Home Accidents Here In 1962 Took High Toll

By RALPH CAMERON
There were 10 fatalities as a result of accidents in homes in this province last year. P. G. MacLaren, president of the National Safety League, said yesterday.

Mr. MacLaren, longtime vice-commander with the RCAF, is here in the hope of interesting local government, particularly the departments of health and agriculture, in providing both statistical and financial assistance to the national program.

The original organization became inactive during the Second World War, but on its completion was revived and taken over by the Canadian Highway Safety Council. Since then various organizations throughout the country asked for a broadening of the accident base from just traffic accidents.

As a result the league is now concerned with accidents concerning children, home, water, recreation and farms. It was noted there had been great concentration on traffic accidents while those occurring in homes were being neglected.

At the same time Mr. MacLaren pointed out they were not concerned with accidents concerning children, home, water, recreation and farms. It was noted there had been great concentration on traffic accidents while those occurring in homes were being neglected.

The league, as constituted, is financed by industry, business, insurance companies and the federal government. It is currently touring the province in the hope of interesting the governments by explaining league aims and objectives.

P.E.I. ONLY FIFTH
Mr. MacLaren said this province rated only eighth among Canada's 10 in overall deaths on the basis of 100,000 population.

League records, he stated, indicate a majority of fatalities resulting from home accidents came from elderly people who were and were largely the result of what he termed "poor housekeeping".

He said that the most common cause of accidents was slipping on rugs or children's toys left lying around.

Top Island Plovers At Canadian Matches

Representing this province in the Canadian plover championship matches, Stanley Willis, Cornwall, and Edwin McNeil, Bay Fortune, are in Caledon, Ontario, this week.

Mr. Willis won the Prince Edward Island title last year at the provincial match held near O'Leary, and Mr. McNeil was runner up. This year Carl Willis, a research officer at the Experimental Farm here, was the provincial champion.

Mr. Willis again was the runner up. But it is the 1962 champion, Fredrick, N.B., who will represent this province in the 1963 matches which will be held in 1964 when it is expected, though it is not definite, that the Canadian championship matches will be held in Charlottetown.

Both of the Island contestants are experienced plovers who have competed previously in Canadian championships. Mr. Willis was third some years ago and represented this country at the world championship match in Peebles, Ohio when one of the first Canadian finishers could not make the trip. Mr. Willis was the top-placing Canadian at Peebles on that occasion.

Mr. Willis and Mr. McNeil left Friday for the Ontario centre. Mr. Willis made the trip with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Willis.

Barry Wilson, Cornwall one of the top competitive plovers in the 1962 championship, was runner up. He was also runner up in the 1961 championship. Mr. Willis was runner up in the 1960 championship.

Ships Piling Up In River Ports

By GEORGE FRAJOR
MONTREAL (CP) — The lineup of idle ships at St. Lawrence River ports stretched a little longer Tuesday as negotiations resumed between shipowners, a federal mediator, and striking longshoremen.

Sixty ships were in Montreal harbor Tuesday. There were 41 last Friday when 3,900 members of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) went on strike and closed the ports of Montreal, Quebec City, Trois-Rivières and Sorel.

Thirty of the ships, some waiting at berth and some anchored in the river, were ocean-going vessels. Three were Russian freighters and two others were ships chartered by the Russian government to pick up part of the 60,000,000 bushels of wheat and flour Russia was set through St. Lawrence ports.

Two other Russian freighters waited at Quebec.

Montreal grain elevators are slowly filling up but grain traffic from the Lakehead has not yet been delayed.

There is still room for 4,500,000 bushels of grain in Montreal-area elevators which have a total capacity of 22,900,000 bushels.

The passenger liner Empress of Canada was turned back from Quebec without discharging her 425 passengers and headed toward the port of Montreal.

Normally the Empress docks at Montreal and striking longshoremen sent a 300-man delegation to meet Labor Minister MacEachen in Ottawa Tuesday to press the union's demand that the strike be settled by collective bargaining and not by government action.

Mr. MacEachen subsequently made a statement in the Commons that the government had made every attempt to hamper a settlement by threatening compulsory arbitration.

The union cut down its original demands considerably after a membership meeting Sunday, apparently to insist more on fringe benefits rather than a straight wage increase.
