Mendes-France Seeks To Form French Gov't

By HAROLD KING

PARIS — (Reuters) — Pierre Mendes-France, 47-year-old left-wing radical party leader, has accepted a bid from President Rene Coty to try to form a new coalition government and end the French political crisis.

He will probably go before the national assembly Wednesday or Thursday for an investiture vote. If he succeeds in forming a government, it is expected to be one willing to pay a greater price for peace in Indo-China than the outgoing cabinet of Joseph Laniel.

Laniel resigned Saturday after the assembly defeated his government on a vote of confidence involving Indo-China policies.

SOCIALISTS HOLD KEY

Chances of Mendes-France succeeding in becoming premier lie chiefly with the Socialists. When he tried to form a government a year ago, he got the Socialists behind him and fell short of the needed majority by only 13 votes.

This time he is likely to pick up more Gaullist and independent votes than last June since there is a growing anxiety in these groups for ending the war against the Communist Vietminh rebels in Indo-China.

If the 200 Socialists choose to swing solidly behind Mendes-France, his chances of becoming premier will be good.

MEETS BIDAULT

Mendes-France Monday conferred with Foreign Minister Georges Bidault on the status of the Geneva negotiations, and today he will huddle with other foreign officials on the subject.

After talking to Bidault, the veteran French financial expert said he would try to respond to "the wish of all Frenchmen for an honorable and reasonable peace in Indo-China."

Queen Elizabeth

knighted April 24, 1953 but the investiture and installation were not held until Monday. The honor was the highest Churchill could accept without being raised to the peerage and thus disqualifying himself from sitting in the House of Commons.

ANCIENT ADMONITION

As the garter was strapped about Churchill's knee, the blue riband placed over his left shoulder and the star of the order affixed, the Bishop of Winchester, prelate of the order, read the ancient admonition:

"Tie about thy leg for thy renown this most noble garter . . . never to be forgotten or laid aside, that hereby thou mayest be admonished to be courageous and, having undertaken a just war into which thou shalt be engaged, thou mayest stand firm, valiantly fight, courageously and successfully conquer."

Members of the order who witnessed the installation, first by the Queen, included the Queen Mother, Princess Margaret and the Duke of Edinburgh. Lord Salisbury and Field Marshall Alexander, who assisted in the ceremony, are also members.

ORIGIN OBSCURE

Origins of the order with its motto—"honi soit qui mal y pense" (shame on him who evil thinks)—are fogged by time. One account published in 1534 tells how a group of rowdy lords ripped to pieces a garter dropped by Queen Philippa or one of the court ladies. Edward was said to have been angered by this display and, so the story goes, made the garter a symbol of chivalry.

Another story is that the garter was Edward's battle signal in the war with France. Experts claim the order's heavy buckled garter is of a military type not worn by women.

Banners and shields of living knights of the order hang in St. George's Chapel beside those of some 700 former knights.

Following the investiture in the throne room, the Queen and members of the order paraded past a crowd of about 6,000 persons to the chapel where Churchill was escorted to his stall beneath the shield which bears his Spanish motto, "faithful though unfortunate."

police asked to take effective action to ameliorate it.

Councillor George Rogers, chairman of the Fire Committee, brought up the matter of a request for aid from Murray River during a recent fire there. He felt that in sending equipment to rural areas the department was endangering the safety of the city and he was opposed to doing this as if fire broke out here the people who paid for the machinery were unprotected. He said the department was frequently asked but they must say "no" as their responsibility is to the city.

Mayor Stewart stated the time had come when the Provincial Government should buy a pumper and station it in the city for such calls. He stated the city would be glad to house it and if necessary even man it. He thought there were too many calls on the city and it was unfair to citizens who had paid plenty for the machinery in use.

The Mayor also noted the retirement from the City School Board of Mrs. Dorothy Lantz after nine years of service doing valuable work. He wished to pay a personal tribute for her efforts on behalf of better eduaction for the children. Nominated to succeed her was Mrs. George Whiteside.

Laborers' Wages

Councillor Arthur Gormley proposed that the wage to unskilled laborers employed by the City be increased five cents per hour to 75 cents. There was considerable opposition with Councillor MacDonald saying that with the number of employees the increase would cost the city approximately $10,000 per year. Councillor McCormac was also against the motion which was defeated with only Councillors Gormley and Hutcheson supporting it.

The proposed new business tax was given first reading and will receive second reading at the next regular meeting of the Council.

Councillor Gormley also felt that if relief is found for Fitzroy street residents from the powder nuisance something should be done for residents of Water street to ease the smoke nuisance from the waterfront plants. Mayor Stewart and some Councillors felt that smoke was general all over the city and that from some buildings carried far afield.

Parking Problem

The problem of car parking on the north side of Fitzroy Street was again brought up and instructions issued to the Police Committee to have it stopped immediately.

In his report Dr. MacDonald noted that there had been a mild epidemic of whooping cough and he had one case of polio reported from the Parkdale area. He spoke of conditions existing from unsatisfactory septic tanks in the Brighton Beach area and on Memorial Field. He felt they were frequently placed in low lying ground. The Health Officer also felt that outhouses should not be permitted to exist as the law stated that where access might be had to city sewerage it must be provided.

Mayor Stewart promised prompt action so far as conditions at Memorial Field are concerned.

The Mayor, City Clerk James A. Fullerton and members of the Council will attend in a body the funeral of His Excellency the late Bishop James Boyle this morning.

Premier Meets S'side Mayor, Town Council

—Premier A. W. Matheson met with Mayor Henry W. Wedge and members of the Summerside Town Council last evening in Summerside, and among other matters discussed was a proposed agreement between the Town of Summerside and the Provincial Government in regard to the existing rural electric lines supplied by the municipally owned Summerside Electric Light Department, together with possible extensions in areas approved by the Public Utilities Board.

Following this meeting Mayor Wedge said that a copy of the proposed agreement was left with the council for study and consideration.—S

Inspecting Tourist Accommodation

Officials of the Sanitary Engineering branch of the Department of Health and Welfare yesterday began an inspection of all restaurants and inkeepers' estiblishments, particularly tourist cabins, offering accomodation within the Province.

The inspection is in accordance with The Inkeepers Act which has been on the statute books of this Province since 1946 but due to inadequate staff was found to be difficult to enforce. The Sanitary Engineering Branch now has a sanitary engineer and three inspectors who will call on all places offering tourist accomodation and catering for meals.

Dr. O.H. Curtis, Deputy minister of Health and Welfare, points out that the tourist industry on the Island has suffered as a result of inadequate accomodation offered in some isolated cases. He added that the inspection was not for the purpose of grading tourist accomodations but rather to educate those who are below a standard of sanitation and equipment.

If a tourist establishment has been approved by the inspectors the proprietor will be granted a license to operate same. If however it does not come up to certain regulations in regard to health and accomodation the issuance of the license can be delayed until the owner makes the necessary changes.

While the inspection started yesterday is an initial inspection, Dr. Curtis points out that there will be recurring inspections throughout the summer.

Members of the Prince Edward Island Inkeepers Association when contacted regarding the inspection generally felt that the Department's move was a step in the right direction.

Mr. Wendell Mutch, past president of the organization, highly commended such action. He called attention to the fact that a tourist who was once poorly accomodated could give the business as a whole a great deal of unfavorable publicity. He believed that the tourist proprietor should be given a sign to show that his establishment is "Government Sanitation Approved," such as has been the custom in the past. He felt that there are many tourist cabins which could not measure up to that standard and if certain qualifications were demanded, it would give the owner something to work for.

Mr. Wallace Rodd was of the opinion that the inspection was a good move to raise the standard of accomodation and sanitation before an innkeeper could display his "Government Sanitation Approved" sign. Mr. Rodd felt that the sign should be left with the proprietors who have earned the right to display them. "Then" said he, "the tourist could put his dependence upon the sign without inspecting the accomodations first."

While agreeing that the inspection would eliminate an undesirable element in the business, he added that it did not give sufficient recognition to establishments of superior standing.

S'side Town Council Budgets For $13,659 Surplus; No Tax Increases

—Without making any tax increases the Summerside Town Council budgeted for an estimated surplus of $13,659.90 for 1954 at a special meeting of the council last evening.

Poll tax on male residents remains the same at $6.00; real estate and personal property is unchanged at $22.00 per thousand, and labor licenses will be continued at $8.00. Annual licence fees paid by incorporated companies will also be the same as last year.

In the statement of estimates submitted by Councillor Wm. Jenkins, chairman of the finance committee, revenue is estimated at $342,659.40 while the expected expenditure is estimated at $328,999.50.

This special budget meeting which preceded the regular monthly meeting was presided over by Mayor Henry W. Wedge, and all councillors were present.

During the meeting the appointment of three officials of the Summerside Fire Department was confirmed by the council. They are Abdon Arsenault, fire chief; Fred MacLeod, assistant chief; and George Hogg, secretary.

Salaries of employees in all of the town departments were approved, and the meeting passed a resolution in the interest of better execution of services in all departments of town affairs, whereby telephone service will be provided for a list of 19 employees from the various departments.

All councillors took part in a lively discussion a proposed change in the labor license fee. Councillor MacDougall introduced a motion which would have set the fee at $8 per license prior to October 1st, or $5 from that date until December 31st.

Although supported by Councillor Clark the motion was defeated, with Councillors Lidstone, Perry Jenkins and Steele voting to have it retained at $8 regardless of what period of the year it was purchased.

In his address during the presentation of estimates for 1954 Councillor Jenkins, chairman of the finance committee said that each year it is found that there are capital expenditures that must be made if Summerside is to keep abreast with other municipalities, and that this year is no exception. He said that many of the streets are badly in need of re-building or repairs, and that it would appear that provision should be made each year to make certain expenditures on streets and sidewalks in order to preserve present pavements.

New building is still progressing and this year further capital expenditures are foreseen by way of new extensions of water and sewerage, he said.

With respect to the electric light plant, Councillor Jenkins said that requests are on hand for further extensions of rural lines, and the council hoped to be in a position to go along with the Public Utilities Commission and the Provincial Government to provide electricity for these districts as directed by the Public Utilities Commission.

"Another matter that this council is faced with," he said, "is the request from the school board for additional class rooms in the high school academy. What this cost will entail we will not know until estimates and specifications are prepared. We have worked on the assumption that the addition to the school, if made, will not to any great extent effect our budget this year, and we have prepared these estimates on the basis of the present tax rate. However, if additional class rooms are provided in this school this year, it is quite likely that an increase in the tax rate for 1955 will be the result."

Councillor Jenkins urged the chairmen of the different committees to keep a steady watch on their departments to insure that time, money and material are being spent to advantage and in the best interests to all.

Indicative of the confidence placed in Summerside town debentures by financial circles he pointed out that last month a bid of 100.02 percent was accepted on a $300,000 issue of town debentures —S.
