affair blew over.

Personal.

contains an excellent likeness of Mr. L. H.
Davies, M. P.

William H. Pope, teller of the Louisville City National Bank, who is missing with, it is said, over $40,000 of the bank's funds, is thought to be in Canada.

The Congregation Nuns in Montreal have just lost one of their most eminent members, Rev. Mother St. Victor, who died at the age of 82 years. The deceased lady, who had been a nun since 1846, occupied at different periods all the leading and most responsible positions her order, and was Superioress-General for twelve consecutive years. She was a niece of the famous patriot Dr. Cherrier. An interesting feature in her life is the fact that her own mother, on becoming a widow, also joined the Congregation Nuns, and became one of her daughter's subordinates.

News Notes.

Turkey refuses to accept the Belgian scheme for the suppression of the slave trade.

The Pittsburg Seal and Fur Co., has failed, owing to the mild winter. Liabilities $40,000.

A terrific snowstorm raged in Austria and Hungary on Wednesday last. Railway communication in every direction was suspended.

Leagues have been formed in Rio Janeiro and at Bahia, Para, Santos, and Pernambuco, Brazil, to boycott British in favor of American goods.

One of the largest railway yards on the continent will soon be laid out on the outskirts of Montreal. It will be the Canadian Pacific general shunting ground, and will be located between Mile End and Outrem-ont. The direct Ottawa line and the Toronto and South-eastern roads formed a junction at Mile End, and were afterwards united by a cross road farther west, thus enclosing a V-shaped track. In the southwestern angle of this enclosure the Canadian Pacific own about sixty acres of land, a portion of which they acquired some time ago, and thirty-five acres of which they have just purchased from the brothers of the deaf and dumb institute, paying for the same $500 per acre. This will be fully tracked, and if not large enough more land will be secured, so that the yard will contain sixty miles of sidings. The numerous lines centre upon the point where the new yard will be situated, and trains can be received here from all directions, rearranged and sent on to their destination without coming into the city. A large shunting yard like this will employ eight hundred men, and as most of these men will have families, the railway population alone will make a town of about five thousand inhabitants. In addition to the railway men it is expected that many will be employed in the stock yards, meat packing establishments and factories which will be started in the vicinity, so that there will soon be a large city behind the mountain.

Advice For Young Writers.

The trouble with some of our young authors is that when once started, they are over-anxious and over-ambitious to acquire more than is for their good. If their reputation is local, they wish to make it national; if national, they long for international fame. All this is pardonable in any young writer, provided he is not made too quickly. Literary success is like wealth, harder to keep than to make it. Because the critics pronounce some early work by you as indicative of reserved strength don't spoil everything and misconstrue their remark by writing your next piece the same day and rushing it into print. The critic has used his words in encouragement of you and whetting the public appetite. Let the public wait a little while for your next; it will do no harm, and may do you good.
Breathing spells between books are generally very beneficial. When once you get to be a rising author, don't get the idea that your further success is dependent upon the haste you make. Generally, the contrary is the case. Scores of young writers have spoiled their chances in precisely the same way. Remember the crude but wise philosophy of Josh Billings: "If you want to get there quick, go slow." Never get the foolish notion that the public is just pining for something else from your pen. It is not. It has never yet sat up nights for any author's work, and never will. Once you get the ear of the reading public, then the greatest caution is necessary. And the best beginning is by not writing too much, and the wisest ending is by printing only the very best. And between these two, seal a moral obligation to the publisher or editor who gave you your first start.—EDWARD W. BOK, in March Ladies' Home Journal.

A Man's Idea of Home Comfort.

A man wants some one place in home that he can call his very own, some portion of the house where his will is law, where no conflict of authority can arise. This is not altogether for the purpose of securing solitude, for his family is usually most welcome there, but the need for it springs from the desire for that sense of proprietorship which is his habit abroad, and from the wish to be able to do precisely as he pleases in at least a corner of his own house. Here should be the comforts that the man devices for himself, the lounging chairs, the desk and library, his smoking materials with license to use them. Here he should be able to feel absolutely at his ease, troubled by no fear of "mousing things," no need to thread his way anxiously through a maze of furniture and various decorative obstructions, trembling lest something should be overturned and broken, and there should be the seat of that admired disorder to which he only has the clue. His books and papers should be left as he leaves them, though to the orderly female eye they may seem to be in hopeless confusion. His desk may be littered with piles of books, magazines, letters, manuscripts, everything that can possibly find a place there, but if a woman wishes to secure to a man one of his most cherished home comforts, she will let that one alone.—Ladies' Home Journal.

For Rickets, Marasmus, and all Wasting disorders of Children

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is unequalled. The rapidity with which children gain flesh and strength upon it is very wonderful. "I have used Scott's Emulsion in cases of Rickets and Marasmus of long standing." In every case the improvement was marked.—J. M. Main,
