

IN MEMORIAM

There passed away in the King's County Hospital, Montague, on July 8, Mr. John J. Cassidy of Brooklyn, P. E. I. The late Mr. Cassidy was born in St. Sylvester, Quebec, on December 2, 1871, but for many years he lived in Brooklyn, P. E. I. Because of his lovely Christian character, his interest in and support of every good cause, and his good will and friendship to everyone—young and old—he was highly esteemed by all who knew him.

Of a strong body and contented mind, he enjoyed good health almost to the end. Being intelligent and well read and a student of the Bible, his friends profited greatly in their fellowship with him. Even near the end he assured those who visited him of his awareness of the divine presence.

The funeral service was held in the Kilmuir United Church on July 11, conducted by Rev. A. C. Fraser assisted by Rev. George Barrett of Glen Maragaret, N. S. The favorite hymns "The Lord's My Shepherd," "Shall We Gather At The River," were sung. The Brooklyn trio rendered most beautifully "Beyond The Sunset". The burial was in the Valleyfield cemetery.

Mr. Cassidy is survived by one brother, Dominick of Montreal, and three nieces in the U. S. A. His wife's niece, Miss Eleanor Smith flew home from California to be present at the funeral. His wife's nephew, Mr. Archie MacDonald lived with Mr. Cassidy. His wife, Sarah MacDonald Cassidy predeceased him nine years ago, also the brothers Lewis, Lawrence, Parker, William, and Edward and a sister, Mrs. Mary Hayes.

The floral tributes were: Marguerite and Arnold Amiraux, Roslindale, Mass., Wreath; Mary and Elvin Chessness, California, Wreath; Eleanor Smith, California, Wreath.

FREETOWN W.M.S.

The July meeting of the W. M. S., was held at the home of Mrs. Wallace Reeves, with the president, Mrs. Scott Cairns in the chair. Sixteen members were present and one visitor was welcomed.

Meeting opened with the Hymn, "For The Beauty of The Earth" followed by prayer. Several Bible passages were read by different members.

The theme of the meeting was, "Your Family and The World," a special program on missionary education in the home. Many took part in the different readings and discussions.

Mrs. Wallace Reeves read an interesting chapter from the Study Book, "Where'er The Sun" and Mrs. Eldon Drummond brought a timely message on Temperance, while Mrs. Louis Cairns gave the highlights of the recent Missionary Rally held in North Bedouque. In the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. McNeill received the offering, including ice cream special.

Meeting closed with a hymn, and The Lord's Prayer.

Lunch was served by the hostess, and committee in charge.

other woman's children and trying to mother them. No matter how hard she works, how tactfully she handles her difficult role, the children, especially if they are teen-agers, show more resentment than appreciation. Young girls who certainly wouldn't relish the job of doing the family laundry themselves, refuse to show the least gratitude toward the person who does it from them. The situation is bad enough when children show ingratitude, but when the husband actually sets the pace in exhibiting lack of respect or affection, the situation becomes intolerable.

Your husband acquired a first-class bargain when he married you, Mrs. G. Not only did he get a fine homemaker who could cook, sew, do decorating and laundering—all for free, but he also added a wage-earner to the family. Yet he and his children treat you as a hired housekeeper. If you were working in a home on salary, you'd have much less work, good pay AND your efforts would be appreciated! It's certainly true in some instances that the things some people get free are too easily taken for granted.

There is nothing more you can possibly do to win the affection of your family; you've already given everything. Perhaps retrenchment would be the answer. Begin to do less for them. Let the girls take care of their own clothes, cut down on the outside work, and announce that there will be no more big Sunday dinners, since you would like to go out with the family. Have a dollars-and-cents talk with your husband. Point out how much it would cost for someone else to do your work, and how much you could earn by doing it for somebody else. You have allowed yourself to be taken completely for granted; tell the children that you actually expect something—consideration, help, affection or respect from them. A little shaking up may awaken them.

DEAR MISS DIX: A widower with grown children and grandchildren, I married a woman close to my age, but she had not been married before. I have my own business and am quite well off. My wife has money of her own, and helps me now with the business. I have always been generous with my family, buying gifts and giving money where it was needed. I could well afford it, and my wife has been deprived of nothing, even though I continued the custom after we were married. Now she says she will divorce me if I don't stop giving things to my children.

ANSWER: Your wife seems to be more fond of your money and property than she is of you. Better be wary, or she'll acquire your assets, then take steps to "jose" you. You're in the driver's seat now; stay there.

Britain Expects Record Number Of Visitors

LONDON (AP) — Britain confidently expects 850,000 visitors from overseas this year, bringing at least £130,000,000 in dollars, sterling, francs, lire and other currencies.

That's $1,000 visitors more than in the Coronation boom year of 1953.

But the British Travel and Holidays Association believes "many more money - spending tourists could be lured to these shores."

Its annual report, published today, regards a target of 1,000,000 visitors a year as "a practical possibility."

Officials give two main reasons for the spurt in the tourist trade. First, they say, travel to Britain has a cumulative effect, for as visitors go home and talk, so more of their friends want to make the trip too. Second, tourist rate air fares have made travel quick and less expensive.

While the British are particulary seen on getting Americans and Canadians to come over with their dollars, they are equally happy to see Europeans.

The reason is simple: Trading deficits with European countries must be settled in dollars or gold. So all European currencies that tourists bring in lessen Britain's need to shell out hard-to-get dollars or gold.

Britons travel abroad too, but they don't spend so much (mainly because of governmental controls) as the overseas visitors bring to Britain.

Travel association figures show that Britain comes out on the right side with an over-all credit balance of £30,000,000.

Big effort now under way is to persuade overseas visitors to come in "off-peak" seasons, in the spring and fall especially. No one seriously recommends visitors to come in the winter.

SHOT ON STREET

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—Fifty-year-old Lawrence Carroll of nearby Westphal was standing on a street corner this morning when a bullet ploughed through his side and out again. He was treated by doctors who said he was not seriously injured. RCMP were investigating.
