Special Sale Will Mark Store Under New Owner

A special sale marks the official opening today of the F. J. MacDonald Grocery Store on the corner of Kent and Prince streets under its new management.

The new owner is Wilfred Cudmore, a merchant of wide experience in the field of grocery merchandising. Mr. Cudmore is also proprietor of Cudmore's Cash Grocery on the corner of Elm Avenue and Euston Street.

In announcing the official opening of his new store, Mr. Cudmore emphasized that his other store would remain in operation under the management of his son Bill Cudmore.

"The present business of Cudmore's Cash Grocery will continue to operate as usual at the same location with the help of my son Bill and the present efficient staff," Mr. Cudmore stated.

Mr. Cudmore can lay claim to a long background in the grocery field extending back 31 years. He entered the business as a youth. In 1936 Wilfred's father W. J. Cudmore purchased Cudmore's Cash Grocery from his two brothers, and from then until the present time Wilfred has managed the present store on Elm Avenue.

In reviewing his purchase of the old and well established firm of F. J. MacDonald, he said, "We hope to retain the good will and business of Mr. MacDonald's customers. The policy of the new store will be the same as before. We stand ready to cater to people in all walks of life extending to them the same degree of courtesy and fast, efficient service which has always been our policy. In our new store we will be able to offer household goods at greater savings than ever before."

At his new store, Mr. Cudmore will employ a staff of 10 trained employees familiar with the wants and needs of customers. For a time he will also have available the services and advice of the store's former owner B. Earle MacDonald.

U.S. Secret China Papers Released By State Dept.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States State Department has released its controversial China papers of 1948, including diplomatic dispatches critical of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Second World War effort.

Also released was a long-hurled report from Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley to the late president Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Publication of the 801 pages of documents was held up for at least five years, officials said, because their release might prove offensive to the Nationalist Chinese president now on Formosa.

Relations between Chiang and Washington still are delicate. U.S. Ambassador Everett S. Frost has returned home from Formosa for reasons not disclosed but presumably due to opposition to release of the China papers.

HAD GRAVE DOUBTS

The Hurley report to Roosevelt said Chiang had grave doubts about attending a summit meeting with the late Joseph Stalin because of Russia's desire to commune China.

"I told him," Hurley said, "that in my opinion Marshal Stalin is now committed to the proposition that communism can succeed in Russia alone without an attempt being made to force it on the rest of the world."

"I said also in my opinion Russia is no longer subsidizing or directing Communist activities in other nations," Hurley reported in a dispatch from Cairo.

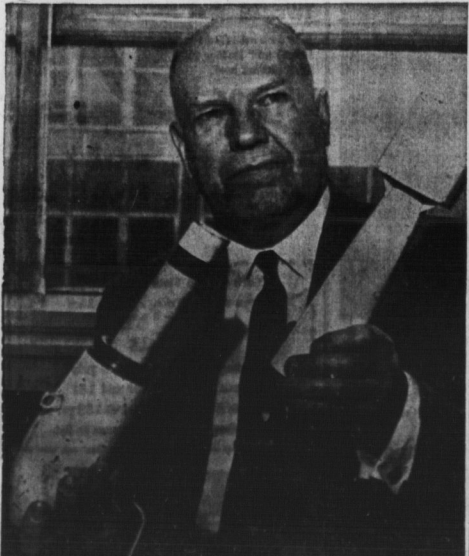

Hurley figured in charges aired during hearings of the late senator Joseph McCarthy that the state department and particularly some of its representatives in China during the Second World War had been responsible for withholding aid and handing China over to the Communists.

ONE WAS FIRED

The most direct criticism of Chiang's policies came from John Paton Davies Jr., a career diplomat who was fired by the late state secretary John Foster Dulles Nov. 5, 1954 on grounds that he lacked "judgment, discretion and reliability."

Davies, who had been accused by Hurley of sabotaging a policy of U.S. aid to China, said on his dismissal that he would be "content to let history be my judge."

In a memorandum March 9, 1945 Davies told the U.S. ambassador to China, Clarence K. Gaus, that "China's policy is to remain technically in the war so as to be able to sit at the peace table as a 'fighting' ally to expend as little of its strength as possible and to rely on other members of the United Nations—primarily the United States—to defeat Japan."

Kerr-Addison Co. Sees End Of Cre

TORONTO (CP)—W. S. Row, president, Kerr-Addison Gold Mines Ltd., northern Ontario gold producer, says his company has enough ore left for 3.2 years if extraction continues at the same rate as in 1961.

Mr. Row said that despite continuing exploration no new ore has been developed. Ore reserves in 1961 totalled 14.9 per cent to 7,761,063 tons.

Net profit—as previously reported—was $4,523,017 or 86 cents a share compared with $3,266,062 and $1.12 in 1966.

London Exchange Breaks Tradition

LONDON (Reuters)—The London Stock Exchange shattered a centuries-old tradition here by announcing it has decided to advertise its services.

The move follows an advertising campaign in British newspapers by the American stockbroking firm of Merrill Lynch offering its services for buying shares in all states.

But the exchange advertisements will only be a corporate campaign to "educate the people" as to what the stock exchange does.

New Mining Co. Formed

TORONTO (CP)—The Gold Fields group of the United Kingdom and South Africa announces the formation of a new company to invest and participate in mining and industrial development in Canada.

The new company, to be known as Newcontex Holdings Ltd., will be an autonomous subsidiary of the Gold Fields group and controlled by directors in Toronto.

Sir George Harney—Watt, chairman of Consolidated Gold Fields of Canada Ltd., the group's U.K.-based parent company, said formation of Newcontex "marks the beginning of an important new phase in the exploration of the group's business in Canada."

The new company will have an authorized capital of 4,000,000 par $1 shares and is offering 250,000 shares to the Canadian public at $5 a share. Gold Fields Mining and Industrial Ltd., a member of the group, has already subscribed for 450,000 shares at $5 each.

3 NCOs Fined For Smuggling

OTTAWA (CP)—Three non-commissioned army officers have each been fined $100 for a severe reprimand for smuggling opium and gold in Indochina. Defence Minister Harkness said Wednesday in the Commons.

He gave their names as Sgt. J. A. Champagne, Sgt. W. B. Galt and Col. A. J. Hill.

Mr. Harkness said the three were summarily convicted by their commanding officer in Indochina.

Consideration was being given to their "summary release" from the army.

OTHERS INVOLVED

The minister said charges are pending against other army personnel for the smuggling racket.

The government had announced earlier that nine persons—seven soldiers and two civilians—had been caught smuggling white serving with the international trade supervisory commission in Indochina.

In Canada, the maximum penalty for opium trafficking is life imprisonment. Under the National Defence Act, the maximum sentence which can be imposed by summary conviction is three months in jail.

FRIGATE, SUB COLLIDE

GIBRALTAR (Reuters)—The British frigate Rothesay and a Turkish submarine were damaged when they collided in the Straits of Gibraltar Wednesday.

The Rothesay was coming from anchorage to take part in NATO anti-submarine exercises when the collision occurred. The Turkish submarine was on the surface. The submarine's commander suffered a broken leg while two other men were slightly injured.

Britain, S.A. Press Rates Kept Lower

LONDON (Reuters)—Press telegraph rates between Britain and South Africa will not be raised to the full foreign rate now that South Africa has left the Commonwealth.

Peter Thomas, joint parliamentary undersecretary for foreign affairs, told a parliamentary committee Tuesday the rate would be kept below the foreign rate, seven pence (about seven cents) a word, to avoid hindering the understanding of points of view, policies and intentions between Britain and South Africa.

He said the ordinary rate between Britain and Commonwealth countries was penny a word and the new South African rate would be somewhere between the Commonwealth and foreign rate.

LABOR UNIONS

Almost 1,400,000 men and women throughout Canada were members of labor unions in 1966.
