British Jet Explodes In Supersonic Flight Killing 27

Debris Falls On Huge Crowd At Farnborough

FARNBOROUGH, England, Sept. 7—(CP)—Britain's newest twin-jet fighter, the De Havilland 110, burst into bits during a supersonic flight Saturday over an airfield crowded with 130,000 spectators and the flaming wreckage killed 27 persons. Sixty-five others were injured.

John Derry, 30, Britain's ace test pilot, and his observer, Tony Richards, died when their twin-tailed all-weather craft fell apart after leveling off from a screaming eight-mile dive at more than 700 miles an hour.

Twenty-five persons were killed by falling debris.

Among the thousands who watched horrified was Derry's young wife who was standing by the test pilot's tent at the Farnborough Air

415 Saved When C. P. Liner Sinks Off Alaska

JUNEAU, Alaska, Sept. 7—(AP)—The Canadian Pacific liner Princess Kathleen ran aground on a rocky point north of here early today, and this afternoon slipped off its rocky berth and sank. The 300 passengers and crew of 115 all were saved.

The passengers, most of them from California, were removed from the stricken ship within a few hours after it hit a reef in the fog and rain at about 4 a.m. PDT (7 a.m. EDT).

The 6,000-ton vessel's skipper, Capt. Graham O. Hughes, and crew of 115 remained aboard, but the vessel began to list badly as the tide rose and 30-to-40-mile-an-hour winds kicked up six-foot waves.

In mid-day, the vessel's plight became more serious and the officers and crew abandoned ship. At 1:40 p.m. she slid off the rocks into deep water.

Capt. Hughes said he was asleep in his cabin and another officer was on the bridge when the ship hit, but that visibility was good.

"I don't know what could have happened," he told newspaper men.

The Princess Kathleen had left Juneau late last night on a run to Skagway.

In mid-forenoon, the vessel's stern was well down in the water as the flood tide poured into the gaping hole. After the Kathleen began to shift position's shortly after 1:30 P.M. the stern sank lower and the whole ship finally slipped sideways and under the waves. The bow went nearly straight up.

Crew members huddled on the cliff took off their hats and some of them wept. Later the crew members and Capt. Hughes were brought here.

Passengers who arrived here, 20 miles south of the wreck scene, told of the vessel's going aground. "It felt and sounded almost like an earthquake," said one of the travellers. "That seemed to be the first thing many of the awakened Californians thought of."

A tour group of 190 Californians, sponsored by the Catholic Young Men's Institute of San Francisco, made up most of the passenger list.

The ship's bow plowed into the rocks of Lena Point, and the passengers were removed at daylight, about four hours later.

There was no panic. Coffee was prepared and served to the passengers within half an hour.

Capt. Hughes ordered the ship abandoned at 11:30 A.M. after the rising tide failed to raise the ship, but instead poured water into her hull.

"I had hoped until then the ship would rise," he said.

The officers and crew rowed ashore and built a bonfire on a nearby cliff. Within a short time, a check showed one man was still aboard and crew members returned to find a young man still asleep. They took him ashore.

The passengers were dry until they started ashore. Then they got wet in a drenching south-easterly Alaska downpour.

By chance, the grounding was close to one of the few highways that cut through the wild Alaskan country.

Buses and cars brought the passengers into Juneau, where they were put up in hotels and homes.

Robert M. Gilmore of San Francisco, an assistant to the vice-president of the Southern Pacific Railway, was aboard with his wife and a daughter.

He described the rescue of the passengers as having gone "beautifully and smoothly." He called

Russia's Plane Output Speeded

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7—(AP)—Russia's plane production is so good she is able to assign to her Chinese satellites about one out of every 10 Mig-15 jet fighters coming out of busy factories.

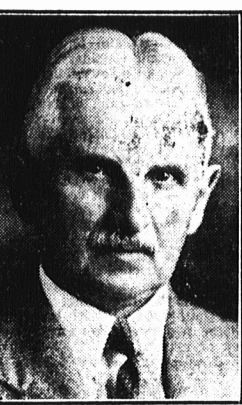

A reliable source gave a new estimate today of Soviet fighter strength: At least 9,000 Mig's in operation.

While Russia has been modernizing her interceptor force with these Mig's (not including other designs produced in less volume) she also has turned over to the Communist Air Force fighting for Red China about 1,300 Mig's.

In these figures U.S. defence and production officials find a sharp reminder of the accelerated speed with which the U.S.S.R. is proceeding in the race to make all of its planes of the modern jet-atomic age era.

For more than two years, Air Force officials say, the over-all size of the Soviet active air fleet of bombers, fighters, transports and other types—apparently has remained unchanged at about 20,000 planes.

Death Last Night Of C. H. B. Longworth

Mr. C. H. B. Longworth, (above) prominent Charlottetown citizen and influential leader in business circles until his retirement a number of years ago died suddenly at his home 181 Fitzroy Street late last night. He was a grandson of Hon. George Coles, one of the Fathers of Confederation.

A native of Charlottetown, Mr. Longworth developed into one of the City's leading business men following the completion of his studies at Prince of Wales College and McGill University. He graduated from McGill University with his Bachelor of Science Degree.

For many years he was engaged in the lobster canning and shipping industry.

Mr. Longworth was a director of the Eastern Trust Company and held the office of vice-president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

In addition to his business activities Mr. Longworth took an active interest in the affairs of church and municipality. He was a member of St. Paul's Church and former Chairman of the Charlottetown Board of School Trustees.

Mr. Longworth is survived by his wife and two daughters. The daughters are Miss Nora Longworth and Eileen. Mrs. George Buntain, both of Charlottetown.

Canadian TV Is Launched

MONTREAL, Sept. 7—(CP)—Canadian television should contribute to the "full development of an enriched family and national life in Canada," Prime Minister St. Laurent said Saturday night in a message of greetings telecast over SBPT, Canada's first television station.

The new CBC service also should offer "wide new opportunities" for Canadian talent and abilities, Mr. St. Laurent said. It should stimulate a "real appreciation" of Canadian creative resources and provide a new means of self-expression for Canada.

Mr. St. Laurent's message, offering "warm wishes" for success to the CBC, was recorded on film and telecast as part of the inauguration ceremonies for the new station.

The half-hour ceremony was part of an opening night program which included the CBC TV newsreel, a variety show, drama, a tour behind the scenes of television and a televised salute to the new station from CBLT Toronto.

Other speakers included Revenue Minister McCallum, through whom the CBC reports to the Federal Cabinet, and A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC Board of Governors.

The three-ton canvas-covered truck had just descended a two-mile-long hill and was on a straightaway when its driver swerved to avoid the Spaniel.

The truck swung off the left side of the road and onto the sandy shoulder, hit the trees and crossed back to the right side of the highway. The driver was unhurt.

One body was found near the first tree struck by the vehicle. Three others were thrown near where the truck finally stopped.

J. E. MacDonald, Tignish, Loses Life In Ontario

MEAFORD, Ont., Sept. 7—(CP)—An army truck swerved to miss a dog trotting across the highway Saturday and slammed into some trees, killing four officer cadets and injuring four others. One of the injured died in hospital last night.

The dead:

John E. MacDonald, 19, of Tignish, P.E.I.
W. G. K. Malkin, Windsor, Ont.
J. K. MacKinnon, 21, Barnston, Que.
James Willard Woodroffe, 20, of Halifax died in hospital. His mother, Mary Elsie Woodroffe lives at 76 Falkland Street, Halifax.

The name of the other victim was withheld pending notification of next-of-kin who live outside Canada.

Plane Crashes; Crew Rescued

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Sept. 7—(CP)—A United States air force transport plane crashed on the bleak Greenland coast Saturday. The Princess Kathleen had left Juneau late last night on a run to Skagway.

The twin-engine C-47 cracked up on a small island off Greenland's west coast while on a flight from Sanderson to Narsarsuaq. A Danish ship picked up the crew and landed them at the port of Grondal.

Names of the airmen were not immediately available.

No Slackening Of Activity In Political Field

OTTAWA, Sept. 7—(CP)—Indications are there will be no slackening of activity in the federal political field as a result of Prime Minister St. Laurent's statement that the next election probably will not be called until after the coronation.

"The statement simply confirmed what we have been thinking right along," said George Nowlan, President of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada.

Lorne Ingle, National Secretary of the C. C. F. said: "We don't intend to be caught unprepared and we plan to work vigorously at organization."

Solomon Low, Social Credit Leader, said his party will work to line up enough candidates to be able to form the next government.

During his current tour of western Canada, Mr. St. Laurent said during an interview that there won't be any election before the

Two Boys Missing In Storm

HALIFAX, Sept. 7—(CP)—The fringe of an Atlantic hurricane lashed Canada's eastern seaboard today, sending small craft scurrying for shelter.

Two boys were reported missing on storm-tossed Reception Bay in Eastern Newfoundland. A search by the ferry ship Maneco and an R. C. M. P. patrol craft was launched for Peter Stoyles and Wallace Fowler, who went ashore after leaving Bell Island in a small boat.

Searchers said the boys may have landed on an unoccupied island in the bay.

The dragger Theresa M. Boudreau was towed to Yarmouth by a coast guardship after a distress signal eight miles south of Cape Sable.

Fishermen Strike For Higher Prices

VANCOUVER, Sept. 7—(CP)—British Columbia salmon fishermen kept their seiners and gillnetters in port today in a strike for higher prices for chum salmon.

Homer Stevens, secretary of the Allied Workers' Union (T. L. C.) said more than 90 per cent of the fishermen voted in favor of a tie-up.

Predicts China Will Emerge From Communist Domination

That China will eventually throw off the Communist yoke was the opinion of Mr. Hugh A. MacKenzie, Liberal Progressive Member of Parliament for Lambton-Kent, Ontario, Mr. MacKenzie spent three years in China as the Canadian representative on the United Nations relief and rehabilitation mission.

Mr. MacKenzie, while flatly denying that he has any personal Communist leanings, admits that the Communists had something to offer a people which had lived for centuries under the feudalistic form of government. He thinks there was too great a difference between the wealth of a few and the overwhelming poverty of the many. The latter, he said, was too amply demonstrated by the number of people, particularly children, who daily died in the streets.

He was accompanied to China by his wife who admits to a love of the country and its people, while reserving her personal opinion as to the operation of government in the past.

Delighted With Province

Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie, whose home is in Watford, Ontario, have been in this Province for the past few days on a vacation. It was the first time either of them had ever been here and they were "charmed" with the place and, as they expressed it, the extreme hospitality of the people.

While living in China for three years Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie had an opportunity of studying the people and learning something of the thinking of the masses. They are of the opinion that the

Noted Actress Passes In N. Y.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—(AP)—Ava Gardner, who swept to international stardom in a real life rags-to-riches story rivaling any of her many stage roles, died Saturday.

Friends gave her age as 51. Other sources listed it variously from 50 to 54. A family spokesman said death was caused by "an acute disorder of the liver."

Miss Gardner, a trooper in the stage tradition, fought off increasing pains for days last month to continue her performances in the current Broadway musical hit, "The King and I."

"She wouldn't give in," said her husband, theatrical producer, Richard Aldrich.

Finally, he said, he kept insisting until she agreed to take a leave from her role after the Aug. 16 matinee and entered New York hospital.

There her illness was diagnosed as yellow jaundice. She died with her husband and two close friends, Fanny and David Holtzman—at her bedside.

A daughter by an earlier marriage, Pamela Gordon, an artist, was reported flying here from London for funeral services tentatively set for Tuesday.

Bar Association Elects Officers

VICTORIA, Sept. 7—(CP)—Andrea Taschereau, Q.C., of Quebec Saturday was elected president of the Canadian Bar Association at the group's final meeting of its 45th annual convention. He succeeded Gen. J. A. Clark of Vancouver.

John A. MacAuley, Q.C., Winnipeg, is vice-president; L. E. Langis Galpeault, Q.C., Quebec, honorary secretary; D. Park Jamieson, Q.C., Sarnia, Ont., honorary treasurer; and E. C. Leslie, Q.C., Regina, registrar.

Prime Minister St. Laurent is honorary life president and Justice Minister Garson honorary president.

Winnipeg Mayor Has Dander Up

WINNIPEG, Sept. 6—(CP)—The first official visit of Governor-General Massey to Winnipeg Oct. 27 has Mayor Garnet Coulter's "dander up."

Mayor Coulter yesterday showed two letters, written by Mr. Massey's secretary, to the finance committee. The first asked the city to arrange a civic reception for the Governor-General's visit; the second, dated a few days later, requested details of the reception be sent promptly to Ottawa.

Mayor Coulter told committee: "I don't like the approach. These letters have got my dander up. Ottawa telling us we've got to give a reception."

Some aldermen said they didn't like the wording of the first letter any more than the Mayor did, but there wasn't much they could do about it.

Committee asked the Mayor to arrange a "suitable reception."

Ottawa Reaction

In Ottawa, an official of the Governor-General's staff said the letters to Winnipeg "follow pretty much the pattern observed for many years."

"They are the type of letters customarily written to mayors of cities when the Governor-General is visiting there," he said. He was sorry if the letters had given offence.

St. Laurent In Prince Rupert

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Sept. 7—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent today following a folksy, friendly and frenzied sprint north from Victoria.

The Prime Minister mixed tight schedules with informal talks as he covered 550 miles in little more than a day. He travelled by automobile, boat and airplane.

Mr. St. Laurent's party barnstormed 120 miles up Vancouver Island Saturday to bring his meet-the-people message to seven communities, most of which had never before been visited by a prime minister in office.

While the phrasing varied, Mr. St. Laurent pounded on the same themes at Duncan, Chemainus, Ladysmith, Nanaimo, Parksville, Qualicum and Courtenay.

Chiefly, he spoke of the need for strong forces to deter Communist aggression—singling out the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's peace-making potentials—and made general observations on democratic government.

Mr. St. Laurent always found the time for a quick hands-on expedition through the crowds, singling out the youngsters for special attention.

Russia Building Bases Along Arctic Sea Route

LONDON, Sept. 7—(AP)—Western authorities said Saturday they believe Russia is building a chain of bases on the roof of the world along the Arctic shores linking Soviet Europe and Soviet Asia.

Development of a northern sea passage between the Barents Sea and Bering Strait has absorbed the Soviets actively since 1933.

In that year the northern sea route was brought into being, according to Prime Minister Stalin himself, to wrap the wealth of the wild and icy Siberian north into Russia's economy.

This was to be done by turning the dangerous, ice-ridden, 3,500-mile-long route into a normal, freight-carrying waterway.

The undertaking was a tremendous one, costly in money and lives.

The route at its eastern end runs close to Alaska.

Its western terminal—Murmansk—is near the tip of the

Naguib New Premier In Purge By Egyptian Army

CAIRO, Sept. 7—(CP)—Major Gen. Mohammed Naguib, army commander-in-chief who sent King Farouk into exile, today took over the premiership of Egypt after the arrest of 47 top-drawer politicians.

Premier Ali Maher, who had been in office since July 24, resigned under sharp criticism by the Army whose recent coup apparently hit Egypt with full force today.

Among those thrown into jail were two former premiers, two cousins of Farouk, and the real chief-tain of the powerful Wafdist Party.

Naguib pledged a swift and thorough purge of grafters and corrupt politicians.

His coup of July 24, which overthrew Premier Ahmed Helmy and forced the abdication of Farouk two days later, appeared to be only the curtain-raiser for far-reaching changes in Egyptian life.

The impatient Army group surrounding Naguib announced its roundup of key politicians in an early morning broadcast, coupled with the accusation that Premier Maher was dragging his feet in proceeding against corrupt elements.

In the face of such outspoken criticism, Maher tendered his resignation to the Regency Council. The Council then asked Naguib to form a new government. He accepted.

A military spokesman said Naguib would be the only Army man in the new cabinet and that his government would be temporary.

"Its aims will be limited to a swift purge of all political, economic and social life in Egypt with decisive action," the spokesman said.

He added that Naguib was loath to dissolve Egypt's political parties but would do so if they do not purge themselves of dishonest elements. He said that Naguib would resign as soon as normal parliamentary life is restored after forthcoming elections are held, no later than February.

Southern Belle Beauty Winner

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 7—(AP)—A green-eyed southern belle, Neva Jane Langley, won the Miss America beauty contest Saturday night.

The 19-year-old, dark-haired beauty was the only double winner in the preliminary rounds of the five-day beauty contest. She scored in both bathing suit and talent tests.

The new Miss America is five feet, 6-1-4 inches tall, weighs 118 pounds. She has a 35-inch bust, 23-inch waist and 35-inch hips.

A student at Wesleyan University of Middletown, Conn., she received the Miss America crown from last year's titleholder, Colleen Kay Hutchins, former Miss Utah.

Miss Langley will receive a $5,000 scholarship, $4,000 in cash, a number of gifts, including an automobile, and a chance to earn thousands of dollars in personal appearance fees.
