Canada's Population To Hit 18 Million Soon

By DON HANRIGHT Canadian Press Staff Writer OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's population is expected to reach 18,000,000 sometime late next year, probably in September.

The forecast was made Wednesday by the bureau of statistics after it reported that the population at July 1 stood at an estimated 17,452,000, a one-year gain of 297,000.

Should the prediction prove correct, it will have taken Canada 2 1/2 years to add 1,000,000 to its population since the 17,000,000 mark was reached in mid-April, 1958. It took only 24 months to add the previous 1,000,000 after the 16,000,000 plateau was reached in April, 1956.

The six-months difference reflects dropping immigration, down last year to 124,851 from 1957 when more wide-open immigration policies plus the influx of Hungarian refugees produced a total of 282,184, highest since about 400,000 in 1913.

The population gain of 198,000 in the first half of this year is estimated to include 55,000 immigrants, indicating the total will drop another notch this year. However, it probably still will be close to the long-term average.

Also included in the six-month gain is the natural increase—births minus deaths—of 177,000, and the estimated emigration of 31,000 Canadians going to other countries, about the same rate as in the last two years.

The one-year gain of 397,000 since July 1, 1958, compares with increases in the previous 12-month periods of 435,000 in 1958, 532,000 in 1957 and 382,000 in 1958.

All provinces shared in the increase of 198,000 in the January-July period.

Ontario continued to report the biggest growth with a boost of 81,000 to 5,968,000. Second was Quebec, up 56,000 to 5,011,000.

Alberta was third with a gain of 19
