Brief Snow Storm In Montague Area

Saturday night the Montague area was visited by a passing storm which, after weeks of fine weather, finally brought a light touch of snow.

After waiting for weeks with the growth of hay and grass restarting according to reports from several farmers, the fields took on their first appearance of the Yuletide season, to kindle in the hearts of those who belatedly thought of Christmas, the warmth of friendliness and kindness to their fellowman.

It seems that everyone enjoys a white Christmas, but from the appearance of the past fall, it was becoming doubtful if snow would arrive here before the new year. However, the scene is now a happier one with the snow laden fields and lanes, and as one passes, he may hear the singing of Christmas carols to lighten the burden of his trouble-weary mind.

In assisting to create the Yuletide effect, the appearance of Christmas trees decorated with multi-colored lights, has added much to the expression of Christmas. As one walks the main street of Montague, he is made welcome by the shimmering beacons which shine forth from the windows where the Christmas tree gaily stands, or again from the lights on the trees which have been placed outside on the lawns in front of the houses.

A novel approach this year is the placing of the Christmas tree above the front entrance of stores and homes to create an effect which should help to welcome old Santa as he goes on his long journey Christmas eve. As every store and home here in Montague will undoubtedly be decorating a tree either inside the home or outside this week before Christmas, the passers-by will have the opportunity of witnessing and breathing the very atmosphere of this happy Yuletide season, the season when every one is a neighbor to his fellowman.

Saturday night's snow extended only as far as Pownal. In the Charlottetown area yesterday the ground was bare.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. LOUISA JANE WILLIS BUELL

The death occurred at Murray Harbour on Friday evening, December 1st, 1950 of Mrs. Louisa Jane Willis Buell at the age of 83 years. The deceased had been in failing health for about a year. Previous to that she was never known to be sick.

Her husband predeceased her a year ago at the age of 92 years. Her life was a page easily read. To the modern frailties of life she paid scant attention. Religion, home and work, these three claimed all her attention. As a student of the Bible, she had few equals. As a believer, no doubts and as a friend and neighbour no faults.

She courageously assisted her husband in carving out a home from the forest in Abney, where she lived until shortly before her death when she moved to Murray Harbour to live with her son. Here she was tenderly cared for until God called her to Eternal rest.

Rev. Wallace MacPherson of the United Church, Murray Harbour frequently visited her and conducted the funeral service in the church on Sunday, December 3rd. She leaves to mourn Everett, teacher at Ocean View; Alice, (Mrs. William Arnold) Murray Harbour; Blanche, cook on the Prince Nova Ferry; and Meneta at Charlottetown. Two children Colin and Charlotte predeceased her. One sister, Emily, Mrs. Wm. Gordon still survives. Interment was in the Murray River Cemetery by the side of her husband. Thus passes a worthy woman fulfilling a life as the Master planned it.
