Attempt To Sue Nat. Chinese Diplomat Fails

OTTAWA (CP)—A Toronto lawyer's attempt to sue General Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalist government for $2,500,000 failed Monday in the Supreme Court of Canada.

Samuel Max Mehr sued the Chinese government and Liu Chieh, its ambassador to Canada, on grounds that false statements by Mr. Chieh in 1953 led to him being disbarred by the Law Society of Upper Canada. Mr. Mehr later was reinstated.

The court ruled, in upholding a judgment of the Ontario Court of Appeals, that diplomatic immunity makes it impossible to sue a foreign power in Canadian courts.

Mr. Mehr contended that Mr. Chieh had waived his diplomatic immunity when he gave evidence to the law society. However, the court said Mr. Mehr had failed to prove this contention.

"You have made no case to support the proposition you have placed before us," said Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin.

Mr. Mehr said that in June, 1953, Mr. Chieh "falsely" charged before the law society that he was guilty of professional misconduct by failing to properly account for $5,237 he had received from the ambassador.

The society found Mr. Mehr guilty and disbarred him. However, Mr. Mehr appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada and on March 7, 1955, his appeal was allowed and he was reinstated.
