Grandpa Jones With Old Opry Show Here

Grandpa Jones brings his unique singing style and clever banjo work along with a big Grand Ole Opry show in Charlottetown at Rollaway on Oct. 8.

Among his more famous tunes are such novelties as "Old Rattler," "Mountain Dew," "Eight More Miles to Louisville" (King Label), plus "Sassafras and The Closer to the Bone" on RCA Victor records.

Born in Kentucky, Grandpa Jones began his career at the age of 15, when he started playing for socials and square dances on a 75-cent guitar. Still in his teens, he won an amateur contest in Akron, Ohio, went on the air the next day and played every Akron and Cleveland station as head of his own programs. He appeared on the Lum and Abner show from WTAM in Cleveland regularly for over a year. With two years' experience behind him, Grandpa joined Bradley Kincaid and played throughout New England and parts of Canada. He then joined the Boone County Jamboree in Cincinnati and adopted his present stage name.

Joining the armed forces in 1941, he went to Germany with an MP Battalion, where, in his off-hours, he was a regular feature of the American Forces Network in Munich. Upon his discharge in 1946, Grandpa came to Nashville and was signed with WSM's famous Grand Ole Opry where he stayed for two years. He then went to Washington, D.C. joined the "Old Dominion Barn Dance" and flew to Japan and Korea to entertain the soldiers, putting on his act a scant 200 yards from the front line.

A short time later he flew to Germany, Australia and Italy to perform for the G.I.'s there.

In July, 1952, Grandpa Jones returned to Nashville and rejoined the GRAND OLE OPKY, where he is now a featured star. In his spare time, Grandpa Jones goes on hunting trips, and adds to his collection of over 50 different guns.

ous trouble had largely arisen because "it seems some of the young ones like to see an argument started."

The next witness called was Clifford Sherren, farmer of Hampton. He was in the restaurant eating that evening he said, with his nephew and the latter's girl friend sitting beside him. He stated he was on a stool near the corner when four boys entered in a noisy manner and Mr. Bernard asked them to keep quiet.

He heard the proprietor order Dawson out but he answered that he would not go out. He could not remember any swearing until after Dawson was hit. The latter did not bother the witness.

Under cross examination he said that Dawson had been talking to his nephew, Ray Sherren, and the latter's girl friend, Eulalia Ferguson. He could not recall any swearing then or until after the blow was struck. He said that Mr. Bernard had gone back behind the counter and he thought he had something in his hand when he returned. He would not swear it was a hose.

Re-questioned by Mr. John Nicholson, for the Crown, he said the object Mr. Bernard was holding was about two feet long and an inch in diameter but he did not take it outside the counter.

Mrs. Bernard, wife of the first witness, said she worked in the restaurant and was there on the night in question. She saw Dawson come in as she was waiting on some customers and he was cursing and swearing so she had to ask him to stop. She said he was making a disturbance and she asked Earl MacKay to take him out. The latter replied that it was not his place to take him out.

She stated that Mr. Bernard then came around the counter and asked him to leave. She saw Dawson "make a swipe" at her husband and the latter do the same, but she did not see a blow struck.

When cross examined by Mr. Bell she said all the stools were filled when Dawson came in. He had been drinking. Asked, "Was he drunk?" she answered, "Quite so." She stated he had not been with "the Albany crowd" at the time. She heard him swearing good and loud. She stated she did not see her husband with the hose.

Mrs. Clifford Sherren, wife of a previous witness, said she works for Mr. Bernard in the kitchen on Saturday nights. She said she saw Dawson the night of the 12th and heard him swearing. She also heard Mr. Bernard order him out. She did not know if the swearing was heard before or after Dawson was hit by Bernard. She did not see Bernard come to the kitchen and get the hose, nor did she see him with it. She knew it was there.

The defence announced that it had several witnesses to put on and Magistrate Gaudet thereupon adjourned the court until Wednesday, October 7.

Pays $36,000 For Rare Stamp

TORONTO, (CP)—An anonymous stamp collector said Wednesday night he has paid $36,000 for one of the world's rarest stamps—a Swedish three-skilling-banco printed in the wrong color.

The collector obtained the stamp, once owned by King Carol of Romania, from a dealer in Sweden.

The stamp appeared in 1855 and is yellow. Other stamps of the issue are blue-green.

Experts believe an engraved plate used in printing the three-skilling-banco issue was accidentally placed on the press used to print the yellow eight-skilling-banco stamp. In the historic misprint, the three-skilling-banco came out yellow.
